MacArthur Failed To Heed JCS Advice, Collins Says

Pentagon Didn't Want Yanks Sent Near Manchuria

New, Top Secret War Plan Is Being Mapped

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins testified today that Gen. MacArthur went against Pentagon policy in Korea when he sent U. S. troops near the Manchurian border last fall.

Collins said MacArthur failed to heed the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that he halt the United Nations advance some five miles south of the Korea-Manchuria border.

The Chief off Staff's first day of testimony to senators investigating MacArthur's dismissal brought sharp challenges from some Republicans. They said he contradicted the testimony of Secretary of Defense Marshall and Gen. Omar N. Bradley that MacArthur never disobeyed a military directive.

Collins himself said MacArthur's conduct was not considered "blatant disregard of orders."

Collins Called Back

The senators called Collins back for further questioning tomorrow a. m. (EST). Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) said he expected the General could complete his testimony tomorrow afternoon.

Collins testified early in the day that the Pentagon will issue shortly a new, top secret plan for carrying on the war in Korea. He wouldn't

MacArthur's Aide Contradicts Collins

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—An aide said tonight that Gen. Douglas MacArthur was never restrained directly or indirectly from sending American troops to the Yalu River in Korea last November.

The statement by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney contradicted testimony in Washington earlier by Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins.

Collins did not accuse MacArthur of disobeying orders.

He did accuse the ousted Far Eastern commander of failure to heed advice from the Joint Chiefs of Staff that he halt United Nations forces some five miles south of the Manchurian border.

Small Retailers Are Given Break Under OPS Order

100,000 Need Not File Pricing Charts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The government today relieved about 100,000 small retail stores, including many hardware stores, from filing detailed pricing charts under the retailers' ceiling price regulation.

The order by the Office of Price Stabilization gives these small retailers the option of pricing their goods under the retailers' regulation or continuing to price under the general freeze at levels in effect from last Dec. 19 through Jan. 25.

Not Exempt From Controls

Both the types of goods sold under the regulation and the volume of business done by each small retailer must be taken into consideration to determine whether a small retailer is exempt from chart filing provisions, the OPS said.

OPS made clear that the relief amendment in no way exempts any store from price controls.

A supplementary pricing ordered will be issued the first of next week —probaby Monday — giving small retailers remaining under general freeze prices some relief where their margin have been cut down by increased costs, the announcement said.

Other Retailers Warned

At the same time, OPS warned that all other retailers, estimated at 195,000, selling items controlled under the retailers' regulation and not eligible to remain under the general freeze must file their pricing charts by May 31. An additional day is granted because the effective date of May 30 is a holiday.

Retailers who must file the charts cannot continue to sell their goods legally after May 31 without filing. OPS said there will be no extension of that deadline.

Democrats Pick Chicago As 1952 Convention City

Two Weeks Following Republican Conclave

DENVER, May 25 (AP) — Amid predictions of a "sweeping victory" in 1952, Democrats voted 83 to 16 today to nominate their presidential candidate in Chicago next year.

William M. Boyle, Jr., national chairman, who told delegates they must be prepared to meet a Republican "smear" campaign next year, said the convention will open on July 21 next year.

This would follow the Republican national convention by two weeks. There were indications that the Democrats either will pick President Truman as their standardbearer again or be strongly influenced by any other choice he makes.

Philadelphia Loses Out

Philadelphia adherents fought to the last for the convention but finally made it unanimous.

Boyle told national committee members in an address prepared for a windup banquet that his surveys of voting trends and reports from party workers "point conclusively to another sweeping Democratic victory in the 1952 election."

He said, however, that the party had better be prepared to defend its record vigorously against Republicans he charged are trying to "confuse and delude" the voters.

"We are faced with an opposition which has nothing to offer the people of this country except slander, smears and empty slogans," he declared.

Maryland Election Cited

He said the Maryland election of last year in which Sen. Butler, Republican, defeated former Sen. Tydings, Democrat, demonstrated that "Republican leaders of this country are willing to resort to the use of imported political conspirators to corrupt an election."

Jon Jonkel, Chicago publicity man who campaigned for Butler, faces charges of violating Maryland election laws following an investigation by a Senate Elections subcommittee.

Iran's Premier Warns Britain

TEHRAN, Iran, May 25 (AP) — In an emotion-packed news conference punctuated by spells of weeping, Premier Mohammed Mossadegh said today Iran will "fight to the end" for oil nationalization.

He warned that any attempt by Britain or any other country to block his government's move to take over Iran's vast oil resources — including those held by the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company — "will soon bring the entire free world to the brink of disaster."

(Britain announced she is sending the trouble-shooting 16th Parachute Brigade Group of 4,000 men to Cyprus — within easy striking distance of Iran — to strengthen her Mediterranean garrison. Top British officials in London do not conceal the connection between the dispatch of the specially trained troops and the oil crisis in Iran. Although the British hope Iran's nationalist leaders will negotiate a new oil deal, they have made it clear they will use all means necessary — including last-resort military measures — to protect British lives and property against violence.

(Authoritative sources in Berlin said Gregory Pushkin, Soviet ambassador to East Germany, has told Communist supporters Russia would resist the entry of foreign troops in the Iranian oil crisis.)

175,000 Draft-Age College Students Take Exam Today

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Approximately 175,000 college men from all over the United States will enter classrooms tomorrow for tests that can determine whether they'll stay in college or be drafted for military service.

It's the first test of its kind in the history of the United States and probably the largest mass examination ever undertaken. The students will be scribbling answers at more than 1,000 test centers.

Here's the setup:

Deferments have been granted until Aug. 20 for about 500,000 draft-age college students in order for them to take the tests tomorrow, June 16, June 30 or July 13. They had until midnight tonight to apply for the test.

Their scores will be sent to local draft boards within a month after the examinations. The marks will be used along with college grades in helping the draft board determine who should remain in college and who should enter the armed services.

The most experienced bunch of quiz masters in the field — the educational testing service in Princeton, N. J. — has drawn up the questions. All of the staff have doctor of philosophy degrees. The service is conducting the exams and will grade them, using the latest electronic calculating machines in the process

Road And Yard Employes Win Pay Increases

Yardmen Get Hike Of 33 Cents Hour

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The nation's railroads settled a 26-month-old dispute tonight with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen but still were deadlocked with three other key operating unions of firemen, conductors and engineers.

Settlement with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen was announced tonight granting a 33-cent hourly increase to yard workers now averaging $1.55 an hour and an 18½ cent increase to those in road service now getting $1.60 an hour.

These increases, the announcement said, include the hourly increases of 12½ cents to yardmen and five cents to roadmen previously announced, and retroactive to Oct. 1.

40-Hour Week Deferred

The previous increases were authorized by the Army, which has been technically operating the railroads since last August. President Truman ordered them taken over when a threat of a strike seemed likely to paralyze operations.

Another provision in the settlement calls for the 40-hour week to be established in principle for yardmen, but both the unions and the railroads have agreed, under present emergency conditions and manpower shortages, to defer that until January 1, 1952.

In the meantime workers on the individual railroads will have the option of working either the present seven day week or going to a six day week.

The option to work a six-day week may be exercised by serving a three-month notice upon the railroad.

Escalator Clause

When the 40-hour week becomes effective, the yardmen are to receive a four cents an hour increase.

An escalator clause gearing wages to changes in the government's cost of living index was included in the agreement.

"Wages will go up or down one cent an hour for each one point change in the cost of living index. The index base will be 178. These wage changes will be made quarterly beginning with April 1, 1951," the announcement said.

There will be a three-year moratorium on proposals for changes in wages and rules governing working conditions from Oct. 1, 1950.

Today's agreement calls for President Truman to appoint a referee to decide differences between the unions and the railroads over coupling car hoses and over pay for road service employes doing more than one type of work on a single trip.

Tax Bill Adopted By House Group

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A bill designed to increase taxes by $7,100,000,000 a year—maybe more—was tentatively approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

If finally enacted, it will lay a considerably heavier load on individual income taxpayers, corporations, and scores of items subject to federal excise taxes.

The estimated total revenue increase is far from firm. Staff experts said it may hit $7,200,000,000. This compares with the $10,000,000,000 asked by President Truman to keep the rearmament drive on a pay-as-we-go basis.

Roughly, the bulk of the added revenue is expected to come from the following sources:

Individual income tax, $2,900,000,000. A flat 12½ per cent increase for everybody.

Corporations, $2,800,000,000. The regular tax rate would be raised five percentage points, a larger portion of earnings would be made subject to the excess profits tax, and the overall ceiling on the amount of all kinds of taxes that could be levied against a company would be increased from 62 percent of net earnings to 70 percent.

Excise tax increases and additions, $1,000,000,000. Rates would go up on liquor, cigarets, gasoline and automobiles, and new categories of household appliances would be taxed.

Withholding at the source on dividends and interest, $400,000,000.

Atomic Chiefs Indicate H-Bomb Experiments Held At Eniwetok

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — U. S. atomic chiefs threw out a dramatic hint today that the first tests of some kind of hydrogen bomb—perhaps the forerunner of a true "super bomb"—have just been successfully completed.

The announcement, perhaps forshadowing American possession of the world's most powerful and destructive weapon, said:

"A program of atomic weapons tests has been successfully carried out" at the super-secret Eniwetok proving grounds in the Pacific.

Then came the ten key words:

"The test program included experiments contributing to thermonuclear weapons research."

Tests Cost $100,000,000

"Thermonuclear weapons" means hydrogen bombs.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department, in a joint, guardedly-worded announcement, did not state that an H-bomb had been developed and detonated during the tests—which reportedly cost $100,000,000 and involved thousands of personnel.

It said President Truman had been notified of the success of the tests.

Significantly, it also pointed out that the "thermonuclear weapons" phase of the tests had been carried out "in furtherance of the President's announcement of January 31, 1950."

That was the date when Mr. Truman ordered the AEC "to continue its work on all forms of atomic weapons, including the so-called hydrogen or super-bomb."

"Hell Bomb" May Be Reality

The fact that the thermonuclear "experiments" were conducted in connection with tests of so-called orthodox a-bombs of the uranium or plutonium variety indicates that at least a small amount of potentially explosive hydrogen may have been "wrapped around" an a-bomb —and successfully detonated.

If so, the "hell bomb" may now be an actual reality.

Top scientists have speculated that an a-bomb would be used to "trigger" the h-bomb, because it would offer the best possibility of providing the terrific heat necessary to fuse hydrogen atoms. This fusion would set off a tremendous blast of atomic energy.

Collins Urges Support Of U. N. Peace Efforts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins told the Senate's MacArthur inquiry today he has "seen too much of these damnable wars."

The four-star General said he believes this country should do all "within reason" to support the efforts of the United Nations to stop wars. He added:

"It may be effective, but, by God, until it is proven completely ineffective, I think we ought to do everything in our power to make it work."

Syndicate Buys Tallest Building

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — A multi-million dollar syndicate has arranged to buy the Empire State building, the tallest in the world and one of the most profitable.

The reported sale price is $50,000,000 or just about what it cost to erect the 102-story building 20 years ago.

The purchasers are Roger L. Stevens and Alfred R. Glancy, Jr., Detroit real estate men, and Ben Tobin, Hollywood Beach, Fla., luxury hotel owner. They have swung big real estate deals together before.

The bulk of the stock in the queen of all Manhattan skyscrapers is held by the estate of the late financier, John J. Raskob. He died last October.

A portion of the proceeds of the sale will go to pay inheritance taxes on his estate and to endow a foundation dedicated to Catholic charity.

The syndicate hopes to buy out other minor stockholders before the end of the year.

Arias' Ouster Official

PANAMA, Panama, May 25 (AP)—The National Assembly voted unanimously tonight to remove deposed President Arnulfo Arias from office.

Arias was tried on impeachment charges growing out of his attempt early this month to switch constitutions. His action touched off a wave of bloody violence in which 18 persons died.

23 Missing In Capsizing Of Navy Boat

NEWPORT, R. I., May 25 (AP)—A death toll of 16—and possibly 25—was indicated by the Navy today after an emergency roll call aboard five vessels in the wake of a motor launch sinking.

The launch, with 135 sailors aboard, went down Thursday morning in seas lashed by a northeast gale as it was returning men to five vessels after overnight shore leave.

Two men were known dead and 26 hospitalized shortly after scores of dramatic rescues in which shipmates from other launches dived overboard to aid. The Navy said most of the men in the capsized 50-foot craft were able to grab life jackets before she went down when heavy seas overwhelmed the bow.

Today the Navy reported 23 men missing. Of that number the Navy said 13 were definitely aboard the lost launch and one other could have been.

The remaining ten were "unaccounted for" altogether, the Navy said, but presumably could have been among the victims. The only other possibility was that "several" of them were absent without leave, a spokesman for the destroyer command Atlantic fleet reported.

Marines Will Begin Releasing Reservists

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The first group of Marine Corps reservists will be released from active duty next month, corps headquarters announced today.

The first group will include reserves classified as veterans who were recalled to duty before last August 1, those who are veterans of World War Two or who will be 26 years or older before this coming July 1.

Men qualifying under these headings will be released between June 11 and June 30. The order also applies to Marine reservists now fighting in Korea.

13-Year-Old Memphis Youth Wins National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Irving Belz, a cocky, little 13-year-old from Memphis, Tenn., calmly and seemingly without a care spelled "insouciant" today to become the champion of the 24th annual National Spelling Bee.

Appropriately, insouciant means "without anxiety, carefree."

Irving got his big chance when the runnerup, Michael Aratingi, Brooklyn, tried to put a "q" at the start of cuisine, meaning "kitchen, or a style of cooking."

Irving, resplendent in plaid shirt, blue shoes, pink shoe laces and chartreuse socks, spelled cuisine correctly, and insouciant, too, as the rules demand, to become the champion.

In all, he spelled 27 words—every one a toughie—to win the first prize of $500 and a trip to New York City.

Mike Aratingi, the 13-year-old Brooklyn boy, who couldn't have used a trip to New York anyway, pocketed $300 for the 24 words he spelled correctly.

Mary Anne Bechkowiak, 13, Akron, Ohio, won the third place money—$100—for the 23 words she knew. She missed on "grosgrain"—leaving out the "s" and adding an "e". In case you don't use grosgrain in everyday conversation, it means "heavy, corded silk or rayon ribbon or cloth.

Allies Strive To Sever Red Escape Route

Foe Fights Suicide Rear-Guard Battles

TOKYO, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—The Allied offensive smashed ahead today all across the Korean peninsula. Armored columns thrust deeper into Red North Korea in hot pursuit of the retreating Communists.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters that some Chinese are fighting suicidal rearguard battles in efforts to keep open a six-mile escape route near parallel 38 on the east-central front.

Chinese prisoners themselves reported many Reds are committing suicide deliberately rather than face continued Allied bombing or risk being shot by their own officers for retreating.

The heaviest fighting apparently was on the Hangye-Inje road on the east central front, some 25 air miles inland from the east coast. United Nations armored columns already were four miles inside Red Korea in that sector.

Allies Hope To Trap 60,000

The Allies were battling to cut off the retreat of an estimated two Chinese army corps, some 60,000 men. Fifth Air Force planes and Allied artillery pounded the escape route incessantly.

In addition to smashing across parallel 38 in the Inje area, United Nations tank-infantry teams Friday crossed the old political boundary in at least two other places.

Against spotty resistance, Allied columns thrust into Red Korea northwest of Chunchon, 45 air miles northeast of Seoul, and northeast of Uijongbu, which is 11 miles north of the old Korean capital.

Field dispatches said those two columns withdrew at dusk Friday to the advancing main allied line.

38th "Nothing" To Van Fleet

He said the Chinese Reds were clogging escape routes with their pack animals, artillery pieces and whatever other equipment they could salvage from the steadily advancing allies.

A tank task force smashed through a Communist road block on the east-central front late Friday and linked up with American troops expanding their bridgehead in Red Korea near Inje.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported that American infantry engaged the Reds northeast of Hangye in hand-to-hand combat twice Friday afternoon. Hangye is 13 miles south of the parallel.

Off the east coast, the U. S. battleship New Jersey and other Allied warships hammered Red supply lines from the port of Wonsan northward. Carrier planes joined Fifth Air Force fighters and bombers in harassing the retreating Reds.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, called the new surge of Allied might "an all-out offensive," and added:

"The 38th parallel means nothing to me."

He visited a tank-infantry task force north of 38 on the east-central front and commented that the Allied pursuit tactics were working well.

Gen. Collins Would Call More Guard Units Into Service

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, told senators today he has recommended that additional National Guard troops be called into federal service this year.

He did not say how many.

Collins mentioned this while testifying at Senate hearings on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Two weeks ago the National Guard Bureau said it was possible that some additional National Guard divisions would be called into service after July. Six divisions, two regimental combat teams and numerous smaller guard units are now in service.

Collins' recommendation was to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

1,025,000 Red Casualties

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, testified today the Communists have paid a toll of 1,025,000 casualties in the Korean war, 90,000 of them between May 17 and 23.

"Wages will go up or down one cent an hour for each one point change in the cost of living index. The index base will be 178. These wage changes will be made quarterly beginning with April 1, 1951," the announcement said.

There will be a three-year moratorium on proposals for changes in wages and rules governing working conditions from Oct. 1, 1950.

Today's agreement calls for President Truman to appoint a referee to decide differences between the unions and the railroads over coupling car hoses and over pay for road service employes doing more than one type of work on a single trip.

Tax Bill Adopted By House Group

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A bill designed to increase taxes by $7,100,000,000 a year—maybe more—was tentatively approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

If finally enacted, it will lay a considerably heavier load on individual income taxpayers, corporations, and scores of items subject to federal excise taxes.

The estimated total revenue increase is far from firm. Staff experts said it may hit $7,200,000,000. This compares with the $10,000,000,000 asked by President Truman to keep the rearmament drive on a pay-as-we-go basis.

Roughly, the bulk of the added revenue is expected to come from the following sources:

Individual income tax, $2,900,000,000. A flat 12½ per cent increase for everybody.

Corporations, $2,800,000,000. The regular tax rate would be raised five percentage points, a larger portion of earnings would be made subject to the excess profits tax, and the overall ceiling on the amount of all kinds of taxes that could be levied against a company would be increased from 62 percent of net earnings to 70 percent.

Excise tax increases and additions, $1,000,000,000. Rates would go up on liquor, cigarets, gasoline and automobiles, and new categories of household appliances would be taxed.

Withholding at the source on dividends and interest, $400,000,000.

Spelling Champ Gets Hug And Kiss

Atomic Chiefs Indicate H-Bomb Experiments Held At Eniwetok

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — U. S. atomic chiefs threw out a dramatic hint today that the first tests of some kind of hydrogen bomb—perhaps the forerunner of a true "super bomb"—have just been successfully completed.

The announcement, perhaps foreshadowing American possession of the world's most powerful and destructive weapon, said:

"A program of atomic weapons tests has been successfully carried out" at the super-secret Eniwetok proving grounds in the Pacific.

Then came the ten key words:

Tests Cost $100,000,000

"Thermonuclear weapons" means hydrogen bombs.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department, in a joint, guardedly-worded announcement, did not state that an H-bomb had been developed and detonated during the tests—which reportedly cost $100,000,000 and involved thousands of personnel.

It said President Truman had been notified of the success of the tests.

Significantly, it also pointed out that the "thermonuclear weapons" phase of the tests had been carried out "in furtherance of the President's announcement of January 31, 1950."

That was the date when Mr. Truman ordered the AEC "to continue its work on all forms of atomic weapons, including the so-called hydrogen or super-bomb."

"Hell Bomb" May Be Reality

The fact that the thermonuclear "experiments" were conducted in connection with tests of so-called orthodox a-bombs of the uranium or plutonium variety indicates that at least a small amount of potentially explosive hydrogen may have been "wrapped around" an a-bomb —and successfully detonated.

If so, the "hell bomb" may now be an actual reality.

Top scientists have speculated that an a-bomb would be used to "trigger" the h-bomb, because it would offer the best possibility of providing the terrific heat necessary to fuse hydrogen atoms. This fusion would set off a tremendous blast of atomic energy.

Collins Urges Support Of U. N. Peace Efforts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins told the Senate's MacArthur inquiry today he has "seen too much of these damnable wars."

The four-star General said he believes this country should do all "within reason" to support the efforts of the United Nations to stop wars. He added:

"It may be effective, but, by God, until it is proven completely ineffective, I think we ought to do everything in our power to make it work."

Syndicate Buys Tallest Building

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — A multi-million dollar syndicate has arranged to buy the Empire State building, the tallest in the world and one of the most profitable.

The reported sale price is $50,000,000 or just about what it cost to erect the 102-story building 20 years ago.

The purchasers are Roger L. Stevens and Alfred R. Glancy, Jr., Detroit real estate men, and Ben Tobin, Hollywood Beach, Fla., luxury hotel owner. They have swung big real estate deals together before.

The bulk of the stock in the queen of all Manhattan skyscrapers is held by the estate of the late financier, John J. Raskob. He died last October.

A portion of the proceeds of the sale will go to pay inheritance taxes on his estate and to endow a foundation dedicated to Catholic charity.

The syndicate hopes to buy out other minor stockholders before the end of the year.

Arias' Ouster Official

PANAMA, Panama, May 25 (AP)—The National Assembly voted unanimously tonight to remove deposed President Arnulfo Arias from office.

Arias was tried on impeachment charges growing out of his attempt early this month to switch constitutions. His action touched off a wave of bloody violence in which 18 persons died.

23 Missing In Capsizing Of Navy Boat

NEWPORT, R. I., May 25 (AP)—A death toll of 16—and possibly 25—was indicated by the Navy today after an emergency roll call aboard five vessels in the wake of a motor launch sinking.

The launch, with 135 sailors aboard, went down Thursday morning in seas lashed by a northeast gale as it was returning men to five vessels after overnight shore leave.

Two men were known dead and 26 hospitalized shortly after scores of dramatic rescues in which shipmates from other launches dived overboard to aid. The Navy said most of the men in the capsized 50-foot craft were able to grab life jackets before she went down when heavy seas overwhelmed the bow.

Today the Navy reported 23 men missing. Of that number the Navy said 13 were definitely aboard the lost launch and one other could have been.

The remaining ten were "unaccounted for" altogether, the Navy said, but presumably could have been among the victims. The only other possibility was that "several" of them were absent without leave, a spokesman for the destroyer command Atlantic fleet reported.

Marines Will Begin Releasing Reservists

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The first group of Marine Corps reservists will be released from active duty next month, corps headquarters announced today.

The first group will include reserves classified as veterans who were recalled to duty before last August 1, those who are veterans of World War Two or who will be 26 years or older before this coming July 1.

Men qualifying under these headings will be released between June 11 and June 30. The order also applies to Marine reservists now fighting in Korea.

13-Year-Old Memphis Youth Wins National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Irving Belz, a cocky, little 13-year-old from Memphis, Tenn., calmly and seemingly without a care spelled "insouciant" today to become the champion of the 24th annual National Spelling Bee.

Appropriately, insouciant means "without anxiety, carefree."

Irving got his big chance when the runnerup, Michael Aratingi, Brooklyn, tried to put a "q" at the start of cuisine, meaning "kitchen, or a style of cooking."

Irving, resplendent in plaid shirt, blue shoes, pink shoe laces and chartreuse socks, spelled cuisine correctly, and insouciant, too, as the rules demand, to become the champion.

In all, he spelled 27 words—every one a toughie—to win the first prize of $500 and a trip to New York City.

Mike Aratingi, the 13-year-old Brooklyn boy, who couldn't have used a trip to New York anyway, pocketed $300 for the 24 words he spelled correctly.

Mary Anne Bechkowiak, 13, Akron, Ohio, won the third place money—$100—for the 23 words she knew. She missed on "grosgrain"—leaving out the "s" and adding an "e". In case you don't use grosgrain in everyday conversation, it means "heavy, corded silk or rayon ribbon or cloth."

Allies Strive To Sever Red Escape Route

Foe Fights Suicide Rear-Guard Battles

TOKYO, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—The Allied offensive smashed ahead today all across the Korean peninsula. Armored columns thrust deeper into Red North Korea in hot pursuit of the retreating Communists.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters that some Chinese are fighting suicidal rear-guard battles in efforts to keep open a six-mile escape route near parallel 38 on the east-central front.

Chinese prisoners themselves reported many Reds are committing suicide deliberately rather than face continued Allied bombing or risk being shot by their own officers for retreating.

The heaviest fighting apparently was on the Hangye-Inje road on the east central front, some 25 air miles inland from the east coast. United Nations armored columns already were four miles inside Red Korea in that sector.

Allies Hope To Trap 60,000

The Allies were battling to cut off the retreat of an estimated two Chinese army corps, some 60,000 men. Fifth Air Force planes and Allied artillery pounded the escape route incessantly.

In addition to smashing across parallel 38 in the Inje area, United Nations tank-infantry teams Friday crossed the old political boundary in at least two other places.

Against spotty resistance, Allied columns thrust into Red Korea northwest of Chunchon, 45 air miles northeast of Seoul, and northeast of Uijongbu, which is 11 miles north of the old Korean capital.

Field dispatches said those two columns withdrew at dusk Friday to the advancing main allied line.

38th "Nothing" To Van Fleet

He said the Chinese Reds were clogging escape routes with their pack animals, artillery pieces and whatever other equipment they could salvage from the steadily advancing allies.

A tank task force smashed through a Communist road block on the east-central front late Friday and linked up with American troops expanding their bridgehead in Red Korea near Inje.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported that American infantry engaged the Reds northeast of Hangye in hand-to-hand combat twice Friday afternoon. Hangye is 13 miles south of the parallel.

Off the east coast, the U. S. battleship New Jersey and other Allied warships hammered Red supply lines from the port of Wonsan northward. Carrier planes joined Fifth Air Force fighters and bombers in harassing the retreating Reds.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, called the new surge of Allied might "an all-out offensive," and added:

"The 38th parallel means nothing to me."

He visited a tank-infantry task force north of 38 on the east-central front and commented that the Allied pursuit tactics were working well.

Gen. Collins Would Call More Guard Units Into Service

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, told senators today he has recommended that additional National Guard troops be called into federal service this year.

He did not say how many.

Collins mentioned this while testifying at Senate hearings on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Two weeks ago the National Guard Bureau said it was possible that some additional National Guard divisions would be called into service after July. Six divisions, two regimental combat teams and numerous smaller guard units are now in service.

Collins' recommendation was to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

1,025,000 Red Casualties

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, testified today the Communists have paid a toll of 1,025,000 casualties in the Korean war, 90,000 of them between May 17 and 23.

Appeals Court Reverses Milk Price Decision

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 25 (AP)—The Court of Appeals today reversed an Allegany Circuit Court ruling that certain milk producers should be reimbursed by the Cooperative Milk Service Association for low milk prices.

A number of members of the Cooperative voted against joining a Washington association in January last year when the Cooperative told its members such action was necessary to sell milk at the highest price in Washington.

Both those who joined and those who refused sold milk to the Washington association through the Cooperative at a high blend price.

A short time after the new contract was drawn up, however, those who did not join received only the manufacturers' price, three-fifths of the blend price. All the milk was mixed together before being sold.

Appeals Judge Charles Markell did not agree with those receiving the lower price that the Cooperative had discriminated against them.

He declared they should have realized all the cooperative members were faced with losing the Washington trade if they did not meet the association's requirements.

The Cooperative, he said, "was not under any duty to let all of its members drown because some of them could not swim and either could not afford the cost of learning or did not consider the cost of learning worth while."

Taxing Area Hearing Set

A meeting has been called by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners for Friday, June 1 at 7:30 p. m. at the Bowling Green Fire Hall at which time a public hearing will be held on the act passed by the legislature pertaining to a proposed special taxing area for Bowling Green.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, will detail the provisions of the act and a discussion will follow. The act provides that the county board hold the public hearing prior to the referendum on the legislation.

Mrs. H. C. Utterback, secretary of the Board of Election Supervisors for Bowling Green, wrote the commissioners yesterday that June 12 has been set for the referendum on the proposed taxing area.

The taxing area would provide a means of installing and maintaining fire hydrants and a lighting system for the community. Water is obtained from the City of Cumberland.

Election of officers for the taxing area will also be conducted along with the referendum.

Although 15 days have past since the deadline for use of old automobile plates arrived, about one-third of the plates being sold each day at Treat's office still are for passenger cars.

Support For Nationalist China

The State Department denies that the United States has changed its policy on "involvement in the Chinese civil war," despite the speech of Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk in New York on May 18. Sen. Taft had charged that the Rusk speech revealed the State Department as shifting over to the MacArthur policies.

Be that as it may, the present policy of the State Department on Chiang Kai-shek, especially as reflected in our military evaluation of the Chiang-held island of Formosa, has changed since the State Department issued its White Paper on China on August 5, 1949. In his foreword to the White Paper, Secretary of State Acheson declared that the Nationalist forces had been defeated through their own weakness, not because of inadequate U. S. aid:

"Our military observers . . . have reported that the Nationalist armies did not lose a single battle during the crucial year of 1948 through lack of arms or ammunition. . . . The Nationalist armies did not have to be defeated; they disintegrated."

Acheson said further that "absence of the will to fight" among Chiangs' forces was one prime reason why "a large proportion" of the military supplies furnished them by this country had "fallen into the hands of the Chinese Communists." And the Chiang government "had lost the confidence of its own troops and its own people."

Some months later, on January 5, 1950, President Truman stated at his press conference: "The U. S. Government will not provide military aid or advice to Chinese forces on Formosa." The President added that "in the view of the U. S. Government, "the Chiang forces could find in "the resources on Formosa" the "items they might consider necessary to the defense of the island."

Early in January, 1951, reliable reports indicated that the United States was sending arms and ammunition to the Chiang forces on Formosa. Secretary Acheson said on April 10, 1951, that the new policy of sending a large staff of military advisers to Chiang had been in effect for ten weeks. And according to Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, Formosa now has equal rank with Western Europe in priority for U. S. military equipment, and $70 million for arms for Formosa in the coming fiscal year is to be asked of Congress.

General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senators on May 21 that we should not try to occupy Formosa with our own forces. But enemy control of the island would "seriously affect our line of defense" and should not be allowed.

Bradley testified that, from a military point of view, he could see no objection to "taking the wraps off Chinese Nationalist troops." But he added this caveat: "Except that if . . . they took such losses both in men and equipment that they then jeopardized the security of Formosa."

Assistant Secretary of State Rusk in his speech of May 18 referred to Communist China as a "colonial Russian government . . . not Chinese." Secretary Acheson in his foreword to the White Paper on China in 1949 had said much the same thing: "The Communist leaders (of China) have foresworn their Chinese heritage and have pubicly announced their subservience to a foreign power, Russia." On January 12, 1950 Acheson told the National Press Club in Washington that Moscow was attaching the northern areas of China to the Soviet Union. The process, he said, was already complete in Outer Mongolia, nearly complete in Manchuria.

Stop The Spending

In 1948 the Republican 80th Congress reduced the national debt, balanced the budget and trimmed taxes. Today, after four years of the Truman Administration, the nation is deep in debt, the unreclaimable cost of war is mounting, and inflation continues to soar.

But the President wants to spend $71.6 billion in fiscal 1952 — the largest peacetime budget in the nation's history, if this can be called peace—and he defies Congress to find excessive and nonessential items.

Republican Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio in a series of speeches in Congress pointed out that:

In 1948 the State Department spent $154 million; in fiscal 1952 they want to spend $302 million. In 1948 the Labor Department spent $86 million; in 1952 they want to spend $221 million. In 1948 the Federal Security Agency spent $937 million; in 1952 they want to spend $2.2 billion. In 1948 the Interior Department spent $350 million; in 1952 they want to spend $610 million. In 1948 the Housing and Home Financing Agency spent $13 million; in 1952 they want to spend $39 million. In 1948 the Agriculture Department spent $985 million; in 1952 they want to spend $1.4 billion.

The Administration has spent $28 billion since July 1, 1945, in foreign aid programs whose relation to defense is questionable, and wants to spend another $7 billion in fiscal 1952. It also wants to spend $9.6 billion and to lend another $2 billion for non-defense domestic purposes.

Representative Jenkins and other Republicans believe the spending, lending, giving-away and taxing program of the Truman Administration should be drastically curtailed in the emergency.

All Over But Acheson

Remaining testimony before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees by Pentagon brass bearing on the discharge of General MacArthur will be mostly surplusage. Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have thoroughly established the Administration line.

There may be some elaboration, much repetition, but there is likely to be no deviation from the broad outline established by Marshall, unless the President spills the beans.

But the impact of MacArthur's testimony has already resulted in some changes. He has forced the Administration into pledges that Formosa will be protected, Chiang aided and that Red China will not be admitted into the United Nations. If official utterances can be believed, the Far East will not be scuttled, with all the American blood and sacrifice in vain.

Further testimony, as has been said, will be largely surplusage. Except for that of one man—Secretary of State Dean Acheson. He's the man many Senate questioners want to get in the witness chair.

Editorial Paragraphs

The public seems to be convinced that what the country needs is more controls over the controllers.

Backward, turn backward, O time in thy flight. Make the Red Chinese agrarians again just for tonight.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Heredity And Disease

There is nothing new in the statement that we are a composite of our ancestors, physically and mentally. We all recognize the fact that tall parents have tall sons and that red hair "runs in families," as do a host of other external characteristics. Certain diseases also are hereditary and it is here that the medical profession enters the picture.

So much publicity has been given to conditions such as hemophilia, color blindness, Huntington's chorea, epilepsy, and albinism that the conclusion may be reached that all hereditary diseases are inncurable. This has led to unwarranted fear and now and then has resulted in broken engagements or even divorce. Actually many such maladies are controlable and some are curable. Diabetes mellitus, for example, has a tendency to favor certain families but when diagnosed early and treated properly with insulin normal life expectancy may be anticipated. Gout and epilepsy can be controlled, nearsightedness is remediable with glasses, and surgery does wonders in harelip and cleft palate. Allergists can offer remarkable relief in asthma and other sensitivities that tend to be inherited.

Misconceptions also arise because heredity is not always responsible for defects that are present at birth. In some instances, if the mother encounters an infection such as German measles in the first three months of pregnancy, the development of the child will be interrupted. Should this happen in the period when the heart is being formed one or more imperfections of the organ ensue. The child is born a blue baby and is said to have congenital heart disease. Blindness or deafness may result when the eyes or ears are affected in the same manner. These disorders are called congenital because they exist at birth. Hereditary traits are carried in the genes of the germ cells and are transmitted from generation to generation.

In some defects, both factors play a role. Harelip is an example. The hereditary variety is handed down, whereas the congenital type occurs because the mother's illness disturbed development. The two are indistinguishable but by going back into the family history the physician may be able to decide whether or not the disorder is hereditary or congenital. The same can be said of children who are born blind; there are many causes for loss of vision and some are hereditary and others congenital.

Malformations occur in about 1 per cent of all births. Some are serious; others consist of such simple defects as hammer toe or webbed fingers. Once a woman gives birth to an abnormal baby her chances of producing another are 25 times greater than other women's. Much depends upon the defect. The risk varies from one in eight to one in 20. This is not alarming because women in general run a one in 50 to one in 100 chance of having an abnormal child.

SQUINTING CHILD

Mrs. F. writes: My 3 year old daughter squints excessively when I take her out in the sunlight. Does this indicate something wrong with her eyes?

REPLY

Most of us squint when exposed to sunlight. On the other hand, if you believe that the tot does this excessively you should have her eyes examined. Meanwhile, do what you can to protect her eyes with a bonnet.

CALM MAN

H. J. writes: My husband's pulse never goes above 65. Does this mean heart trouble?

REPLY

No and, if anything, it is one sign that his heart is in good shape. A slow pulse is preferred to a rapid one and many individuals who reach a ripe old age fall into this category.

NOTHING SPECIAL

Mrs. T. writes: Will you describe the do's and dont's for a woman after a hysterectomy?

REPLY

Do what you have always done and don't worry.

CAN'T CHANGE SPOTS

Mrs. K. writes: Will drinking a lot of coffee darken the skin and a lot of milk lighten it?

REPLY

No, because pigmentation is more than skin deep. You probably refer to advertisements of milk for a fair complexion. What is meant is that milk often aids health and this in turn improves the skin.

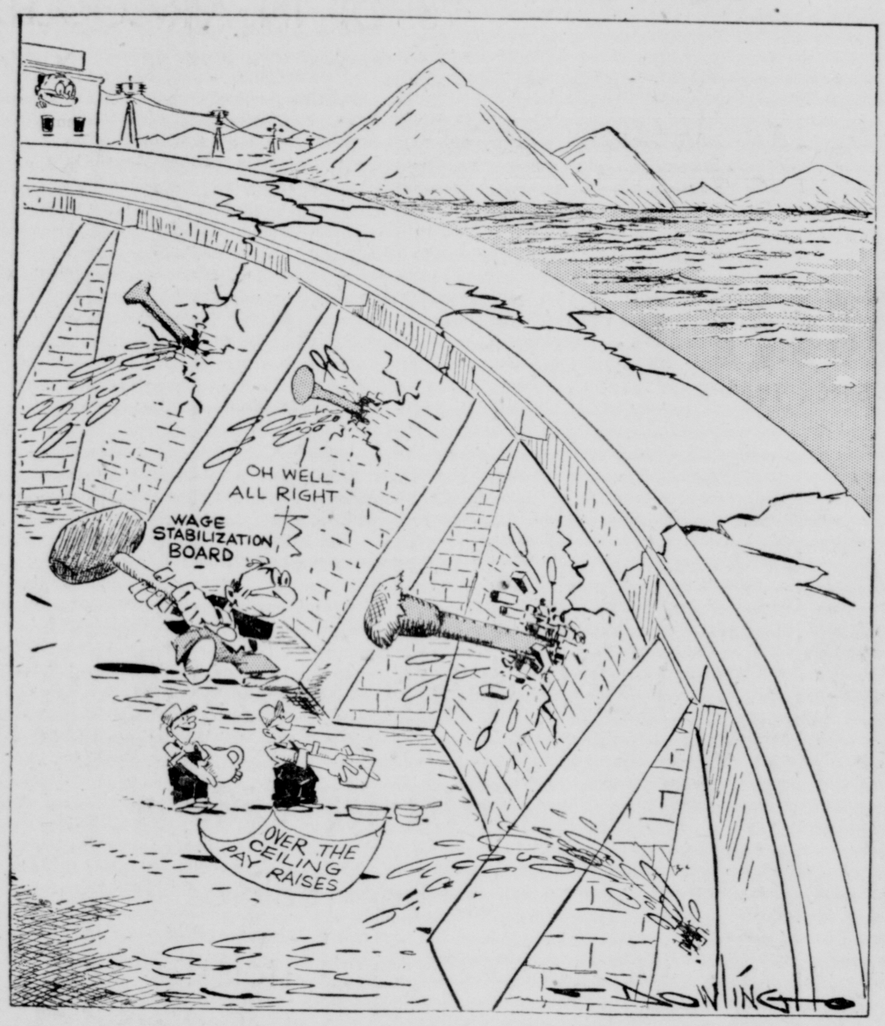
CAN'T LOSE

Mrs. T. writes: I have been on a 1,000 calorie diet for three weeks and have not lost a pound. Why is this?

REPLY

If it's a matter of food, then you may have to check your diet or drop to 800 calories daily. Also, watch your fluid and salt intake

A Little Hole Here And There



DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Democrats Look For Successor To Acheson; Acheson Is GOP's Best Target; Feud Between Taft-Eisenhower Factions Will Soon Come To A Head

WASHINGTON—A group within the Cabinet and the State Department Policy Committee are working backstage with the Democratic National Committee to find a successor for Dean Acheson. They regard their job as twofold: 1. To convince the President he ought to let Acheson go for the good of the country and party; 2. To find a man so acceptable that HST will buy.

One leader of this group is Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, and this was a main topic for discussion behind closed doors at the Denver Democratic powwow. The formula this group has in mind as Acheson's successor is: A progressive, internationally minded Republican, vigorous, healthy, and with congressional experience.

Secretary Chapman, who will deny this vigorously if questioned, even sounded out one possible candidate before going to Denver.

GOP's Best Target

It is no accident that Republican senators launch a barrage against Dean Acheson at least once a week, interspersed with predictions that he is about to be fired.

For the Republicans have found: 1. That Acheson is one of their best political assets; and 2. They are shrewd enough to know that the more they jump on him, the longer Truman will freeze him into office.

It sounds incredible, but it is almost axiomatic in the Truman Administration that when you criticize a public official too vigorously, you arouse Harry Truman's fighting instincts and insure that he will stay on indefinitely. That's what happened when I went after General Harry Vaughan.

Inside fact is that Acheson had told the President last year that he wanted to retire. There was even talk that he would step out around Jan. 1. But MacArthur's tragic reversal in North Korea occurred in November-December, followed by British Prime Minister Attlee's hurried trip to Washington.

After this crisis had cooled, it again looked as if Acheson were ready to retire. But suddenly the MacArthur debate burst loose.

And by now the Republicans realize that he is their best political target and they are determined to keep hammering at him; first, because it pays political dividends; second, because it's the best way to make sure that Harry Truman keeps their political target on target. Once the President removes that target from the poltiical horizon, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth inside the GOP.

A ghost writer with Hollywood ambitions is one reason why Sen. Alex Wiley of Wisconsin has suddenly changed character from a jovial jokester to a baiter of Gen. Omar Bradley.

The ghost writer is Julius Cahn, supplied to the Wisconsin Senator by the Republican National Committee as his secretary. Cahn writes Wiley's speeches, asked questions for him at the Kefauver committee, and even produced a movie skit of the Senator.

Before the MacArthur hearings, Senator Wiley was chiefly famous as an expert on Wisconsin cheese and a mild foreign-relations follower of the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg. But, since being coached in the Hollywood technique, he has bristled forth as a baiter of generals.

The bitter feud between the pro-Taft and pro-Eisenhower factions inside the Republican party so far has been carefully concealed. However, the current struggle for convention delegates will soon force both factions out into the open.

The fight for Texas's 37 delegates to the Republican convention is typical of the undercover contest between the friends of Taft and Ike, which is taking place in practically every state of the Union.

Eisenhower spokesman in Texas is Houston's wealthy oilman, H. J. "Jack" Porter, a long-time personal friend of Ike's and a big contributor to the GOP. Porter has been quietly lining up delegates and is in frequent touch with Pennsylvania's astute Sen. Jim Duff, unofficial captain of the pro-Eisenhower forces.

In recent weeks, however, Porter's well-laid plans have been thrown out of gear by Republican National Committeeman Henry Zwiefel of Fort Worth, who is passing out word that he's supporting Ike, and that he, not Porter, has been selected to round up Eisenhower support.

The conflict between Porter and Zwiefel has thrown confusion into Republican ranks and plays into the hands of the pro-Taft Republicans. Furthermore, what only a handful of top Republicans know is that Zwiefel is secretly committed to support Taft. He made this definite commitment on January 25 when he was in Washington for a meeting of the Republican National Committee.

The thing that tickles the President most about his daughter's trip to Europe is that she is paying her own way.

"She worked hard for this vacation and earned it," proud Papa Truman told Rep. Overton Brooks of Louisiana. "I'm delighted for her sake that she is going, but I'm proudest of the fact that she made it possibly all by herself."

"She's a great girl and will make an excellent ambassadress of good will wherever she goes," said Brooks.

"She'll be a typical American, you can bank on that," agreed Margaret's father.

When the Louisiana Congressman suggested that it would be "a good idea to let Margaret blaze the way for a trip to Europe yourself," the President replied that his plans for the rest of the year were still indefinite. It is known, however, that he has been considering such a trip.

North Korean Prisoners

It's a regrettable but inescapable fact that friction is increasing between Korean President Syngman Rhee and Gen. Matt Ridgway.

Latest friction has been Rhee's nagging at Ridgway to free 35,000 North Korean prisoners of war to join the South Korean army and to help with the spring farming in South Korea. These prisoners have been screened by a South Korean inspection team, appointed by Minister of Defense Lee Kee Bung, who reported that of the 144,000 North Koreans in U.N. prison camps, 35,000 have either reformed or were not communists in the first place.

However, the American ground forces commander in Korea, Lt. Gen. James Van Fleet, rejected the report and refused to release a single North Korean. Van Fleet warned that he did not trust the North Koreans, that if 35,000 were released, the Allies may have to capture them all over again. He was backed up in his decision by General Ridgway.

President Rhee replied that the 35,000 had been carefully screened, that most of them had been forced into the North Korean Army by Communist officials. He also argued that they were sorely needed on South Korean farms, and offered to spy on them secretly while they worked to make sure they were loyal.

Nevertheless, Ridgway refused to take any chances on freeing North Koreans who might return to fight against our troops again.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Avoidance Of Temptation

With all the crookedness going on in Washington and its approaches, many solutions are offered as to how to make men as honest as they should be. For instance, the Fulbright investigation will stand as a monumental index to the possibilities of corruption through the President's office, but the fact is that nobody has been or will be punished because the misdemeanors and felonies are of a moral and not a juridical nature. To state it simply, the punishment is more likely to be in the hereafter than here.

Arthur Hays Sulzberger was delivering a speech on the greatness of his wife's father, Adolph Ochs, who bought the "New York Times" when it was doing poorly, and built it into one of the foremost newspapers of all time. This speech was made before the Silurians, who are newspapermen of long standing and know whence the fact was borne. Of Ochs, Sulzberger said:

". . . He had the intelligence to avoid business temptations. He was a very human man and possessed his share of human frailties, but he knew it and so he refused to place himself in a position to be tempted. Very shortly after he arrived in New York, his friend Samuel Untermyer was the intermediary who offered him a contract for $150,000 worth of municipal advertising. No strings were attached. Mr. Untermyer would not have been a party to any deal involving his friend. But Mr. Ochs turned it down and did so on the theory that he needed the revenue so desperately that he would instantly adjust his operations to the windfall and he was unwilling to trust himself as to what he might do if, after that had happened, he was confronted with a cancellation of the contract."

The sequence of thought there represents a thoroughly theological approach to morality, which is not that man will not sin, given the opportunity, but that righteousness manifests itself by avoiding the opportunity.

I do not know why Mr. Ochs could not have taken this advertising. For it was the people's money that was being spent on advertising and the officials should or should not have put it in his newspaper strictly on the basis of its value to the people. It is like many who are today worried about sticking their necks out in political dicussion lest their income tax returns be investigated, or their anti-trust relations, or their radio station licenses or some other activity which gives the government an opportunity to use its power to destroy.

The avoidance of temptation is a very hard road to follow, because for men in public life temptations are not limited to dollars or mink coats, but there is the fate worse than death of being unpopular and even obscure.

Mr. Ochs, for instance, never was on the celery circuit. That is a spreading disease which few dare avoid. I shall diagnose it for you in detail:

A public man needs to be seen. The more he is seen, the more celebrated he is. Therefore, in many places, he is invited to attend public dinners where he sits on the dais. Usually this takes four to five hours out of his life. The chairs are the most uncomfortable that a hotel can find and the food is stereotyped, having, on the whole, degenerated dreadfully during the past decade.

Well, the celebrity sits there until his name is called. Then he rises for a bow amid perfunctory applause. Then he sits down. That makes him a celebrity. When he goes home, his wife asked him, "What happened?" He answers, "I took a bow."

Adolph Ochs never went to such places. His business manager, Louis Wiley, did it nearly every night of his life and he enjoyed it. But Ochs stayed away and when it came to putting plugs in his paper, few knew him well enough to ask for them.

There are differences of opinion on how to live, but the yearning for popularity is a greater temptation than the yearning for dollars. It becomes a debasement of personality, a craven currying of vulgar favor in the desire to be seen, heard and patted on the back. The price for fulsome praise is often too high and shaving has this drawback, that it forces one to look at his own face at least once a day.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There really isn't any difference of viewpoint between Secretary of State Acheson and Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs, on the matter of American policy toward China, though an effort is being made to make it appear so.

What Mr. Rusk said was that the Chinese Communist government was not representative of the Chinese people because it was under Russian control. He also said that in this sense the Nationalist government more "authentically" represented the Chinese people because they had always historically resented any attempt to dismember their territory as Russia was trying to do.

But certain elements here, who seem to be eager to accord recognition to Red China irrespective of her aggression in Korea, were not satisfied to accept the further definition of American policy made by Mr. Rusk. Efforts have been made to try to bludgeon Secretary Acheson in to repudiating it on the ground that some of our Allies want it so. He refused to do so.

Most unfortunate was the twisting in some press dispatches of what Secretary Acheson did say in his news conference. He was asked if the negotiation of a "cease fire" wouldn't have to be with the Red Chinese. His answer was that, of course, it would have to be with the people we are fighting and that everybody, including General MacArthur, agreed with this.

But this did not mean that, by negotiating a "cease fire" with the Red Chinese, we were extending diplomatic recognition to them. For it could be that a "cease fire" would develop between the Red Chinese and the U. N. commander in the field. What happens after that, either through the UN's good offices committee or through a special group of representatives of the nations engaged in the fighting, would be determined in the parleys arranging the "cease fire" agreement.

What could eventually happen—and this was not to be inferred from anything Mr. Acheson said—is that the two opposing military commanders would strive to arrange a "cease fire" somewhat as General MacArthur tried to do on March 24 last. The terms exchanged between them would be referred then to their respective authorities back home. In all probability the nations having troops in Korea would constitute the only group which would enter the peace conference.

This would not necessarily require a discussion in the UN General Assembly itself until those particular nations had reached an agreement with the enemy. The subjects to be proposed for the settlement, perhaps after the armistice, would, of course have to be agreed upon before there was a "cease fire." When, however, the subsequent negotiations did start, the American representatives could insist that the question of "recognition" was related directly to whether the Peiping government was or was not under foreign control. This question could bring about a deadlock, because any one country party to the armistice could block a final settlement. At that time the Rusk viewpoint could be constructively helpful in the event that the Peiping government had begun to stray from the Communist fold as did Tito.

Underlying the hopes in the Department of State all along for an eventual change in the Far Eastern situation has been the belief that the Red Chinese cannot continue indefinitely to commit their armies to Korea and carry on a war just for Russia's benefit. If there should be a chance for a Tito movement away from Moscow communism, the speech of Mr. Rusk and also that of John Foster Dulles delivered on the same occasion may well prove to have been an influence in bringing about that course of events.

At any rate, the Red Chinese now know through the Rusk speech that a government in China which deviates from Moscow and becomes independent has a better chance of recognition than would a government which has been subservient to Moscow's influence. It would appear very unlikely, if a "cease fire" occurred, that the Peiping authorities would resume the war just to get a seat in the UN or to win recognition. Conversely, it isn't likely that the UN will be in any hurry to change the armistice into a peace agreement unless it is apparent that no repetition of the aggression is likely. Hence, a long stalemate in the negotiations could occur while the UN waited for a new government to arise in China whose assurances could be trusted. But in such a contingency there will have been an end to the fighting, anyway, and the problem will have been turned over to diplomacy to try to work out.

As between a stalemate during a continuous war in Korea and a stalemate in a continuous diplomatic argument on peace terms, the latter would probably win more public support no matter how long the stalemate lasted.

Defense Bonds

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Treasury Department is conducting an especially energetic and highly organized nation-wide drive urging the people to buy government savings bonds. The fervor of it is pictured in a United Press dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., some sentences from which are here quoted: "Throughout May, which has been designated Defense Bond Month, major cities of the nation will observe defense days similar to the one staged here today. Celebrities . . . drummed on the Treasury Department's new slogan: 'Now, let's all buy defense bonds' . . . a big Peach tree Street parade was held here and a 30-minute radio program over the Columbia Broadcasting System headed the opening program. A motorcade set out to visit industrial plants, stores and offices where employes are buying defense bonds through the payroll savings plan. The caravan included Assistant Treasury Secretary John S. Graham; Vernon L. Clark, National Director of the Savings Bond Division; Piper Laurie and Tony Curtis, film players; Chic James, Miss Defense Bond of 1951 . . . 19 veterans of the Korean War were honor guests."

This is the send-off for a drive to continue and expand a nation-wide mechanism for the sale of bonds which has been built up over several years. Among other methods it includes sales by banks and sales through a "payroll savings plan" by which employes in businesses and industries buy bonds through installments deducted from their pay checks. To these a new method is introduced in the present drive, newsboys are enlisted. Thousands of them attached to some 600 newspapers throughout the country which have been delivering pledge forms to their customers together with a message signed by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder: "Your newspaper carrier is engaged in an effort of high patriotic value. We hope you will give your support to this national emergency by buying bonds."

Purchases Diminished

In spite of this highly organized selling and in spite of an immense publicity campaign carried on through newspaper and magazine advertisements and over the radio, purchase of savings bonds by the public has diminished. Purchases during last March were about a third less than during March the preceding year. In addition to buying fewer bonds much of the public has been "cashing in" bonds bought in the past. Much of this has been done within a short time after the bonds were bought, long before the 10-year maturity date.

This is a serious matter for the Treasury and for the country since the Treasury depends upon sale of these bonds for much of the vast borrowing it must do. Doubtless a purpose of the present Treasury drive is to overcome this public attitude. But to achieve this requires understanding why the public buys fewer bonds and cashes in many already held. One reason is the high cost of living. This works two ways; it leaves the public with less money to buy bonds and it reduces the purchasing power of bonds already held. A person who put a dollar into a savings bond 10-years ago finds that when the government pays the dollar back to him it buys materially less. The $10, say, that would have bought two pairs of shoes 10-years ago buys today only one pair. This applies to nearly all goods. It leads the bond owner who has had this experience to reflect that perhaps he would have done better if, instead of putting his money into savings bonds he had put it into some form of durable or semi-durable goods.

Security Declines

The experience of savings bond holders has been shared by other immense groups of savers—persons who have put their savings into life insurance, savings banks, pension funds and the like. They saved for the future, in many cases for security when they should cease to earn because of age or otherwise, and now find that the security is greatly diminished. The experience that many such persons are now having is tragic. Not only are they unable to buy more savings bonds or otherwise save, they are unable to buy necessities.

For what has taken place, a main cause is reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar. That this has taken place is largely chargeable to the government, for in its function of administering the fiscal affairs of the country, it is under obligation to keep purchasing power of the dollar approximately stable. Any policy of government that discriminates against savers as a group and reduces their capacity or incentive to save, is a danger to the economic structure of the country, since this is largely dependent on savings.

Support For Nationalist China

The State Department denies that the United States has changed its policy on "involvement in the Chinese civil war," despite the speech of Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk in New York on May 18. Sen. Taft had charged that the Rusk speech revealed the State Department as shifting over to the MacArthur policies.

Be that as it may, the present policy of the State Department on Chiang Kai-shek, especially as reflected in our military evaluation of the Chiang-held island of Formosa, has changed since the State Department issued its White Paper on China on August 5, 1949. In his foreword to the White Paper, Secretary of State Acheson declared that the Nationalist forces had been defeated through their own weakness, not because of inadequate U. S. aid:

"Our military observers . . . have reported that the Nationalist armies did not lose a single battle during the crucial year of 1948 through lack of arms or ammunition. . . . The Nationalist armies did not have to be defeated; they disintegrated."

Acheson said further that "absence of the will to fight" among Chiangs' forces was one prime reason why "a large proportion" of the military supplies furnished them by this country had "fallen into the hands of the Chinese Communists." And the Chiang government "had lost the confidence of its own troops and its own people."

Some months later, on January 5, 1950, President Truman stated at his press conference: "The U. S. Government will not provide military aid or advice to Chinese forces on Formosa." The President added that "in the view of the U. S. Government, "the Chiang forces could find in "the resources on Formosa" the "items they might consider necessary to the defense of the island."

Early in January, 1951, reliable reports indicated that the United States was sending arms and ammunition to the Chiang forces on Formosa. Secretary Acheson said on April 10, 1951, that the new policy of sending a large staff of military advisers to Chiang had been in effect for ten weeks. And according to Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, Formosa now has equal rank with Western Europe in priority for U. S. military equipment, and $70 million for arms for Formosa in the coming fiscal year is to be asked of Congress.

General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senators on May 21 that we should not try to occupy Formosa with our own forces. But enemy control of the island would "seriously affect our line of defense" and should not be allowed.

Bradley testified that, from a military point of view, he could see no objection to "taking the wraps off Chinese Nationalist troops." But he added this caveat: "Except that if . . . they took such losses both in men and equipment that they then jeopardized the security of Formosa."

Assistant Secretary of State Rusk in his speech of May 18 referred to Communist China as a "colonial Russian government . . . not Chinese." Secretary Acheson in his foreword to the White Paper on China in 1949 had said much the same thing: "The Communist leaders (of China) have foresworn their Chinese heritage and have pubicly announced their subservience to a foreign power, Russia." On January 12, 1950 Acheson told the National Press Club in Washington that Moscow was attaching the northern areas of China to the Soviet Union. The process, he said, was already complete in Outer Mongolia, nearly complete in Manchuria.

Stop The Spending

In 1948 the Republican 80th Congress reduced the national debt, balanced the budget and trimmed taxes. Today, after four years of the Truman Administration, the nation is deep in debt, the unreclaimable cost of war is mounting, and inflation continues to soar.

But the President wants to spend $71.6 billion in fiscal 1952 — the largest peacetime budget in the nation's history, if this can be called peace—and he defies Congress to find excessive and nonessential items.

Republican Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio in a series of speeches in Congress pointed out that:

In 1948 the State Department spent $154 million; in fiscal 1952 they want to spend $302 million. In 1948 the Labor Department spent $86 million; in 1952 they want to spend $221 million. In 1948 the Federal Security Agency spent $937 million; in 1952 they want to spend $2.2 billion. In 1948 the Interior Department spent $350 million; in 1952 they want to spend $610 million. In 1948 the Housing and Home Financing Agency spent $13 million; in 1952 they want to spend $39 million. In 1948 the Agriculture Department spent $985 million; in 1952 they want to spend $1.4 billion.

The Administration has spent $28 billion since July 1, 1945, in foreign aid programs whose relation to defense is questionable, and wants to spend another $7 billion in fiscal 1952. It also wants to spend $9.6 billion and to lend another $2 billion for non-defense domestic purposes.

Representative Jenkins and other Republicans believe the spending, lending, giving-away and taxing program of the Truman Administration should be drastically curtailed in the emergency.

All Over But Acheson

Remaining testimony before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees by Pentagon brass bearing on the discharge of General MacArthur will be mostly surplusage. Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have thoroughly established the Administration line.

There may be some elaboration, much repetition, but there is likely to be no deviation from the broad outline established by Marshall, unless the President spills the beans.

But the impact of MacArthur's testimony has already resulted in some changes. He has forced the Administration into pledges that Formosa will be protected, Chiang aided and that Red China will not be admitted into the United Nations. If official utterances can be believed, the Far East will not be scuttled, with all the American blood and sacrifice in vain.

Further testimony, as has been said, will be largely surplusage. Except for that of one man—Secretary of State Dean Acheson. He's the man many Senate questioners want to get in the witness chair.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Heredity And Disease

There is nothing new in the statement that we are a composite of our ancestors, physically and mentally. We all recognize the fact that tall parents have tall sons and that red hair "runs in families," as do a host of other external characteristics. Certain diseases also are hereditary and it is here that the medical profession enters the picture.

So much publicity has been given to conditions such as hemophilia, color blindness, Huntington's chorea, epilepsy, and albinism that the conclusion may be reached that all hereditary diseases are inncurable. This has led to unwarranted fear and now and then has resulted in broken engagements or even divorce. Actually many such maladies are controlable and some are curable. Diabetes mellitus, for example, has a tendency to favor certain families but when diagnosed early and treated properly with insulin normal life expectancy may be anticipated. Gout and epilepsy can be controlled, nearsightedness is remediable with glasses, and surgery does wonders in harelip and cleft palate. Allergists can offer remarkable relief in asthma and other sensitivities that tend to be inherited.

Misconceptions also arise because heredity is not always responsible for defects that are present at birth. In some instances, if the mother encounters an infection such as German measles in the first three months of pregnancy, the development of the child will be interrupted. Should this happen in the period when the heart is being formed one or more imperfections of the organ ensue. The child is born a blue baby and is said to have congenital heart disease. Blindness or deafness may result when the eyes or ears are affected in the same manner. These disorders are called congenital because they exist at birth. Hereditary traits are carried in the genes of the germ cells and are transmitted from generation to generation.

In some defects, both factors play a role. Harelip is an example. The hereditary variety is handed down, whereas the congenital type occurs because the mother's illness disturbed development. The two are indistinguishable but by going back into the family history the physician may be able to decide whether or not the disorder is hereditary or congenital. The same can be said of children who are born blind; there are many causes for loss of vision and some are hereditary and others congenital.

Malformations occur in about 1 per cent of all births. Some are serious; others consist of such simple defects as hammer toe or webbed fingers. Once a woman gives birth to an abnormal baby her chances of producing another are 25 times greater than other women's. Much depends upon the defect. The risk varies from one in eight to one in 20. This is not alarming because women in general run a one in 50 to one in 100 chance of having an abnormal child.

SQUINTING CHILD

Mrs. F. writes: My 3 year old daughter squints excessively when I take her out in the sunlight. Does this indicate something wrong with her eyes?

REPLY

Most of us squint when exposed to sunlight. On the other hand, if you believe that the tot does this excessively you should have her eyes examined. Meanwhile, do what you can to protect her eyes with a bonnet.

CALM MAN

H. J. writes: My husband's pulse never goes above 65. Does this mean heart trouble?

REPLY

No and, if anything, it is one sign that his heart is in good shape. A slow pulse is preferred to a rapid one and many individuals who reach a ripe old age fall into this category.

NOTHING SPECIAL

Mrs. T. writes: Will you describe the do's and dont's for a woman after a hysterectomy?

REPLY

Do what you have always done and don't worry.

CAN'T CHANGE SPOTS

Mrs. K. writes: Will drinking a lot of coffee darken the skin and a lot of milk lighten it?

REPLY

No, because pigmentation is more than skin deep. You probably refer to advertisements of milk for a fair complexion. What is meant is that milk often aids health and this in turn improves the skin.

CAN'T LOSE

Mrs. T. writes: I have been on a 1,000 calorie diet for three weeks and have not lost a pound. Why is this?

REPLY

If it's a matter of food, then you may have to check your diet or drop to 800 calories daily. Also, watch your fluid and salt intake.

A Little Hole Here And There

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Democrats Look For Successor To Acheson; Acheson Is GOP's Best Target; Feud Between Taft-Eisenhower Factions Will Soon Come To A Head

WASHINGTON—A group within the Cabinet and the State Department Policy Committee are working backstage with the Democratic National Committee to find a successor for Dean Acheson. They regard their job as twofold: 1. To convince the President he ought to let Acheson go for the good of the country and party; 2. To find a man so acceptable that HST will buy.

One leader of this group is Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, and this was a main topic for discussion behind closed doors at the Denver Democratic powwow. The formula this group has in mind as Acheson's successor is: A progressive, internationally minded Republican, vigorous, healthy, and with congressional experience.

Secretary Chapman, who will deny this vigorously if questioned, even sounded out one possible candidate before going to Denver.

GOP's Best Target

It is no accident that Republican senators launch a barrage against Dean Acheson at least once a week, interspersed with predictions that he is about to be fired.

For the Republicans have found: 1. That Acheson is one of their best political assets; and 2. They are shrewd enough to know that the more they jump on him, the longer Truman will freeze him into office.

It sounds incredible, but it is almost axiomatic in the Truman Administration that when you criticize a public official too vigorously, you arouse Harry Truman's fighting instincts and insure that he will stay on indefinitely. That's what happened when I went after General Harry Vaughan.

Inside fact is that Acheson had told the President last year that he wanted to retire. There was even talk that he would step out around Jan. 1. But MacArthur's tragic reversal in North Korea occurred in November-December, followed by British Prime Minister Attlee's hurried trip to Washington.

After this crisis had cooled, it again looked as if Acheson were ready to retire. But suddenly the MacArthur debate burst loose.

And by now the Republicans realize that he is their best political target and they are determined to keep hammering at him; first, because it pays political dividends; second, because it's the best way to make sure that Harry Truman keeps their political target on target. Once the President removes that target from the political horizon, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth inside the GOP.

A ghost writer with Hollywood ambitions is one reason why Sen. Alex Wiley of Wisconsin has suddenly changed character from a jovial jokester to a baiter of Gen. Omar Bradley.

The ghost writer is Julius Cahn, supplied to the Wisconsin Senator by the Republican National Committee as his secretary. Cahn writes Wiley's speeches, asked questions for him at the Kefauver committee, and even produced a movie skit of the Senator.

Before the MacArthur hearings, Senator Wiley was chiefly famous as an expert on Wisconsin cheese and a mild foreign-relations follower of the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg. But, since being coached in the Hollywood technique, he has bristled forth as a baiter of generals.

The bitter feud between the pro-Taft and pro-Eisenhower factions inside the Republican party so far has been carefully concealed. However, the current struggle for convention delegates will soon force both factions out into the open.

The fight for Texas's 37 delegates to the Republican convention is typical of the undercover contest between the friends of Taft and Ike, which is taking place in practically every state of the Union.

Eisenhower spokesman in Texas is Houston's wealthy oilman, H. J. "Jack" Porter, a long-time personal friend of Ike's and a big contributor to the GOP. Porter has been quietly lining up delegates and is in frequent touch with Pennsylvania's astute Sen. Jim Duff, unofficial captain of the pro-Eisenhower forces.

In recent weeks, however, Porter's well-laid plans have been thrown out of gear by Republican National Committeeman Henry Zwiefel of Fort Worth, who is passing out word that he's supporting Ike, and that he, not Porter, has been selected to round up Eisenhower support.

The conflict between Porter and Zwiefel has thrown confusion into Republican ranks and plays into the hands of the pro-Taft Republicans. Furthermore, what only a handful of top Republicans know is that Zwiefel is secretly committed to support Taft. He made this definite commitment on January 25 when he was in Washington for a meeting of the Republican National Committee.

The thing that tickles the President most about his daughter's trip to Europe is that she is paying her own way.

"She worked hard for this vacation and earned it," proud Papa Truman told Rep. Overton Brooks of Louisiana. "I'm delighted for her sake that she is going, but I'm proudest of the fact that she made it possibly all by herself."

"She's a great girl and will make an excellent ambassadress of good will wherever she goes," said Brooks.

"She'll be a typical American, you can bank on that," agreed Margaret's father.

When the Louisiana Congressman suggested that it would be "a good idea to let Margaret blaze the way for a trip to Europe yourself," the President replied that his plans for the rest of the year were still indefinite. It is known, however, that he has been considering such a trip.

North Korean Prisoners

It's a regrettable but inescapable fact that friction is increasing between Korean President Syngman Rhee and Gen. Matt Ridgway.

Latest friction has been Rhee's nagging at Ridgway to free 35,000 North Korean prisoners of war to join the South Korean army and to help with the spring farming in South Korea. These prisoners have been screened by a South Korean inspection team, appointed by Minister of Defense Lee Kee Bung, who reported that of the 144,000 North Koreans in U.N. prison camps, 35,000 have either reformed or were not communists in the first place.

However, the American ground forces commander in Korea, Lt. Gen. James Van Fleet, rejected the report and refused to release a single North Korean. Van Fleet warned that he did not trust the North Koreans, that if 35,000 were released, the Allies may have to capture them all over again. He was backed up in his decision by General Ridgway.

President Rhee replied that the 35,000 had been carefully screened, that most of them had been forced into the North Korean Army by Communist officials. He also argued that they were sorely needed on South Korean farms, and offered to spy on them secretly while they worked to make sure they were loyal.

Nevertheless, Ridgway refused to take any chances on freeing North Koreans who might return to fight against our troops again.

These Days

Avoidance Of Temptation

With all the crookedness going on in Washington and its approaches, many solutions are offered as to how to make men as honest as they should be. For instance, the Fulbright investigation will stand as a monumental index to the possibilities of corruption through the President's office, but the fact is that nobody has been or will be punished because the misdemeanors and felonies are of a moral and not a juridical nature. To state it simply, the punishment is more likely to be in the hereafter than here.

Arthur Hays Sulzberger was delivering a speech on the greatness of his wife's father, Adolph Ochs, who bought the "New York Times" when it was doing poorly, and built it into one of the foremost newspapers of all time. This speech was made before the Silurians, who are newspapermen of long standing and know whence the fact was borne. Of Ochs, Sulzberger said:

". . . He had the intelligence to avoid business temptations. He was a very human man and possessed his share of human frailties, but he knew it and so he refused to place himself in a position to be tempted. Very shortly after he arrived in New York, his friend Samuel Untermyer was the intermediary who offered him a contract for $150,000 worth of municipal advertising. No strings were attached. Mr. Untermyer would not have been a party to any deal involving his friend. But Mr. Ochs turned it down and did so on the theory that he needed the revenue so desperately that he would instantly adjust his operations to the windfall and he was unwilling to trust himself as to what he might do if, after that had happened, he was confronted with a cancellation of the contract."

The sequence of thought there represents a thoroughly theological approach to morality, which is not that man will not sin, given the opportunity, but that righteousness manifests itself by avoiding the opportunity.

I do not know why Mr. Ochs could not have taken this advertising. For it was the people's money that was being spent on advertising and the officials should or should not have put it in his newspaper strictly on the basis of its value to the people. It is like many who are today worried about sticking their necks out in political discussion lest their income tax returns be investigated, or their anti-trust relations, or their radio station licenses or some other activity which gives the government an opportunity to use its power to destroy.

The avoidance of temptation is a very hard road to follow, because for men in public life temptations are not limited to dollars or mink coats, but there is the fate worse than death of being unpopular and even obscure.

Mr. Ochs, for instance, never was on the celery circuit. That is a spreading disease which few dare avoid. I shall diagnose it for you in detail:

A public man needs to be seen. The more he is seen, the more celebrated he is. Therefore, in many places, he is invited to attend public dinners where he sits on the dais. Usually this takes four to five hours out of his life. The chairs are the most uncomfortable that a hotel can find and the food is stereotyped, having, on the whole, degenerated dreadfully during the past decade.

Well, the celebrity sits there until his name is called. Then he rises for a bow amid perfunctory applause. Then he sits down. That makes him a celebrity. When he goes home, his wife asked him, "What happened?" He answers, "I took a bow."

Adolph Ochs never went to such places. His business manager, Louis Wiley, did it nearly every night of his life and he enjoyed it. But Ochs stayed away and when it came to putting plugs in his paper, few knew him well enough to ask for them.

There are differences of opinion on how to live, but the yearning for popularity is a greater temptation than the yearning for dollars. It becomes a debasement of personality, a craven currying of vulgar favor in the desire to be seen, heard and patted on the back. The price for fulsome praise is often too high and shaving has this drawback, that it forces one to look at his own face at least once a day.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There really isn't any difference of viewpoint between Secretary of State Acheson and Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs, on the matter of American policy toward China, though an effort is being made to make it appear so.

What Mr. Rusk said was that the Chinese Communist government was not representative of the Chinese people because it was under Russian control. He also said that in this sense the Nationalist government more "authentically" represented the Chinese people because they had always historically resented any attempt to dismember their territory as Russia was trying to do.

But certain elements here, who seem to be eager to accord recognition to Red China irrespective of her aggression in Korea, were not satisfied to accept the further definition of American policy made by Mr. Rusk. Efforts have been made to try to bludgeon Secretary Acheson in to repudiating it on the ground that some of our Allies want it so. He refused to do so.

Most unfortunate was the twisting in some press dispatches of what Secretary Acheson did say in his news conference. He was asked if the negotiation of a "cease fire" wouldn't have to be with the Red Chinese. His answer was that, of course, it would have to be with the people we are fighting and that everybody, including General MacArthur, agreed with this.

But this did not mean that, by negotiating a "cease fire" with the Red Chinese, we were extending diplomatic recognition to them. For it could be that a "cease fire" would develop between the Red Chinese and the U. N. commander in the field. What happens after that, either through the UN's good offices committee or through a special group of representatives of the nations engaged in the fighting, would be determined in the parleys arranging the "cease fire" agreement.

What could eventually happen—and this was not to be inferred from anything Mr. Acheson said—is that the two opposing military commanders would strive to arrange a "cease fire" somewhat as General MacArthur tried to do on March 24 last. The terms exchanged between them would be referred then to their respective authorities back home. In all probability the nations having troops in Korea would constitute the only group which would enter the peace conference.

This would not necessarily require a discussion in the UN General Assembly itself until those particular nations had reached an agreement with the enemy. The subjects to be proposed for the settlement, perhaps after the armistice, would, of course have to be agreed upon before there was a "cease fire." When, however, the subsequent negotiations did start, the American representatives could insist that the question of "recognition" was related directly to whether the Peiping government was or was not under foreign control. This question could bring about a deadlock, because any one country party to the armistice could block a final settlement. At that time the Rusk viewpoint could be constructively helpful in the event that the Peiping government had begun to stray from the Communist fold as did Tito.

Underlying the hopes in the Department of State all along for an eventual change in the Far Eastern situation has been the belief that the Red Chinese cannot continue indefinitely to commit their armies to Korea and carry on a war just for Russia's benefit. If there should be a chance for a Tito movement away from Moscow communism, the speech of Mr. Rusk and also that of John Foster Dulles delivered on the same occasion may well prove to have been an influence in bringing about that course of events.

At any rate, the Red Chinese now know through the Rusk speech that a government in China which deviates from Moscow and becomes independent has a better chance of recognition than would a government which has been subservient to Moscow's influence. It would appear very unlikely, if a "cease fire" occurred, that the Peiping authorities would resume the war just to get a seat in the UN or to win recognition. Conversely, it isn't likely that the UN will be in any hurry to change the armistice into a peace agreement unless it is apparent that no repetition of the aggression is likely. Hence, a long stalemate in the negotiations could occur while the UN waited for a new government to arise in China whose assurances could be trusted. But in such a contingency there will have been an end to the fighting, anyway, and the problem will have been turned over to diplomacy to try to work out.

As between a stalemate during a continuous war in Korea and a stalemate in a continuous diplomatic argument on peace terms, the latter would probably win more public support no matter how long the stalemate lasted.

Defense Bonds

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Treasury Department is conducting an especially energetic and highly organized nation-wide drive urging the people to buy government savings bonds. The fervor of it is pictured in a United Press dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., some sentences from which are here quoted: "Throughout May, which has been designated Defense Bond Month, major cities of the nation will observe defense days similar to the one staged here today. Celebrities . . . drummed on the Treasury Department's new slogan: 'Now, let's all buy defense bonds' . . . a big Peach tree Street parade was held here and a 30-minute radio program over the Columbia Broadcasting System headed the opening program. A motorcade set out to visit industrial plants, stores and offices where employes are buying defense bonds through the payroll savings plan. The caravan included Assistant Treasury Secretary John S. Graham; Vernon L. Clark, National Director of the Savings Bond Division; Piper Laurie and Tony Curtis, film players; Chic James, Miss Defense Bond of 1951 . . . 19 veterans of the Korean War were honor guests."

This is the send-off for a drive to continue and expand a nation-wide mechanism for the sale of bonds which has been built up over several years. Among other methods it includes sales by banks and sales through a "payroll savings plan" by which employes in businesses and industries buy bonds through installments deducted from their pay checks. To these a new method is introduced in the present drive, newsboys are enlisted. Thousands of them attached to some 600 newspapers throughout the country which have been delivering pledge forms to their customers together with a message signed by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder: "Your newspaper carrier is engaged in an effort of high patriotic value. We hope you will give your support to this national emergency by buying bonds."

Purchases Diminished

In spite of this highly organized selling and in spite of an immense publicity campaign carried on through newspaper and magazine advertisements and over the radio, purchase of savings bonds by the public has diminished. Purchases during last March were about a third less than during March the preceding year. In addition to buying fewer bonds much of the public has been "cashing in" bonds bought in the past. Much of this has been done within a short time after the bonds were bought, long before the 10-year maturity date.

This is a serious matter for the Treasury and for the country since the Treasury depends upon sale of these bonds for much of the vast borrowing it must do. Doubtless a purpose of the present Treasury drive is to overcome this public attitude. But to achieve this requires understanding why the public buys fewer bonds and cashes in many already held. One reason is the high cost of living. This works two ways; it leaves the public with less money to buy bonds and it reduces the purchasing power of bonds already held. A person who put a dollar into a savings bond 10-years ago finds that when the government pays the dollar back to him it buys materially less. The $10, say, that would have bought two pairs of shoes 10-years ago buys today only one pair. This applies to nearly all goods. It leads the bond owner who has had this experience to reflect that perhaps he would have done better if, instead of putting his money into savings bonds he had put it into some form of durable or semi-durable goods.

Security Declines

The experience of savings bond holders has been shared by other immense groups of savers—persons who have put their savings into life insurance, savings banks, pension funds and the like. They saved for the future, in many cases for security when they should cease to earn because of age or otherwise, and now find that the security is greatly diminished. The experience that many such persons are now having is tragic. Not only are they unable to buy more savings bonds or otherwise save, they are unable to buy necessities.

For what has taken place, a main cause is reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar. That this has taken place is largely chargeable to the government, for in its function of administering the fiscal affairs of the country, it is under obligation to keep purchasing power of the dollar approximately stable. Any policy of government that discriminates against savers as a group and reduces their capacity or incentive to save, is a danger to the economic structure of the country, since this is largely dependent on savings.

19 Yanks, Freed By Reds, Rescued

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, May 25 (AP)—Eighteen Marines and one U. S. soldier, thin, dirty and hungry, returned today to Allied lines after six months of Communist imprisonment and marches over most of North Korea.

They were captured last Dec. 2 during the bloody fighting at the "frozen hell" of Chaugjin reservoir in Northeast Korea. An American tank patrol rescued them in the deserted town of Chunchon.

Names of the rescued men were withheld temporarily.

They said that, for the most part, they were well treated by the Chinese. But during their captivity they were marched over distances measuring more than 350 air miles, much farther in actual miles over North Korea's winding roads.

Capt. Edward N. Anderson, Lawton, Okla., spotted the men while flying his little observation plane over Chunchon. They improvised a ground panel of wall paper which spelled out: "P O W's 19 rescue."

Anderson waggled his wings and radioed an American tank task unit. Three tanks sped to Chunchon's outskirts and rescued the men.

Jose Ferrer Clashes With Congressman

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Actor Jose Ferrer told the House Un-American Activities Committee today he has taken a stand against Communist activity in his native Puerto Rico.

Ferrer made the statement while under questioning for the second day about the use of his name by various organizations cited by the committee or the Attorney General as Communistic.

"I have never knowingly lent my name to any organization known to be a Communist front organization," he testified.

Rep. Jackson(R-Calif) told Ferrer "I cannot frankly place credence in some of the statements you have made." This was in reference to the actor's insistence that he didn't know the Communist or Communist-front nature of some of the various causes he has supported.

Air Force Rotation To Be Speeded Up

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — The Air Force announced today that it will send replacements to Korea during the next five weeks to permit rotation of "a maximum number of crews without loss of combat effectiveness."

The announcement, in a letter made public by Rep. Doyle (D-Calif), said personnel of the 3rd Bombardment Group will be returned to the United States first because they have been in the Far East since the start of hostilities.

Crews of the 452nd Bombardment Group, which went to the Far East last October, should begin rotation some time next month, the letter said.

Fencing Champion Kills His Opponent In Tourney Opener

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 25 (AP)—A powerful sword thrust by Defending Champion Mogens Luchow of Denmark Mogens wounded his Finnish opponent, Ilmari Vartia, today in the opening round of the men's world championship fencing tournament.

Luchow had parried Vartia's attack with a fierce lunge which drove his thin, blunted epee — a flexible weapon with no cutting edge—into the Fin's chest under the right armpit.

With blood oozing through his fencing vest, Vartia exclaimed "there is no danger" and insisted on continuing the fight. But Luchow demanded a medical examination.

Vartia, a 36-year-old reserve captain, collasped a moment later and slipped to the floor. He died on his way to a hospital.

Stunned and sobbing, Luchow withdrew from the tournament.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 25 (AP) —Eight-year-old David Plotner still is in critical condition at Washington County Hospital, where he has been in a coma since a calf knocked him down five weeks ago.

Doctors said they have no idea what his chances are for recovering. They performed an operation upon his fractured skull right after the accident and found there had been damage to the brain. They have not been able to determine the exact nature of the damage.

David was knocked down April 18 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Plotner.

Maragon Begins His Prison Term

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — John Maragon, former White House hanger-on, went to jail for perjury today despite his lawyer's plea that he was "only a scapegoat" in a Senate investigation of influence peddling.

Federal District Judge Jennings Bailey denied clemency and the one-time friend of Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, presidential military aide, was led away to serve eight to 24 months at the federal reformatory at Petersburg, Va.

In a final plea, the defendant's attorney, Edward J. Hayes, asked for a suspended sentence and probation. He called the 58-year old defendant "a man of little consequence and little influence despite the stories to the contrary."

But Judge Bailey said he had "no reasonable doubt" as to Maragon's guilt.

"I see no reason in this case for probation," the judge remarked.

Maragon, still dapper in a dark blue suit, stod silently with bowed head during the proceedings. His wife and son sat among the spectators.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Bailey April 28, 1950, after a jury had convicted Maragon of lying to a Senate committee investigating "five percenters"—men who offer to obtain government contracts for a fee.

Accidents are the major cause of death among school children under 15.

State Employes' Pay Scale List Revised

A new list of salary scales for state employes, provided by the Governor's four million dollar budget allocation, was announced today by the Standard Salary Board.

No change was made in the five-year increment system, and there was no attempt to provide an overall percentage increase.

The new scale provides for salaries of teachers in state institutions, such as the Maryland School for the Deaf, to begin at $3,000. Public school teachers start at $2,200.

One of the largest increases is a 68 per cent jump in the pay of superintendents of tuberculosis hospitals, from a scale of $5,500-$6,875 to $9,240-$11,550.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

It's fine to have someone "on your side."

Here was Tommy, for instance. He had waked up early this morning and had dressed all by himself. This was the first day of Daily Vacation Bible School, and all his favorite playmates would be there.

And then he had heard his mother say he couldn't go, that she was too busy to stop her work and take him to the church. He was just about to burst into tears when his sister asked if she might walk with him to the church.

Because of his sister, Tommy was able to go, but in thousands of other cases such as this, the story is not ending as happily.

Won't you make a definite effort to help your children, and your neighbor's children, receive religious training? Take them to the church, where the sure standards of Christian living are taught. Won't you take them? Won't you be "on their side?"

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

It's fine to have someone "on your side."

Here was Tommy, for instance. He had waked up early this morning and had dressed all by himself. This was the first day of Daily Vacation Bible School, and all his favorite playmates would be there.

And then he had heard his mother say he couldn't go, that she was too busy to stop her work and take him to the church. He was just about to burst into tears when his sister asked if she might walk with him to the church.

Because of his sister, Tommy was able to go, but in thousands of other cases such as this, the story is not ending as happily.

Won't you make a definite effort to help your children, and your neighbor's children, receive religious training? Take them to the church, where the sure standards of Christian living are taught. Won't you take them? Won't you be "on their side?"

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TOMMY BROWN (center) is being congratulated as the 1951 marbles champion of Columbia Street school by Milton Steward (left) last year's city champion, and by Lowell Coates, now at Allegany High, who was Columbia Street and City Champ in 1948 when only 10 years old. Steward, who represented St. Patrick's, won the 1949 and 1950 city titles, but is past the eligible age this year and has been assisting tournament officials as a referee. Brown defeated James Wratchford in the Columbia Street finals yesterday two games out of three, and will play the 19 other school champions June 12 at Gephart Playground for the 1951 marbles championship of Cumberland. The city champ will have all his expenses paid by the Times-News to Asbury Park, N. J. where he will try for the marbles championship of the United States during the week of June 24.

Carter TKOs Williams To Annex Title

New Yorker Takes Lightweight Crown In 14th At Garden

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—James Carter, virtually unknown New York negro who had lost two or three 1951 fights, wrenched the world lightweight title from Ike Williams tonight with a stunning technical knockout victory in 2:49 of the 14th round at Madison Square Garden.

Williams, holder of at least part of the crown since 1945, underwent a torturous 90-minute ordeal this afternoon making the 135-pound class limit. Carter weighed 133.

The new champ, born in Aiken, S. C., 27 year ago, but raised in the teeming Bronx, dropped the old champ four times before Referee Petey Scalzo stopped it to save groggy Ike from serious injury.

Because Carter was ranked 12th among the contenders in its latest ratings, the National Boxing Association refused to sanction this as a title bout. But the New York State Athletic Commission gave its blessing.

The odds on favorite Ike shrunk from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1 and even lower at some points after Williams' struggle with the scales became public knowledge.

Only 3,594 paid $13,260, a new low for the lightweight division to see the upset. Millions watched on television.

Carter, biding his time while Williams shot the works early, dumped Williams for five with a long right to the left temple midway in the fifth. It was a shot out of the blue as Williams seemed the complete boxing master up to that time.

After the first knockdown, Carter poured punches at Ike. Down he went again for two jarring rights to the jaw. The bell rang as he was trying to pry himself out of the resin at the count of eight.

Carter swarmed over Williams with a body attack attack that sent him sailing through the ropes onto the ring apron in the tenth. He got back at the count of four.

In the 14th carter, who seemed to have been coasting for a couple of rounds, rocked Williams with a left-right-left and down he went for six. He came up groggy. As Carter poured it on for the kill, Scalzo stopped it.

Flash Gourdine Takes Spotlight In IC4A Contests

Cornell Qualifies 15 In 75th College Meet

PHILADELPHIA, May 25 (AP)—A sprint ace with six stitches in his right heel set one meet record, qualified in two individual events and ran a lap on a winning mile relay team today to lead favored Cornell to the top in the first day of the 75th annual I. C.-4-A ,track and field championships at Franklin Field.

Meredith (Flash) Gourdine, Brooklyn native, stole the spotlight from Andy Stanfield, Seton Hall's spectacular negro runner, as he flashed his game heel to the field in the 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump and in the first lap of the one mile relay.

Gourdine started his great day by smashing a 10-minute-old record. He had watched Stanfield leap 25 feet 7½ inches to break the meet's broad jump record. Gourdine apparently wasn't fazed.

He fouled on his first broad jump attempt and made a fair leap on second try. The third time he flew 25 feet 9¾ inches to crack both Stanfield's mark and the 1931 record of 25 feet 3½ inches set by Richard A. Barber of Southern California on the same Franklin field track.

In all, Cornell qualified 13, including its mile relay team. Manhattan qualified 11, Seton Hall six, Dartmouth five and St. John's, New York University and Georgetown four each.

Gourdine suffered the heel injury last week in the heptagonal games when he was spiked.

Stanfield wasn't exactly inactive. He also had a fine day despite his disappointment in the broad jump. He still has a chance to become the first IC4A triple crown winner since Barney Ewell of Penn State turned the trick for the third straight time in 1942.

Stanfield qualified with his initial record breaking performance in the broad jump, won the 100-yard dash in the fastest qualifying time of :09.9 and entered the 220-yard final with the second fastest qualifying time of 0:21.4.

Beall High School shut out Central High School of Lonaconing, 2-0, to register its 10th consecutive victory of the season in the Bi-State Baseball Conference yesterday at Frostburg.

At Campobello, LaSalle squared its season series with Allegany by whipping the Campers to the tune of 4-3.

Bruce High School, Westernport, retained the runner-up spot in the conference by blanking Fort Hill High School here, 5-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Bobby Raines who fanned 15 and boosted his strikeout total for the season to 115.

Arnone Posts 9th Win

In the contest at Frostburg, Enardo Arnone, Beall southpaw, registered his 9th straight victory of the scholastic season, beating Jack Brodie of the Tigers in a neat pitching duel. It marked the second time Arnone had blanked Central this season and decisioned Brodie this season. The Frostburg lefty whiffed 10 to boost his strikeout total to 109 for the campaign.

Beall sewed up the game by scoring its two runs in the 5th inning. Joe Glass doubled to right and came home on Jim Poland's line single to center. Successive singles by Willetts Duncan and Jack Burner produced the other marker. Central collected two of its hits in the 6th and advanced Kelly to third base but was unable to score.

Brodie fanned seven Beall batsmen.

Loses 7th In Row

Fort Hill went down for the 7th straight time in a conference game before the slants of Bobby Raines.

Coach Woody Woodson's outfit bunched its hits for five runs in the second, third and sixth frames.

Don Marple socked a homer for Bruce.

Ronnie Sisk, Allegany's hard luck pitcher, issued only three hits and failed to yield an earned run. In fact, it was an erratic ball game as the Campers scored three runs in the final frame as a result of LaSalle fielding miscues. Nine errors were charged against the teams. Doug Connolly was the winner.

Chapman And Coe To Clash For British Amateur Title

Americans Defeat Carr And Beamish

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 25 (AP) —Dead-tired Charlie Coe and dapper Dick Chapman smashed the last British hopes of lifting the American mortgage on their amateur golf championship today.

Dick Chapman

The two former U. S. champions meet tomorrow over 36 holes in the third All-American final in five years. Chapman will have played in all three.

Their golf today was the equal of anything seen in these golf-mad islands for many a year.

The 40-year-old Chapman was five under par for the 30 holes he needed to put the skids under two Irish hopes—Joe Carr and Cecil Beamish. He ousted both by scores of 4 and 3.

Coe, the 27-year-old former University of Oklahoma star, played unbeatable golf as he edged Sammy Urzetta, the current U. S. champion, 3 and 2, in the morning quarter-final. And he had enough left to down Albert Evans of Wales, 4 and 2, in the afternoon.

To British eyes, Chapman was the bigger villain. They had felt sure they would see the 29-year-old Carr playing in the final, particularly after he routed defending titleholder Frank Stranahan yesterday.

But against the flawless star from Pinehurst, Carr never had the right answer. He hung on tightly until Chapman curled in a breathtaking 15-foot putt on the ninth hole to go one up.

That was all the 40-year-old veteran needed. He went two up at the tenth, where Carr was short, and three up on the 13th, where Carr's second shot was through the green.

The pressure was too much for Carr. He sliced off the short 14th into a deep sand trap, blasted out almost over the green and lost the hole four to three. A half at the 15th gave Dick his ticket into the final for the third time in six attempts.

Morris Strikes Out 13 In 16 To 4 Triumph

FLINTSTONE, May 25 — Coach Augie Eichhorn's Flintstone High School tossers trounced Hancock High School today by the score of 16-4 and swept the season series with the Washington countians.

The win was the third of the season for Flintstone against as many losses.

Dewayne Morris, Flintstone pitcher, gave up only five hits and struck out 13. Ronnie Roland with two doubles and a single and T. Puffinburger with three singles accounted for half of Flintstone's 12 safeties.

Flintstone will play LaSalle at Stitcher Field, Cumberland, at 1:30 p. m., EDT., on Memorial Day. Box:

Big Ten Extends Rose Bowl Series

EVANSTON, Ill., May 25 (AP) — The Big Ten today voted to extend the Rose Bowl football series in the manner proposed by the Pacific Coast Conference which has lost five straight Pasadena classics.

The renewal probably will be on a three-year basis.

In a surprising compromise ballot, the Big Ten athletic directors and faculty representatives approved the annual classic, but with a not more than one-every-two-years appearance by the same team.

During the first five years of the expired pact, the Big Ten had a once-every-three-years appearance limit for the same team, while the Pacific Coast loop had no restriction whatever. California, for instance, represented the PCC in the last three bowl games.

Ben Hogan Holds Lead In Tourney

Middlecoff Trails By Single Stroke

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 25 (AP) —Ben Hogan blew cool today but not enough to lose his lead in the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament as he came in with a one-over-par 71 to make his 36-hole total 139.

Hogan, the first-day front-runner with a 68 over the tough 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course, finished in the last threesome in the field of 42 and nipped Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., for the lead.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., playing with Hogan, also finished ahead of Palmer, shooting a 71 for 140.

Palmer had come in with a par 70 for a total of 141 but it stood up as the lead only 30 minutes.

Tied at 142 were Ed Oliver of Seattle, Wash., the day's low scorer with a 67; Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., who had a 68; Toney Penna of Cincinnati, who had a 73, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C.; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., each with a 71.

It appeared for a while that Middlecoff would take over the lead. The former dentist, who has a 60 yesterday, turned the first nine today in par 35 and was two under on the back nine until he hit No. 15 where he took a two-over par six, then he three-putted 16 to lose still another stroke.

Hogan made the first nine today in one over 36 put played the second in even par, shooting one birdie while going one over on another hole.

Five Runs In Second Decide; Jackets Meet Martinsburg Today

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 25—Moorefield High School advanced to the finals of the West Virginia Region No. 4 baseball tournament today by defeating its arch rival, Romney High School, here today by the score of 6-1.

Coach Johnny Paugh's tossers earned the right to play Martinsburg High School Saturday at 2 p. m., E.S.T., and the winner of this game will represent the region at the state championship tournament next week at Parkersburg.

Martinsburg moved to the finals on Thursday by defeating Wardensville High School, 1-0, in sixteen innings.

Bobby Myers Beats Ely

Myers outpitched Joe Ely to win today's game for the Yellow Jackets.

The Moorefield twirler yielded only three hits and the Pioneers hit only four balls out of the infield. Baird beat out a bunt down the third base line in the third and J. Liller and Malcolm singled in the 7th. Romney hit two fly balls to the outfield.

Moorefield put the game on ice with a five run splurge in the second and added another tally in the third. Successive doubles by George Fisher and Bobby Wilson started the big second frame and before the rally died Myers, Hardy, Raines and Barr also connected for base hits.

Romney's lone run in the 5th was unearned. A hit batsman, walk and two errors saved the Pioneers from a shutout defeat.

Pirates Drub Chicago, 10-1

Kiner, Metkovich Clout Home Runs

CHICAGO, May 26 (AP) — Home runs by Ralph Kiner and George Metkovich, a five run inning and five-hit pitching by Murray Dicksin today gave the Pirates a 10-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Andy Pafko's ninth homer of the season, one of only five hits off Dickson accounted for the only Cub run. The Pirates bashed three pitchers for 14 hits.

The Pirates knocked out Frank Hiller with a five-run blast in the sixth inning and continued the violence against Bob Kelly until Turk Lown retired them in order in the ninth.

Metkovich drove in exactly half the Pittsburgh runs with his homer, a double and two singles. Box:

TOMMY BROWN (center) is being congratulated as the 1951 marbles champion of Columbia Street school by Milton Steward (left) last year's city champion, and by Lowell Coates, now at Allegany High, who was Columbia Street and City Champ in 1948 when only 10 years old. Steward, who represented St. Patrick's, won the 1949 and 1950 city titles, but is past the eligible age this year and has been assisting tournament officials as a referee. Brown defeated James Wratchford in the Columbia Street finals yesterday two games out of three, and will play the 19 other school champions June 12 at Gephart Playground for the 1951 marbles championship of Cumberland. The city champ will have all his expenses paid by the Times-News to Asbury Park, N. J. where he will try for the marbles championship of the United States during the week of June 24.

Carter TKOs Williams To Annex Title

New Yorker Takes Lightweight Crown In 14th At Garden

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—James Carter, virtually unknown New York negro who had lost two or three 1951 fights, wrenched the world lightweight title from Ike Williams tonight with a stunning technical knockout victory in 2:49 of the 14th round at Madison Square Garden.

Williams, holder of at least part of the crown since 1945, underwent a torturous 90-minute ordeal this afternoon making the 135-pound class limit. Carter weighed 133.

The new champ, born in Aiken, S. C., 27 year ago, but raised in the teeming Bronx, dropped the old champ four times before Referee Petey Scalzo stopped it to save groggy Ike from serious injury.

Because Carter was ranked 12th among the contenders in its latest ratings, the National Boxing Association refused to sanction this as a title bout. But the New York State Athletic Commission gave its blessing.

The odds on favorite Ike shrunk from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1 and even lower at some points after Williams' struggle with the scales became public knowledge.

Only 3,594 paid $13,260, a new low for the lightweight division to see the upset. Millions watched on television.

Carter, biding his time while Williams shot the works early, dumped Williams for five with a long right to the left temple midway in the fifth. It was a shot out of the blue as Williams seemed the complete boxing master up to that time.

After the first knockdown, Carter poured punches at Ike. Down he went again for two jarring rights to the jaw. The bell rang as he was trying to pry himself out of the resin at the count of eight.

Carter swarmed over Williams with a body attack attack that sent him sailing through the ropes onto the ring apron in the tenth. He got back at the count of four.

In the 14th carter, who seemed to have been coasting for a couple of rounds, rocked Williams with a left-right-left and down he went for six. He came up groggy. As Carter poured it on for the kill, Scalzo stopped it.

Flash Gourdine Takes Spotlight In IC4A Contests

Cornell Qualifies 15 In 75th College Meet

PHILADELPHIA, May 25 (AP)—A sprint ace with six stitches in his right heel set one meet record, qualified in two individual events and ran a lap on a winning mile relay team today to lead favored Cornell to the top in the first day of the 75th annual I. C.-4-A ,track and field championships at Franklin Field.

Meredith (Flash) Gourdine, Brooklyn native, stole the spotlight from Andy Stanfield, Seton Hall's spectacular negro runner, as he flashed his game heel to the field in the 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump and in the first lap of the one mile relay.

Gourdine started his great day by smashing a 10-minute-old record. He had watched Stanfield leap 25 feet 7½ inches to break the meet's broad jump record. Gourdine apparently wasn't fazed.

He fouled on his first broad jump attempt and made a fair leap on second try. The third time he flew 25 feet 9¾ inches to crack both Stanfield's mark and the 1931 record of 25 feet 3½ inches set by Richard A. Barber of Southern California on the same Franklin field track.

In all, Cornell qualified 13, including its mile relay team. Manhattan qualified 11, Seton Hall six, Dartmouth five and St. John's, New York University and Georgetown four each.

Gourdine suffered the heel injury last week in the heptagonal games when he was spiked.

Stanfield wasn't exactly inactive. He also had a fine day despite his disappointment in the broad jump. He still has a chance to become the first IC4A triple crown winner since Barney Ewell of Penn State turned the trick for the third straight time in 1942.

Stanfield qualified with his initial record breaking performance in the broad jump, won the 100-yard dash in the fastest qualifying time of :09.9 and entered the 220-yard final with the second fastest qualifying time of 0:21.4.

Beall High School shut out Central High School of Lonaconing, 2-0, to register its 10th consecutive victory of the season in the Bi-State Baseball Conference yesterday at Frostburg.

At Campobello, LaSalle squared its season series with Allegany by whipping the Campers to the tune of 4-3.

Bruce High School, Westernport, retained the runner-up spot in the conference by blanking Fort Hill High School here, 5-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Bobby Raines who fanned 15 and boosted his strikeout total for the season to 115.

Arnone Posts 9th Win

In the contest at Frostburg, Enardo Arnone, Beall southpaw, registered his 9th straight victory of the scholastic season, beating Jack Brodie of the Tigers in a neat pitching duel. It marked the second time Arnone had blanked Central this season and decisioned Brodie this season. The Frostburg lefty whiffed 10 to boost his strikeout total to 109 for the campaign.

Beall sewed up the game by scoring its two runs in the 5th inning. Joe Glass doubled to right and came home on Jim Poland's line single to center. Successive singles by Willetts Duncan and Jack Burner produced the other marker. Central collected two of its hits in the 6th and advanced Kelly to third base but was unable to score.

Brodie fanned seven Beall batsmen.

Loses 7th In Row

Fort Hill went down for the 7th straight time in a conference game before the slants of Bobby Raines.

Coach Woody Woodson's outfit bunched its hits for five runs in the second, third and sixth frames.

Don Marple socked a homer for Bruce.

Ronnie Sisk, Allegany's hard luck pitcher, issued only three hits and failed to yield an earned run. In fact, it was an erratic ball game as the Campers scored three runs in the final frame as a result of LaSalle fielding miscues. Nine errors were charged against the teams. Doug Connolly was the winner.

Chapman And Coe To Clash For British Amateur Title

Americans Defeat Carr And Beamish

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 25 (AP)—Dead-tired Charlie Coe and dapper Dick Chapman smashed the last British hopes of lifting the American mortgage on their amateur golf championship today.

Dick Chapman

The two former U. S. champions meet tomorrow over 36 holes in the third All-American final in five years. Chapman will have played in all three.

Their golf today was the equal of anything seen in these golf-mad islands for many a year.

The 40-year-old Chapman was five under par for the 30 holes he needed to put the skids under two Irish hopes—Joe Carr and Cecil Beamish. He ousted both by scores of 4 and 3.

Coe, the 27-year-old former University of Oklahoma star, played unbeatable golf as he edged Sammy Urzetta, the current U. S. champion, 3 and 2, in the morning quarter-final. And he had enough left to down Albert Evans of Wales, 4 and 2, in the afternoon.

To British eyes, Chapman was the bigger villain. They had felt sure they would see the 29-year-old Carr playing in the final, particularly after he routed defending titleholder Frank Stranahan yesterday.

But against the flawless star from Pinehurst, Carr never had the right answer. He hung on tightly until Chapman curled in a breathtaking 15-foot putt on the ninth hole to go one up.

That was all the 40-year-old veteran needed. He went two up at the tenth, where Carr was short, and three up on the 13th, where Carr's second shot was through the green.

The pressure was too much for Carr. He sliced off the short 14th into a deep sand trap, blasted out almost over the green and lost the hole four to three. A half at the 15th gave Dick his ticket into the final for the third time in six attempts.

The win was the third of the season for Flintstone against as many losses.

Dewayne Morris, Flintstone pitcher, gave up only five hits and struck out 13. Ronnie Roland with two doubles and a single and T. Puffinburger with three singles accounted for half of Flintstone's 12 safeties.

Flintstone will play LaSalle at Stitcher Field, Cumberland, at 1:30 p. m., EDT., on Memorial Day. Box:

Two Eddies—McKinnel and Parsons —played outstanding roles last night as the Senators scored their second straight in the Whiz Kids Division of the Little Baseball League by downing the Giants at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 14-9.

McKinney held the Giants to seven hits and struck out 11 while Parsons drive in four runs with a home run triple and single. McKinney rapped a triple and double and batted in two runs.

Three pitchers used by the Giants issued 11 bases on balls.

Beckward of the Giants pounded a two-run homer and a pair of singles.

In the afternoon game at Community Park, the Tigers, 1950 league champions, suffered their second straight setback of the season at the hands of the Braves by the score of 7-5. This was a Dan Davision tilt.

B. Beck and Wolford smashed home runs for the victors while Joe Cioni of the Tigers hit a round tripper and pulled at unassisted double play at third base. The scores:

Big Ten Extends Rose Bowl Series

EVANSTON, Ill., May 25 (AP) — The Big Ten today voted to extend the Rose Bowl football series in the manner proposed by the Pacific Coast Conference which has lost five straight Pasadena classics.

The renewal probably will be on a three-year basis.

In a surprising compromise ballot, the Big Ten athletic directors and faculty representatives approved the annual classic, but with a not more than one-every-two-years appearance by the same team.

During the first five years of the expired pact, the Big Ten had a once-every-three-years appearance limit for the same team, while the Pacific Coast loop had no restriction whatever. California, for instance, represented the PCC in the last three bowl games.

Court Gives Verdict In Feller's Favor

BOSTON, May 25 (AP)—A verdict in favor of Cleveland Indians' baseball pitcher Bob Feller was returned in Superior Court today in a $25,000 breach of contract suit brought against the fireballer by a Boston shirt firm.

Feller was sued for damages by John E. Jenner and John W. Ward for the Jen-U-Ware Company. They contended Feller failed to fulfill a personal appearance contract in connection with a sale of their shirts June 26, 1948.

Ben Hogan Holds Lead In Tourney

Middlecoff Trails By Single Stroke

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 25 (AP)—Ben Hogan blew cool today but not enough to lose his lead in the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament as he came in with a one-over-par 71 to make his 36-hole total 139.

Hogan, the first-day front-runner with a 68 over the tough 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course, finished in the last threesome in the field of 42 and nipped Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., for the lead.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., playing with Hogan, also finished ahead of Palmer, shooting a 71 for 140.

Palmer had come in with a par 70 for a total of 141 but it stood up as the lead only 30 minutes.

Tied at 142 were Ed Oliver of Seattle, Wash., the day's low scorer with a 67; Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., who had a 68; Toney Penna of Cincinnati, who had a 73, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C.; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., each with a 71.

It appeared for a while that Middlecoff would take over the lead. The former dentist, who has a 60 yesterday, turned the first nine today in par 35 and was two under on the back nine until he hit No. 15 where he took a two-over par six, then he three-putted 16 to lose still another stroke.

Hogan made the first nine today in one over 36 put played the second in even par, shooting one birdie while going one over on another hole.

Five Runs In Second Decide; Jackets Meet Martinsburg Today

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 25—Moorefield High School advanced to the finals of the West Virginia Region No. 4 baseball tournament today by defeating its arch rival, Romney High School, here today by the score of 6-1.

Coach Johnny Paugh's tossers earned the right to play Martinsburg High School Saturday at 2 p. m., E.S.T., and the winner of this game will represent the region at the state championship tournament next week at Parkersburg.

Martinsburg moved to the finals on Thursday by defeating Wardensville High School, 1-0, in sixteen innings.

Bobby Myers Beats Ely

Myers outpitched Joe Ely to win today's game for the Yellow Jackets.

The Moorefield twirler yielded only three hits and the Pioneers hit only four balls out of the infield. Baird beat out a bunt down the third base line in the third and J. Liller and Malcolm singled in the 7th. Romney hit two fly balls to the outfield.

Moorefield put the game on ice with a five run splurge in the second and added another tally in the third. Successive doubles by George Fisher and Bobby Wilson started the big second frame and before the rally died Myers, Hardy, Raines and Barr also connected for base hits.

Romney's lone run in the 5th was unearned. A hit batsman, walk and two errors saved the Pioneers from a shutout defeat.

Pirates Drub Chicago, 10-1

Kiner, Metkovich Clout Home Runs

CHICAGO, May 26 (AP) — Home runs by Ralph Kiner and George Metkovich, a five run inning and five-hit pitching by Murray Dicksin today gave the Pirates a 10-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Andy Pafko's ninth homer of the season, one of only five hits off Dickson accounted for the only Cub run. The Pirates bashed three pitchers for 14 hits.

The Pirates knocked out Frank Hiller with a five-run blast in the sixth inning and continued the violence against Bob Kelly until Turk Lown retired them in order in the ninth.

Metkovich drove in exactly half the Pittsburgh runs with his homer, a double and two singles. Box:

Seven To Start In Withers Mile At Belmont Park

Battlefield Rated As Early Favorite

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—Battlefield, the champion two-year-old a year ago and a bust so far this season, will be favored to beat six rivals tomorrow in the 76th running of the famed Withers Mile at Belmont Park.

George D. Widener's chestnut colt was listed in the probable early odds at even money to scamper off with the $25,000-added event on the strength of a sparkling race here Tuesday.

The main opposition is expected from Hal Price Headley's Jumbo, which won over Battlefield by little more than a length in the seven-furlong Swift Stakes at Belmont May 16. Jumbo was listed as second choice at 4 to 1.

Others entered tomorrow are the Phantom Farm's Nullify, Howell E. Jackson's Due East, Larry MacPhail's General Staff, C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint, and the Greentree Stable's Irish-bred, Northern Star.

All carry 126 pounds in The Withers, first run at old Jerome Park in 1874.

Battlefield, to be ridden by Eddie Arcaro again, beat three of the horses he meets tomorrow in Tuesday's race. In that one, the son of War relic skipped six furlongs in 1:10 1-5, and Arcaro said he wasn't extended.

How he fares in the Withers — first time the colt has ever tried a mile route — will determine if Battlefield runs in the $100,000 Belmont June 16.

Battlefield packed 126 pounds Tuesday, giving 14 pounds to Nullify which finished second. General Staff, carrying only 113 pounds, was third, and Northern Star, also with 126, was fourth.

Seven To Start In Withers Mile At Belmont Park

Battlefield Rated As Early Favorite

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—Battlefield, the champion two-year-old a year ago and a bust so far this season, will be favored to beat six rivals tomorrow in the 76th running of the famed Withers Mile at Belmont Park.

George D. Widener's chestnut colt was listed in the probable early odds at even money to scamper off with the $25,000-added event on the strength of a sparkling race here Tuesday.

The main opposition is expected from Hal Price Headley's Jumbo, which won over Battlefield by little more than a length in the seven-furlong Swift Stakes at Belmont May 16. Jumbo was listed as second choice at 4 to 1.

Others entered tomorrow are the Phantom Farm's Nullify, Howell E. Jackson's Due East, Larry MacPhail's General Staff, C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint, and the Greentree Stable's Irish-bred, Northern Star.

All carry 126 pounds in The Withers, first run at old Jerome Park in 1874.

Battlefield, to be ridden by Eddie Arcaro again, beat three of the horses he meets tomorrow in Tuesday's race. In that one, the son of War relic skipped six furlongs in 1:10 1-5, and Arcaro said he wasn't extended.

How he fares in the Withers — first time the colt has ever tried a mile route — will determine if Battlefield runs in the $100,000 Belmont June 16.

Battlefield packed 126 pounds Tuesday, giving 14 pounds to Nullify which finished second. General Staff, carrying only 113 pounds, was third, and Northern Star, also with 126, was fourth.

Reynolds Discusses Keyser History

KEYSER, W. Va. — Lester Reynolds, local attorney, gave a review of church activities in Keyser from the time the city was founded down to the present time at a meeting of the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday. The talk, followed a review of Keyser and Mineral county history given the previous week by Luke McDowell.

In telling of the early history of Keyser, founded ten years before the Civil War began, Reynolds said the names of the community were Potomac, Paddytown, and during the Civil War and later, it was known as New Creek. The B. and O. Railroad Company used the name "New Creek" for its station here until 1872 or 73, when the name was changed to Keyser, honoring a vice president of the company, William Keyser.

W. Va. Panhandle Will Switch To DST Sunday

Will Revert Back To EST Sept. 2

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., May 25 (AP)—Most of West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle will go on Daylight Saving Time Sunday.

It is four weeks behind the customary time for moving the clocks ahead an hour, and in the fall the Panhandle will go back on standard time on Sept. 2 rather than Sept. 30.

The unorthodox dates for the switch-overs represent a compromise with the strong rural sentiment against Daylight Saving.

The Martinsburg City Council started the official movement to daylight last month when it voted to put municipal employes on the earlier schedule this Sunday.

Bolivar, Harpers Ferry, Hedgesville, Shepherdstown, Charles Town and Berkeley Springs — all the larger communities in the three-county area have now followed suit.

Banks, business houses, and nearly all the large industrial plants have agreed to the change in time. Even the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which runs its trains on Standard Time, is putting non-operating parts of its Martinsburg plant on daylight.

Most vocal opposition has come from the Berkeley County Farm Bureau.

The Panhandle is surrounded by Maryland and Virginia. All of the Maryland area has Daylight Time. Virginia stays on standard, except in the two counties which adjoin Washington, D. C.

The change here leaves Winchester, Va., the only sizeable city in the area still clinging to Standard.

W. Va. Panhandle Will Switch To DST Sunday

Will Revert Back To EST Sept. 2

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., May 25 (AP)—Most of West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle will go on Daylight Saving Time Sunday.

It is four weeks behind the customary time for moving the clocks ahead an hour, and in the fall the Panhandle will go back on standard time on Sept. 2 rather than Sept. 30.

The unorthodox dates for the switch-overs represent a compromise with the strong rural sentiment against Daylight Saving.

The Martinsburg City Council started the official movement to daylight last month when it voted to put municipal employes on the earlier schedule this Sunday.

Bolivar, Harpers Ferry, Hedgesville, Shepherdstown, Charles Town and Berkeley Springs — all the larger communities in the three-county area have now followed suit.

Banks, business houses, and nearly all the large industrial plants have agreed to the change in time. Even the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which runs its trains on Standard Time, is putting non-operating parts of its Martinsburg plant on daylight.

Most vocal opposition has come from the Berkeley County Farm Bureau.

The Panhandle is surrounded by Maryland and Virginia. All of the Maryland area has Daylight Time. Virginia stays on standard, except in the two counties which adjoin Washington, D. C.

The change here leaves Winchester, Va., the only sizeable city in the area still clinging to Standard.

HOLLYWOOD, May 25. (INS)—The stage play of "Moulin Rouge," Pierre La Mure's best seller, opens on Broadway in September with Nat Goldstone producing. It was Nat who was back of "Bloomer Girl," Celeste Holm's former hit.

I hear through the grapevine that some motion picture money is going into the show which means that it will be made as a motion picture after it plays on Broadway.

Hume Cronyn is being mentioned for the Henri De Toulouse Lautrec role. I'd like to put in my fifty cents worth and say I cannot think of anyone who would be better than Hume Cronyn.

Spike Jones, in town to stay for a while, starts work before long in "Really, Mr. Greeley" for Tony Owen, who will release his picture through RKO.

As I hear it, it's a period piece about a barnstorming entertainer in the days of the early west, and Spike, of course, will play the barnstormer. That, Spike can do to the queen's taste.

I am greatly interested in "The Pinkerton Story," by Jim Horan, on the stands tomorrow—not only because Horan is Paul Schoenstein's assistant on the New York Journal-American, but because the late William Tinkerton was a friend of mine and of my husband, Dr. Harry Martin.

Bill told my favorite doctor many fascinating stories about the way the Pinkerton Agency and he, personally, tracked down criminals. He was a patient of Dr. Martin's for many years.

I knew Bill when I was on the Morning Telegraph and he and William E. Lewis, the publisher, were great pals.

Horan, in his book, reveals things never before told about the Pinkertons, starting with the Civil War and when Allan Pinkerton founded the agency. Howard Swiggett, Civil War historian, assisted Author Horan.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Bright and early Ernest Hemingway was on the telephone talking to Gary Cooper asking Gary to come to Havana as soon as he finishes "Distant Drums" to fish and rest.

But Coop is tired after the strenuous location jaunt in Florida, so I don't see him going to Havana right now.

More and more he's beginning to realize how many friends he has and that his popularity through the years has not waned in the slightest. He's conducted himself so wonderfully through all this trouble that he has made many new friends.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Brod Crawford frankly tells friends that he doesn't see any chance of him and Kay patching up their marriage, but legal papers will not be signed until after the baby arrives this summer. Maybe then the Crawfords will get together. Everyone hopes so.

Ginger Rogers and Greg Bautzer are again seeing each other, but often. Ginger gave a tennis party last Sunday and Greg was one of the players.

Gene Markey took Herbert Marshall a birthday cake. Gene still has that old charm that made him the No. 1 beau of Hollywood some years ago. He looks so well and has back becoming weight which he had dropped during the war.

So far Forrest Tucker is the only Hollywood personality to register for the annual celebrity golf tournament in Washington.

Sylvia Kaye goes to New York on business Monday. She may wait there for Danny to come back from London, although I doubt that she'll stay until July. Her mother, however, is well following her operation.

Well, Sexy Rexy Harrison and his devoted wife, Lilli Palmer come to Hollywood the later part of the summer after a vacation in France. They'll do "Four Poster" for Stanley Kramer.

Gene Nelson cancelled his dance rehearsals on "Starlift" to remain with Mrs. Nelson while their son had a tonsilectomy.

Kathryn Grayson and Walter Pidgeon are in Washington representing MGM at the Carter Barron memorial ceremonies. What a sweet person Carter was. And how kind to everyone from Hollywood.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Test Shows Weakness In Europe Air Defense

PARIS, May 25 (AP)—Western Europe's air defenses need a lot of improving before they could beat off an invader, military chieftains have learned.

Their lesson came in "Exercise Umbrella," the first test of air forces assigned by the Atlantic pact nations to the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The three-day exercise, biggest held in the west since the war, closed tonight. It involved fighter and bomber forces of the United States, France, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Have women tried to imitate men?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Clara Thompson, noted psychoanalyst, in Samiksa (India). Although modern woman has "come a long way" since the time of her grandmother, she is still influenced by old attitudes (like the desire to be sheltered and protected) which created emotional conflict. The main difficulty is that women in attempting to win freedom and equality have adopted the masculine pattern as their "blueprint." Their next task is to work out a pattern which will allow them to develop their own special talents and to make their unique contribution to the common welfare.

Can older men endure "stress"?

Answer: Better than you might suppose, writes Dr. Gregory Pincus in Psychosomatic Medicine. When two groups of 54 younger men and 30 older ones were subjected to a series of tests of their ability to withstand physical and mental stress, there was only a slight difference between them, leading the researchers to conclude that "men surviving to old age without overt ill health or infirmity may preserve relatively intact the (glandular) mechanisms involved in response to acute stress." The achievements of the "Seabees" are a striking demonstration of this.

Should you "train" a baby to sleep alone?

Answer: No. The basic effect of any "discipline" or "training" on a child of 18 months or younger is to arouse anxiety and insecurity — he must reach at least 18 months before he is capable of dealing with frustrations. A baby should usually have his own room after the first few months and unless he has been made to feel insecure through being neglected or submitted to a rigid feeding schedule, sleeping alone probably will not disturb him. But if he is frightened when left by himself, ignoring his cries for reassurance will only intensify his terror and sow the seeds of future neurosis.

Their lesson came in "Exercise Umbrella," the first test of air forces assigned by the Atlantic pact nations to the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The three-day exercise, biggest held in the west since the war, closed tonight. It involved fighter and bomber forces of the United States, France, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Have women tried to imitate men?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Clara Thompson, noted psychoanalyst, in Samiksa (India). Although modern woman has "come a long way" since the time of her grandmother, she is still influenced by old attitudes (like the desire to be sheltered and protected) which created emotional conflict. The main difficulty is that women in attempting to win freedom and equality have adopted the masculine pattern as their "blueprint." Their next task is to work out a pattern which will allow them to develop their own special talents and to make their unique contribution to the common welfare.

Can older men endure "stress"?

Answer: Better than you might suppose, writes Dr. Gregory Pincus in Psychosomatic Medicine. When two groups of 54 younger men and 30 older ones were subjected to a series of tests of their ability to withstand physical and mental stress, there was only a slight difference between them, leading the researchers to conclude that "men surviving to old age without overt ill health or infirmity may preserve relatively intact the (glandular) mechanisms involved in response to acute stress." The achievements of the "Seabees" are a striking demonstration of this.

Should you "train" a baby to sleep alone?

Answer: No. The basic effect of any "discipline" or "training" on a child of 18 months or younger is to arouse anxiety and insecurity — he must reach at least 18 months before he is capable of dealing with frustrations. A baby should usually have his own room after the first few months and unless he has been made to feel insecure through being neglected or submitted to a rigid feeding schedule, sleeping alone probably will not disturb him. But if he is frightened when left by himself, ignoring his cries for reassurance will only intensify his terror and sow the seeds of future neurosis.

Does your voice make you seem impatient, nervous and cranky? Give it the polish that everyone admires!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

No woman can succeed as a charmer in radio, television or the movies unless her voice is smooth and flowing. Nor can she succeed in any other kind of life. Her voice must be as attractive to hear as she is to see. It must woo the ear; calm, not ruffle, the listener.

Too many women speak in a rapid, jerky, tense manner. Yet it is easy to put a fine polish on your voice and master a highly poised manner of speaking.

Your Speech Motor

Think of your breath as the motor of your voice. It controls the smoothness of your speech and the volume as well. Unless your breathing is habitually deep and easy, you are use to exhale in spurts and jerks—and that's how your words will come out as you talk. You may not feel impatient, nervous or cranky, but that's sure to be the impression that you make.

If you want to have the smooth-as-glass voice that everyone admires, learn to let your breath out in a steady, even flow. Start working on your control today. Stand or sit in your best posture. Take a deep breath through your mouth, and feel your lungs expanding. Now, let your breath out very slowly as you say "Ho-o-o". See how long you can make the breath last. If your voice quavers or cracks, begin again.

This exercise strengthens the muscles you use in controlling the amount of breath you let out.

Try These Sentences

ere was no sound but the murmer of the stream at midnight.

The stars shine faintly in the moonlit sky.

Soon the sun will shine again.

Practice breath control by reading aloud whenever you can. Remember clearness must never be sacrificed while you work toward increased smoothness. With practice you will develop an even flow of voice that will be clear and beautiful and free from any jerky, tense or staccato sounds.

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading my new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Does your voice make you seem impatient, nervous and cranky? Give it the polish that everyone admires!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

No woman can succeed as a charmer in radio, television or the movies unless her voice is smooth and flowing. Nor can she succeed in any other kind of life. Her voice must be as attractive to hear as she is to see. It must woo the ear; calm, not ruffle, the listener.

Too many women speak in a rapid, jerky, tense manner. Yet it is easy to put a fine polish on your voice and master a highly poised manner of speaking.

Your Speech Motor

Think of your breath as the motor of your voice. It controls the smoothness of your speech and the volume as well. Unless your breathing is habitually deep and easy, you are use to exhale in spurts and jerks—and that's how your words will come out as you talk. You may not feel impatient, nervous or cranky, but that's sure to be the impression that you make.

If you want to have the smooth-as-glass voice that everyone admires, learn to let your breath out in a steady, even flow. Start working on your control today. Stand or sit in your best posture. Take a deep breath through your mouth, and feel your lungs expanding. Now, let your breath out very slowly as you say "Ho-o-o". See how long you can make the breath last. If your voice quavers or cracks, begin again.

This exercise strengthens the muscles you use in controlling the amount of breath you let out.

Try These Sentences

Home was far away down the river.

There was no sound but the murmer of the stream at midnight.

The stars shine faintly in the moonlit sky.

Soon the sun will shine again.

Practice breath control by reading aloud whenever you can. Remember clearness must never be sacrificed while you work toward increased smoothness. With practice you will develop an even flow of voice that will be clear and beautiful and free from any jerky, tense or staccato sounds.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

G R A M R C D I N M A I V D R A R M F N P
E L W P A V R M W F C S R K C — C E R D S.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: DEEP, DEEP—WHERE NEVER CARE OR PAIN, SHALL REACH HER INNOCENT HEART AGAIN—MOORE.

I wish to thank all my friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness of my wife, Mrs. Bessie M. Logue, and following her death. I especially want to thank Rev. C. Winfield Hall, Rev. Gordon R. Hall, the pallbearers and those who sent floral offerings and those who donated cars for the funeral.
WILLIAM T. LOGUE,

Stock Prices Make Advance In Spite Of Bearish Inroads

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Stocks made a determined and successful stand against bearish inroads today in a quiet market.

Although the market finished higher on average, it did not come out without showing scars—notably in the oil division.

Among leaders advances generally terminated around the dollar mark. Nickel Plate was an outstanding exception up 5½ at 200½. Downside stocks also held minus signs mostly below the dollar.

An indication of the narrowness of the market is shown by the fact that in the list of 16 most active issues the biggest advance was 50 cents and the greatest decline was 25 cents

Railroad issues were braced by Nickel Plate but nowhere did they show spectacular strength.

The volume of business came to only 1,210,000 shares, lowest of the week. Yesterday the total was 2,580,000 shares.

Socony-Vacuum Oil was the most actively traded issue in the list and was off ¼ at 28⅝ on 18,800 sales. Others following were General Motors up ⅛ at 48⅛, U. S. Steel unchanged at 40⅝, AVCO Mfg. unchanged at 7½, and Radio Corp. off ⅛ at 19.

Illinois Central was up 1 at 58, and others moving up included Baltimore & Ohio ⅜ at 19½, United Air Lines ½ at 26⅞, Studebaker ½ at 28¾, Goodrich 1⅝ at 51⅞, Allied Chemical ¾ at 67, and West Indies Sugar ¾ at 38⅝.

Laundry Pact Talks Planned

Arrangements have been made for a meeting between representatives of the Cumberland Laundry Company and Local 40, Laundry Workers Union, CIO, to negotiate on a new contract.

Both the company and union announced yesterday that a meeting has been planned. No time has been set for this session.

A spokesman for the Cumberland Laundry Company said yesterday "there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"First of all, there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"Secondly, the statement that workers failed to receive a wage increase after arbitration is not correct. The issue at arbitration last year was whether the increase offered by the company, or the increase demanded by the Union should be granted. The late Chief Judge William A. Huster, acting as arbitrator, granted the increase offered by the company. This same increase was given by another laundry operating under a union contract."

The rest of the statement pertained to the opinion of Judge Huster.

It was stated yesterday that the workers failed to receive a wage increase last year after arbitration. A two-cent an hour wage increase was granted.

SRC To Consider Area Projects

The State Roads Commission will decide whether or not to take over the maintenance of the Bloomington-Swanton highway following a meeting of the full board in Baltimore soon.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegate to the General Assembly from Allegany county, met with two members of the commission yesterday to discuss the matter. Garrett county wants the state to take over the maintenance of the road because it is too costly for the county.

Russell M. McCain, chairman of the commisison, and David Nichols, a commission member, toured the road Thursday. Whitworth said the two state officials commented that the road is bumpy but that it could be a good route for traffic between West Virginia points and Maryland.

It is also important as an access road to the Garrett county recreation area, Whitworth said. The road in question is about 10 miles in length, Whitworth said.

Whitworth reported that McCain and Nichols informed him they had contacted the Navy Department relative to the bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto and possible relocation of the structure and highway in that area.

Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, of Oakland, talked to the commissioners Thursday about the possibility of widening Third Street, using several feet of the east side, so as to relieve traffic congestion in that section.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF PROPOSED BOWLING GREEN SPECIAL TAXING AREA

The County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, in compliance with Section 2 (E-1) of Chapter 494 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for 1951, do hereby give notice of a public hearing on said Act, to be held at the Bowling Green Fire House, Bowling Green, Allegany County, Maryland, on Friday, June 1, 1951, at 7:30 P. M. for public discussion and explanation of said act.

Stock Prices Make Advance In Spite Of Bearish Inroads

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Stocks made a determined and successful stand against bearish inroads today in a quiet market.

Although the market finished higher on average, it did not come out without showing scars—notably in the oil division.

Among leaders advances generally terminated around the dollar mark. Nickel Plate was an outstanding exception up 5½ at 200½. Downside stocks also held minus signs mostly below the dollar.

An indication of the narrowness of the market is shown by the fact that in the list of 16 most active issues the biggest advance was 50 cents and the greatest decline was 25 cents

Railroad issues were braced by Nickel Plate but nowhere did they show spectacular strength.

The volume of business came to only 1,210,000 shares, lowest of the week. Yesterday the total was 2,580,000 shares.

Socony-Vacuum Oil was the most actively traded issue in the list and was off ¼ at 28⅝ on 18,800 sales. Others following were General Motors up ⅛ at 48⅛, U. S. Steel unchanged at 40⅝, AVCO Mfg. unchanged at 7½, and Radio Corp. off ⅛ at 19.

Illinois Central was up 1 at 58, and others moving up included Baltimore & Ohio ⅜ at 19½, United Air Lines ½ at 26⅞, Studebaker ½ at 28¾, Goodrich 1⅝ at 51⅞, Allied Chemical ¾ at 67, and West Indies Sugar ¾ at 38⅝.

Laundry Pact Talks Planned

Arrangements have been made for a meeting between representatives of the Cumberland Laundry Company and Local 40, Laundry Workers Union, CIO, to negotiate on a new contract.

Both the company and union announced yesterday that a meeting has been planned. No time has been set for this session.

A spokesman for the Cumberland Laundry Company said yesterday "there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"First of all, there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"The company stands ready and willing to negotiate and to discuss this subject with the union.

"Secondly, the statement that workers failed to receive a wage increase after arbitration is not correct. The issue at arbitration last year was whether the increase offered by the company, or the increase demanded by the Union should be granted. The late Chief Judge William A. Huster, acting as arbitrator, granted the increase offered by the company. This same increase was given by another laundry operating under a union contract."

The rest of the statement pertained to the opinion of Judge Huster.

It was stated yesterday that the workers failed to receive a wage increase last year after arbitration. A two-cent an hour wage increase was granted.

SRC To Consider Area Projects

The State Roads Commission will decide whether or not to take over the maintenance of the Bloomington-Swanton highway following a meeting of the full board in Baltimore soon.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegate to the General Assembly from Allegany county, met with two members of the commission yesterday to discuss the matter. Garrett county wants the state to take over the maintenance of the road because it is too costly for the county.

Russell M. McCain, chairman of the commisison, and David Nichols, a commission member, toured the road Thursday. Whitworth said the two state officials commented that the road is bumpy but that it could be a good route for traffic between West Virginia points and Maryland.

It is also important as an access road to the Garrett county recreation area, Whitworth said. The road in question is about 10 miles in length, Whitworth said.

Whitworth reported that McCain and Nichols informed him they had contacted the Navy Department relative to the bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto and possible relocation of the structure and highway in that area.

Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, of Oakland, talked to the commissioners Thursday about the possibility of widening Third Street, using several feet of the east side, so as to relieve traffic congestion in that section.

City Will Expand Water System If Needed For New Industries

Treatment Plant Near Cresaptown Suggested

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick reported yesterday that Cumberland's water system can be expanded sufficiently to take care of the needs of existing and new industries.

The commissioner estimated that additional filtration facilities at Lake Gordon would enable the city to supply an additional 6,000,000 gallons of pure water a day.

The construction of a third dam above Lake Koon would impound additional water and enable the city to conserve more of the water produced on the Evitts Creek watershed, he said.

None of these measures are needed at present, when average daily consumption is exceeding 12,000,000 gallons a day.

He said the department will be glad to cooperate in providing additional water which will be needed in future expansion of the Amcelle plant.

Small Offers Idea

Commissioner Tederick and Fred T. Small, vice president of the Celanese Corporation of America, discussed informally an idea suggested by the former Amcelle plant manager for future facilities of the Savage River Dam.

Small had suggested tentative ideas for a future water treatment plant to purify water from the Potomac River, which might be located in the Cresaptown area.

He said the plan might be feasible when the Savage River Dam is in operation.

The dam, slated for completion by this fall, will provide satisfactory volume of water throughout the year and provide water which could be successfully treated for drinking or industrial purposes.

Small said the Army Engineers would have facilities to make a survey to determine the feasibility of such a project.

Chief advantage of the plan, Small said, would be the saving in pipe through letting the Potomac River bring the water to this area.

He said water from such a system could be made available for the communities and industries of the area.

Third Dam Desirable

The present two dams in Cumberland's water system, Small said, do not have sufficient capacity to supply present needs during a series of dry years.

The trouble, he said, is that if dry years were to come, the first users to be cut would be industries since water must be supplied for home use and fire protection.

Were it not for the Savage River Dam, which will maintain satisfactory water levels in the Potomac here, the same dry season which would reduce Cumberland's water supplies might cause a drop in the flow of the Potomac to the point where water would not be satisfactory for processing at the Amcelle plant.

Commissioner Tederick yesterday termed the idea a "good thought," but added the city does not want to lose the plant as a water customer.

City May End Fiscal Year With Surplus

Collections Total 95 Per Cent Of Levy

Officials were cheered this week with the possibility that the city may end the fiscal year with a substantial surplus.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday reported that excess collections as of April 30 totaled $30,343.65, with $95,721.55 still to be collected from the 1950 levy of $1,275,340.

Addition of the excess collections to the $1,209,962.10 already collected means that only $65,000 need come in by June 30 to meet the actual needs of the city. Collections already total 95 per cent of the levy.

There is a possibility, Gibson said, that collections may reach $50,000 in excess of the levy which will in a measure compensate for the $152,000 surplus on hand at the beginning of this fiscal year.

All of the uncollected items are in miscellaneous revenues, including license fees, general and special income, state auto license fees and state income tax.

Some appropriations, however, will go over previous estimates as a result of a $13 a month cost of living wage boost granted to all city employes last December, and the $12 a month increase granted to police and firemen by the General Assembly.

Gibson said some non recurring items in the present budget may compensate for a few departments which may be overdrawn at the end of the year.

The only department overdrawn at the end of April was the Recreation Department, by $2,748.24.

Collections from Penn Avenue Field and other rec events, plus the five cent admission tax on recreation events, may reduce the amount by the end of the fiscal year.

Expenditures were at the $812,431.38 mark, leaving a balance of $228,748.24 at the end of April.

Carder Boy Wins FFA Judging

James Carder of Oldtown High School won first prize in the county-wide Future Farmers of America Poultry and Egg Judging Contest, James H. House, vocational agriculture supervisor, announced yesterday after he and Robert E. L. Ross, Flintstone vo-ag teacher, finished tabulating all the results.

Five Oldtown FFA club mates followed young Carder in the contest, which was held Thursday night in Steinla's garage on South Mechanic Street. They were Eldon Long, Donald Platt, Robert Bible, George McCabe and Marshall Shryock. Carder received $5 first prize, Long got $4, Platt $3, Bible $2 and the others $1 each.

The boys who finished in the next six places also received $1 awards. They were, in order of finish, James Matthews, Fort Hill; Thomas Buser, Flintstone; Donald Nixon, Oldtown; Royce Stafford, Flintstone; Eddy Mueller and Sonny Dever, both Oldtown. Oldtown will receive a banner for having the next team in the contest.

Eagles District Meeting Sunday

District No. 2 meeting of Fraternal Order of Eagles will be held Sunday at the home of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, North Mechanic Street, beginning at 2 p. m., Floyd S. Elliott, president of the local group, said yesterday.

Four aeries comprise District No. 2 with delegates from each expected to attend, Elliott noted. The program will include initiation of a class of 20 new members in addition to the regular business session. A prominent speaker will address the delegation, Elliott said.

F. T. Twigg, district director, and J. L. Farrin, district chairman will be in charge of the session. The four aeries comprising District No. 2 are Cumberland, Frostburg, Cresaptown and Hagerstown.

WEATHER

Yesterday could be termed "most beautiful" in the annals of weather conditions. Cumberlanders were given a chance to further their spring planting and house cleaning. The high was 80 at the weather station in Constitution Park with a low of 53. At 10 o'clock last night it was 71 degrees. The dew point was 49.5 and humidity 48 percent. Today the weatherman forecasts fair and a little warmer with mercury going into the eighties.

1951 Sabre Is Distributed

The 1951 Sabre, Fort Hill High School yearbook, was distributed yesterday to more than 800 Sentinel students. This year the Sabre, with a theme of a well-organized community, is dedicated to nine students who joined the Armed Forces during their senior year.

Those who have joined are Melvin Durst, Clyde Mackerety, Robert Malone, Leo Reynolds, Leonard Glenn, Robert Mullenax, Allen Shaffer, Charles Mellon and Donald Ridenbaugh.

The book is divided into seven sections, "Government," with pictures of staff and faculty; "Early Settlers," senior class; "Later Settlers," underclassmen; "Public Services," organizations; "Outstanding Citizens," "Recreation," activities; and "Commerce" advertisers.

Editors of the yearbook were Kay Avers and Mary Jo Valeatioe, while Jo Ann Bopp and Norma Alt had charge of advertising and business affairs. Zona Arnold was literary editor and Ronnie Gordon, photographer. James C. Engle, Carl M. Ritchie and Wade Kipp were the faculty advisers.

County Seeks Asphalt Bids

Sealed bids will be received by Allegany County Board of Commissioners until 10:30 a. m. Friday, June 22, for 180,000 gallons of asphalt to enable the county to carry on its road repair program during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The commissioners decided yesterday to advertise for bids on the asphalt. The board seeks bids on both emulsified and cutback asphalt, all of which will meet specifications of the Maryland State Roads Commission.

Bids are asked to list prepaid delivery price in tank cars to Cumberland, Frostburg and Mt. Savage as well as prepaid delivery price by tank trucks in minimum lots of 3,000 gallons to job sites anywhere in Allegany County. Delivery is sought between July 1, 1951, and July 1, 1952.

Walburn Boy Dies Year After Assault

Beaten By Father At Deep Creek Lake

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—Two-year-old James Kenney Walburn, whose father was sentenced to 15 months in prison for assaulting him, died today at University Hospital.

The boy died after a brain operation, his fourth since he was attacked in a Garrett County cabin in October, 1949.

The father, James Roscoe Walburn, a former insurance salesman from Martinsburg, W. Va., drew a 15-month sentence in the Maryland House of Correction.

Dr. Russell Fisher, medical examiner, said after an autopsy, that "death was due to delayed effects of the beating." He said that in his report tomorrow to State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro he will list the specific cause as "late effect of trauma to the brain."

Walburn had two trials. At the first trial, in March, 1950, the mother, Mrs. Therese J. Walburn testified Walburn had attacked the baby in their cabin near Deep Creek Lake.

She said he had squeezed the 5-month-old baby between his legs because he had been crying. She said Walburn also had struck and slapped the boy.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce sentenced Walburn to eight years but a new trial was granted after counsel contended the punishment was excessive.

Last March 27, Walburn again was found guilty of assault and was sentenced by Associate Judge George Henderson to 15 months.

At the first trial, Dr. Luis Manganiello, a neuro-surgeon at University Hospital, testified that the child was blind and that parts of his brain tissues had been destroyed as the result of blows.

A grand jury failed to indict Walburn on four other counts in connection with the case, all involving various assault charges.

Walburn, who is now 31, pleaded innocent.

Walburn had spent 262 days in the Garrett County jail awaiting action on his appeal for a new trial. This was deducted from his sentence.

A two-fold election will be held in the McMullen Highway community Tuesday, June 12. At that time Bowling Green residents will ballot on the creation of the taxing area and also will elect nine members to a Board of Managers of the area. Should the referendum pass the nine residents will have been elected so they can administer the taxing area. Board members will be elected on write-in votes.

If approved, the taxing area will enable Bowling Green to install fire plugs every 600 feet in the community, to establish street lights and lay about 1,500 feet of six-inch water line along Cresap Drive. It is understood that all other water lines in the community are now adequate.

A decision to hold the public hearing was made at the county commissioners' meeting yesterday.

Although not planning to celebrate the occasion until Sunday when he will have his family together at his home, 208 Saratoga Street, and cut the birthday cake at 2 o'clock, Thompson was 70 years old yesterday.

And yesterday afternoon he received a call from his grandson in Newport, R. I., who informed him the youth had passed a presidential examination taken in April for the appointment to the academy. The examinations were given to boys whose fathers are officers in the Army or Navy, Thompson said.

The grandson is the son of Capt. John Malcolm McIsaac and Mrs. Nova Thompson McIsaac and is attending Rogers High School in Newport where he will be graduated this year. The boy expects to enter the Naval Academy in the fall, Thompson noted.

The youth has been a frequent visitor to Cumberland with his parents and expects to visit his grandfather sometime in June with his mother before they join Capt. Softeners Termed Unnecessary In Automatic Washers In City

You don't have to use water softener in your automatic washing machine in Cumberland.

That is the answer the Water Department gives many times a week when housewives call to determine whether or not softener should be added, George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company said.

He said the city water supply averages only 72 part per million of minerals which cause hardness.

Authorities report, he explained, that it is undesirable to reduce the hardness below 50 to 75 by the lime-soda ash process.

Softening agents should be used, however, if the percentage runs between 100 and 150.

Water which is rated at 250 or above should not be used in the home, he added.

City water also rates very high in reference to solids. To be included in the highest quality class, water should contain less than 300 parts of solids.

Cumberland's water contained 122 parts in a recent analysis.

Water containing more than 300 parts per million of solids should not be used in boilers, due to its corrosive action.

Only in alkalinity does the city water exceed the ideal, rating 58 p.p.m. as compared to the normal 50 parts.

Receding Water Aids In Savage River Dam Work

Bulkhead In Tunnel In Base Is Removed

The receding of water in Savage River for the first time since December has enabled Army Engineers to knock out a bulkhead in the Savage River Dam tunnel this week and work will be completed shortly, engineers said.

The completion of the tunnel and control chamber had been held up by high water engineers noted, and now that construction can be continued it is expected the entire Savage River Dam project will be finished before September.

Bulkhead Removed

Workers built the bulkhead in the 10-foot tunnel through the base of the dam in December to hold back the water while the tunnel was being constructed. Upon completion of the tunnel engineers intended to build the 20-foot square control chamber above the tunnel, in the base of the dam.

However because the water which was backed up by a wooden bulkhead in the tunnel did not recede enough to enable the workers to knock out the barrier and construction of the chamber has been held up, engineers explained.

Wednesday, water began receding and dropped over 25 feet in a matter of 24 hours and the barrier finally was removed. Work has now begun on the chamber which will control the four flood gates to be used to regulate the flow of water through the tunnel.

Upon completion of the regulating chamber the main control tower atop the huge earthen structure will be undertaken, engineers related. It is expected this will be finished in September and is the final phase of the dam's construction.

River Flow Regulated

Upon completion of the dam the flow of Savage River into the Potomac River will be regulated with impounded water in the Savage River basin permitted to flow from the dam only in extreme emergency, they said.

The basin which covers an area of approximately 150 acres can be completely inundated to a height of 146 feet behind the dam before the water spills over the barrier.

The dam measures 1,500 feet in width and 150 feet high with a thickness of 1,000 feet at the base and 20 feet at the top. A caretaker will be in charge of controls at all times.

City Will Expand Water System If Needed For New Industries

Treatment Plant Near Cresaptown Suggested

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick reported yesterday that Cumberland's water system can be expanded sufficiently to take care of the needs of existing and new industries.

The commissioner estimated that additional filtration facilities at Lake Gordon would enable the city to supply an additional 6,000,000 gallons of pure water a day.

The construction of a third dam above Lake Koon would impound additional water and enable the city to conserve more of the water produced on the Evitts Creek watershed, he said.

None of these measures are needed at present, when average daily consumption is exceeding 12,000,000 gallons a day.

He said the department will be glad to cooperate in providing additional water which will be needed in future expansion of the Amcelle plant.

Small Offers Idea

Commissioner Tederick and Fred T. Small, vice president of the Celanese Corporation of America, discussed informally an idea suggested by the former Amcelle plant manager for future facilities of the Savage River Dam.

Small had suggested tentative ideas for a future water treatment plant to purify water from the Potomac River, which might be located in the Cresaptown area.

He said the plan might be feasible when the Savage River Dam is in operation.

The dam, slated for completion by this fall, will provide satisfactory volume of water throughout the year and provide water which could be successfully treated for drinking or industrial purposes.

Small said the Army Engineers would have facilities to make a survey to determine the feasibility of such a project.

Chief advantage of the plan, Small said, would be the saving in pipe through letting the Potomac River bring the water to this area.

He said water from such a system could be made available for the communities and industries of the area.

Third Dam Desirable

The present two dams in Cumberland's water system, Small said, do not have sufficient capacity to supply present needs during a series of dry years.

The trouble, he said, is that if dry years were to come, the first users to be cut would be industries since water must be supplied for home use and fire protection.

Were it not for the Savage River Dam, which will maintain satisfactory water levels in the Potomac here, the same dry season which would reduce Cumberland's water supplies might cause a drop in the flow of the Potomac to the point where water would not be satisfactory for processing at the Amcelle plant.

Commissioner Tederick yesterday termed the idea a "good thought," but added the city does not want to lose the plant as a water customer.

City May End Fiscal Year With Surplus

Collections Total 95 Per Cent Of Levy

Officials were cheered this week with the possibility that the city may end the fiscal year with a substantial surplus.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday reported that excess collections as of April 30 totaled $30,343.65, with $95,721.55 still to be collected from the 1950 levy of $1,275,340.

Addition of the excess collections to the $1,209,962.10 already collected means that only $65,000 need come in by June 30 to meet the actual needs of the city. Collections already total 95 per cent of the levy.

There is a possibility, Gibson said, that collections may reach $50,000 in excess of the levy which will in a measure compensate for the $152,000 surplus on hand at the beginning of this fiscal year.

All of the uncollected items are in miscellaneous revenues, including license fees, general and special income, state auto license fees and state income tax.

Some appropriations, however, will go over previous estimates as a result of a $13 a month cost of living wage boost granted to all city employes last December, and the $12 a month increase granted to police and firemen by the General Assembly.

Gibson said some non recurring items in the present budget may compensate for a few departments which may be overdrawn at the end of the year.

The only department overdrawn at the end of April was the Recreation Department, by $2,748.24.

Collections from Penn Avenue Field and other rec events, plus the five cent admission tax on recreation events, may reduce the amount by the end of the fiscal year.

Expenditures were at the $812,491.38 mark, leaving a balance of $228,748.24 at the end of April.

Walburn Boy Dies Year After Assault

Beaten By Father At Deep Creek Lake

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—Two-year-old James Kenney Walburn, whose father was sentenced to 15 months in prison for assaulting him, died today at University Hospital.

The boy died after a brain operation, his fourth since he was attacked in a Garrett County cabin in October, 1949.

The father, James Roscoe Walburn, a former insurance salesman from Martinsburg, W. Va., drew a 15-month sentence in the Maryland House of Correction.

Dr. Russell Fisher, medical examiner, said after an autopsy, that "death was due to delayed effects of the beating." He said that in his report tomorrow to State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro he will list the specific cause as "late effect of trauma to the brain."

Walburn had two trials. At the first trial, in March, 1950, the mother, Mrs. Therese J. Walburn testified Walburn had attacked the baby in their cabin near Deep Creek Lake.

She said he had squeezed the 5-month-old baby between his legs because he had been crying. She said Walburn also had struck and slapped the boy.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce sentenced Walburn to eight years but a new trial was granted after counsel contended the punishment was excessive.

Last March 27, Walburn again was found guilty of assault and was sentenced by Associate Judge George Henderson to 15 months.

At the first trial, Dr. Luis Manganiello, a neuro-surgeon at University Hospital, testified that the child was blind and that parts of his brain tissues had been destroyed as the result of blows.

A grand jury failed to indict Walburn on four other counts in connection with the case, all involving various assault charges.

Walburn, who is now 31, pleaded innocent.

Magistrate Thompson's Grandson Gets Naval Academy Appointment

Judge To Celebrate 70th Birthday Sunday

Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson received a most pleasant birthday announcement yesterday when he learned his grandson, Alban Thompson McIsaac, 17, had been given an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Although not planning to celebrate the occasion until Sunday when he will have his family together at his home, 208 Saratoga Street, and cut the birthday cake at 2 o'clock, Thompson was 70 years old yesterday.

And yesterday afternoon he received a call from his grandson in Newport, R. I., who informed him the youth had passed a presidential examination taken in April for the appointment to the academy. The examinations were given to boys whose fathers are officers in the Army or Navy, Thompson said.

The grandson is the son of Capt. John Malcolm McIsaac and Mrs. Nova Thompson McIsaac and is attending Rogers High School in Newport where he will be graduated this year. The boy expects to enter the Naval Academy in the fall, Thompson noted.

The youth has been a frequent visitor to Cumberland with his parents and expects to visit his grandfather sometime in June with his mother before they join Capt. McIsaac in Puerto Rico, where he recently has been transferred. Although the boy has traveled extensively, being in Hawaii at the time of the Pearl Harbor bombing, and went to the Rhode Island school only one year he will graduate with many honors, Judge Thompson said, and has been a very popular student and athlete.

Young McIsaac has a brother, John Malcolm McIsaac, a student at Brown University, Providence, R. I.

The McIsaacs are not expected to be able to attend Judge Thompsons' birthday celebration although the latter's wife, Mrs. Bertha May Thompson and a daughter and son-in-law, Prof. and Mrs. Samuel B. Craig, Edgewood, Pa., and a few friends will be there. Prof. Craig is superintendent of West Penn School for Deaf at Edgewood and Mrs. Craig is the former Hazel Thompson.

Chemist Hurt Monday Dies

Armand Joseph Collett, 25, formerly of Morgantown, W. Va., died yesterday at 3:40 p. m. in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, as a result of injuries received in a highway accident early Monday morning on Route 40, six miles west of Frostburg.

Collett, employed as a chemist at Kelly-Springfield Tire Company for the past three weeks, was returning from Morgantown when the automobile he was driving collided with a tractor-trailer truck near Guntertown. He remained unconscious up until the time of his death.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner said last night death was caused by head injuries suffered in the mishap.

A graduate chemist of West Virginia University, he was a son of Dr. A. R. Collett, assistant dean of the University's College of Arts and Sciences. Also surviving is his mother Dorothy Atwood Collett. He was born in Morgantown, May 18, 1926.

Pool Regulations Are Announced

More stringent regulations of public swimming and wading pools will result from new regulations of the State Board of Health.

Plans for such pools must be approved by the Board of Health, which has set up standards regulating the turnover and disinfection of water used in the pools.

Adequate supplies of pure drinking water and a sewage disposal system must be provided.

The Board of Health may close a swimming or wading pool at any time for failure to meet the minimum standards.

Annual permits will be issued by the Health Department.

Fairchild War Contracts May Aid Cumberland

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) said he was advised today by the Air Force of plans for enlarging the Fairchild Aviation Corp. plant at Hagerstown, Md.

An estimated $7,000,000 will be spent, he said, on enlarging plant and hangar space to care for increased production of the company's battle-tested transport plane, the C-119.

The Senator said he is asking that as much of the sub-contracting as possible to be routed to the Cumberland, Md., area to make use of an abundant supply of skilled labor there.

Beneficial effects on employment resulting from the proposed enlargement of the plant, he said, should be felt throughout Western Maryland.

Victorious Beauty Contestants

Miss Patricia Engle, tall, shapely Frostburg beauty captured coveted "Miss Western Maryland of 1951" title last night in the colorful pageant staged by the Frostburg and Cumberland Junior Associations of Commerce. No. 6 contestant in the group of nine who vied for the honors Miss Engle sang "If I Loved You" as her talent number and re-ceived her crown of glory from last year's Miss Cumberland, Barbara Lee Fulton, assisted by Miss Frostburg, Miss Betty Ward. First runner-up to the lovely brown-haired and blue-eyed Frostburg girl was Miss Irene Keller (No. 3), Cumberland, who sang "Bewitched" even though troubled with a touch of bronchitis. Second runner-up was pert little Miss Phyllis Riggleman, McCoole, (No. 4) who modeled clothes which she made herself. The 19-year-old winner captured first place in the bathing suit phase of the judging and was second in both talent and evening gowns, to gain her winning margin. The other two girls ran a very close second and third in the final tabulation of the judges.

Softeners Termed Unnecessary In Automatic Washers In City

You don't have to use water softener in your automatic washing machine in Cumberland.

That is the answer the Water Department gives many times a week when housewives call to determine whether or not softener should be added, George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company said.

He said the city water supply averages only 72 part per million of minerals which cause hardness.

Authorities report, he explained, that it is undesirable to reduce the hardness below 50 to 75 by the lime-soda ash process.

Softening agents should be used, however, if the percentage runs between 100 and 150.

Water which is rated at 250 or above should not be used in the home, he added.

City water also rates very high in reference to solids. To be included in the highest quality class, water should contain less than 300 parts of solids.

Cumberland's water contained 122 parts in a recent analysis.

Water containing more than 300 parts per million of solids should not be used in boilers, due to its corrosive action.

Only in alkalinity does the city water exceed the ideal, rating 58 p.p.m. as compared to the normal 50 parts.

Receding Water Aids In Savage River Dam Work

Bulkhead In Tunnel In Base Is Removed

The receding of water in Savage River for the first time since December has enabled Army Engineers to knock out a bulkhead in the Savage River Dam tunnel this week and work will be completed shortly, engineers said.

The completion of the tunnel and control chamber had been held up by high water engineers noted, and now that construction can be continued it is expected the entire Savage River Dam project will be finished before September.

Bulkhead Removed

Workers built the bulkhead in the 10-foot tunnel through the base of the dam in December to hold back the water while the tunnel was being constructed. Upon completion of the tunnel engineers intended to build the 20-foot square control chamber above the tunnel, in the base of the dam.

However because the water which was backed up by a wooden bulkhead in the tunnel did not recede enough to enable the workers to knock out the barrier and construction of the chamber has been held up, engineers explained.

Wednesday, water began receding and dropped over 25 feet in a matter of 24 hours and the barrier finally was removed. Work has now begun on the chamber which will control the four flood gates to be used to regulate the flow of water through the tunnel.

Upon completion of the regulating chamber the main control tower atop the huge earthen structure will be undertaken, engineers related. It is expected this will be finished in September and is the final phase of the dam's construction.

River Flow Regulated

Upon completion of the dam the flow of Savage River into the Potomac River will be regulated with impounded water in the Savage River basin permitted to flow from the dam only in extreme emergency, they said.

The basin which covers an area of approximately 150 acres can be completely inundated to a height of 146 feet behind the dam before the water spills over the barrier.

The dam measures 1,500 feet in width and 150 feet high with a thickness of 1,000 feet at the base and 20 feet at the top. A caretaker will be in charge of controls at all times.

MacArthur Failed To Heed JCS Advice, Collins Says

Pentagon Didn't Want Yanks Sent Near Manchuria

New, Top Secret War Plan Is Being Mapped

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins testified today that Gen. MacArthur went against Pentagon policy in Korea when he sent U. S. troops near the Manchurian border last fall.

Collins said MacArthur failed to heed the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that he halt the United Nations advance some five miles south of the Korea-Manchuria border.

The Chief off Staff's first day of testimony to senators investigating MacArthur's dismissal brought sharp challenges from some Republicans. They said he contradicted the testimony of Secretary of Defense Marshall and Gen. Omar N. Bradley that MacArthur never disobeyed a military directive.

Collins himself said MacArthur's conduct was not considered "blatant disregard of orders."

Collins Called Back

The senators called Collins back for further questioning tomorrow 9 a. m. (EST). Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) said he expected the General could complete his testimony tomorrow afternoon.

Collins testified early in the day that the Pentagon will issue shortly a new, top secret plan for carrying on the war in Korea. He wouldn't

MacArthur's Aide Contradicts Collins

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—An aide said tonight that Gen. Douglas MacArthur was never restrained directly or indirectly from sending American troops to the Yalu River in Korea last November.

The statement by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney contradicted testimony in Washington earlier by Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins.

Collins did not accuse MacArthur of disobeying orders.

He did accuse the ousted Far Eastern commander of failure to heed advice from the Joint Chiefs of Staff that he halt United Nations forces some five miles south of the Manchurian border.

Democrats Pick Chicago As 1952 Convention City

Two Weeks Following Republican Conclave

DENVER, May 25 (AP) — Amid predictions of a "sweeping victory" in 1952, Democrats voted 83 to 16 today to nominate their presidential candidate in Chicago next year.

William M. Boyle, Jr., national chairman, who told delegates they must be prepared to meet a Republican "smear" campaign next year, said the convention will open on July 21 next year.

This would follow the Republican national convention by two weeks. There were indications that the Democrats either will pick President Truman as their standardbearer again or be strongly influenced by any other choice he makes.

Philadelphia Loses Out

Philadelphia adherents fought to the last for the convention but finally made it unanimous.

Boyle told national committee members in an address prepared for a windup banquet that his surveys of voting trends and reports from party workers "point conclusively to another sweeping Democratic victory in the 1952 election."

He said, however, that the party had better be prepared to defend its record vigorously against Republicans he charged are trying to "confuse and delude" the voters.

"We are faced with an opposition which has nothing to offer the people of this country except slander, smears and empty slogans," he declared.

Maryland Election Cited

He said the Maryland election of last year in which Sen. Butler, Republican, defeated former Sen. Tydings, Democrat, demonstrated that "Republican leaders of this country are willing to resort to the use of imported political conspirators to corrupt an election."

Jon Jonkel, Chicago publicity man who campaigned for Butler, faces charges of violating Maryland election laws following an investigation by a Senate Elections subcommittee.

Small Retailers Are Given Break Under OPS Order

100,000 Need Not File Pricing Charts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The government today relieved about 100,000 small retail stores, including many hardware stores, from filing detailed pricing charts under the retailers' ceiling price regulation.

The order by the Office of Price Stabilization gives these small retailers the option of pricing their goods under the retailers' regulation or continuing to price under the general freeze at levels in effect from last Dec. 19 through Jan. 25.

Not Exempt From Controls

Both the types of goods sold under the regulation and the volume of business done by each small retailer must be taken into consideration to determine whether a small retailer is exempt from chart filing provisions, the OPS said.

OPS made clear that the relief amendment in no way exempts any store from price controls.

A supplementary pricing ordered will be issued the first of next week —probaby Monday — giving small retailers remaining under general freeze prices some relief where their margin have been cut down by increased costs, the announcement said.

Other Retailers Warned

At the same time, OPS warned that all other retailers, estimated at 195,000, selling items controlled under the retailers' regulation and not eligible to remain under the general freeze must file their pricing charts by May 31. An additional day is granted because the effective date of May 30 is a holiday.

Retailers who must file the charts cannot continue to sell their goods legally after May 31 without filing. OPS said there will be no extension of that deadline.

Iran's Premier Warns Britain

TEHRAN, Iran, May 25 (AP) — In an emotion-packed news conference punctuated by spells of weeping, Premier Mohammed Mossadegh said today Iran will "fight to the end" for oil nationalization.

He warned that any attempt by Britain or any other country to block his government's move to take over Iran's vast oil resources — including those held by the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company — "will soon bring the entire free world to the brink of disaster."

(Britain announced she is sending the trouble-shooting 16th Parachute Brigade Group of 4,000 men to Cyprus — within easy striking distance of Iran — to strengthen her Mediterranean garrison. Top British officials in London do not conceal the connection between the dispatch of the specially trained troops and the oil crisis in Iran. Although the British hope Iran's nationalist leaders will negotiate a new oil deal, they have made it clear they will use all means necessary — including last-resort military measures — to protect British lives and property against violence.

(Authoritative sources in Berlin said Gregory Pushkin, Soviet ambassador to East Germany, has told Communist supporters Russia would resist the entry of foreign troops in the Iranian oil crisis.)

175,000 Draft-Age College Students Take Exam Today

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Approximately 175,000 college men from all over the United States will enter classrooms tomorrow for tests that can determine whether they'll stay in college or be drafted for military service.

It's the first test of its kind in the history of the United States and probably the largest mass examination ever undertaken. The students will be scribbling answers at more than 1,000 test centers.

Here's the setup:

Deferments have been granted until Aug. 20 for about 500,000 draft-age college students in order for them to take the tests tomorrow, June 16, June 30 or July 13. They had until midnight tonight to apply for the test.

Their scores will be sent to local draft boards within a month after the examinations. The marks will be used along with college grades in helping the draft board determine who should remain in college and who should enter the armed services.

The most experienced bunch of quiz masters in the field — the educational testing service in Princeton, N. J. — has drawn up the questions. All of the staff have doctor of philosophy degrees. The service is conducting the exams and will grade them, using the latest electronic calculating machines in the process

Yardmen Get Hike Of 33 Cents Hour

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The nation's railroads settled a 26-month-old dispute tonight with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen but still were deadlocked with three other key operating unions of firemen, conductors and engineers.

Settlement with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen was announced tonight granting a 33-cent hourly increase to yard workers now averaging $1.55 an hour and an 18½ cent increase to those in road service now getting $1.60 an hour.

These increases, the announcement said, include the hourly increases of 12½ cents to yardmen and five cents to roadmen previously announced, and retroactive to Oct. 1.

40-Hour Week Deferred

The previous increases were authorized by the Army, which has been technically operating the railroads since last August. President Truman ordered them taken over when a threat of a strike seemed likely to paralyze operations.

Another provision in the settlement calls for the 40-hour week to be established in principle for yardmen, but both the unions and the railroads have agreed, under present emergency conditions and manpower shortages, to defer that until January 1, 1952.

In the meantime workers on the individual railroads will have the option of working either the present seven day week or going to a six day week.

The option to work a six-day week may be exercised by serving a three-month notice upon the railroad.

Escalator Clause

When the 40-hour week becomes effective, the yardmen are to receive a four cents an hour increase.

An escalator clause gearing wages to changes in the government's cost of living index was included in the agreement.

"Wages will go up or down one cent an hour for each one point change in the cost of living index. The index base will be 178. These wage changes will be made quarterly beginning with April 1, 1951," the announcement said.

There will be a three-year moratorium on proposals for changes in wages and rules governing working conditions from Oct. 1, 1950.

Today's agreement calls for President Truman to appoint a referee to decide differences between the unions and the railroads over coupling car hoses and over pay for road service employes doing more than one type of work on a single trip.

Tax Bill Adopted By House Group

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A bill designed to increase taxes by $7,100,000,000 a year—maybe more—was tentatively approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

If finally enacted, it will lay a considerably heavier load on individual income taxpayers, corporations, and scores of items subject to federal excise taxes.

The estimated total revenue increase is far from firm. Staff experts said it may hit $7,200,000,000. This compares with the $10,000,000,000 asked by President Truman to keep the rearmament drive on a pay-as-we-go basis.

Roughly, the bulk of the added revenue is expected to come from the following sources:

Individual income tax, $2,900,000,000. A flat 12½ per cent increase for everybody.

Corporations, $2,800,000,000. The regular tax rate would be raised five percentage points, a larger portion of earnings would be made subject to the excess profits tax, and the overall ceiling on the amount of all kinds of taxes that could be levied against a company would be increased from 62 percent of net earnings to 70 percent.

Excise tax increases and additions, $1,000,000,000. Rates would go up on liquor, cigarets, gasoline and automobiles, and new categories of household appliances would be taxed.

Withholding at the source on dividends and interest, $400,000,000.

Atomic Chiefs Indicate H-Bomb Experiments Held At Eniwetok

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — U. S. atomic chiefs threw out a dramatic hint today that the first tests of some kind of hydrogen bomb—perhaps the forerunner of a true "super bomb"—have just been successfully completed.

The announcement, perhaps foreshadowing American possession of the world's most powerful and destructive weapon, said:

"A program of atomic weapons tests has been successfully carried out" at the super-secret Eniwetok proving grounds in the Pacific.

Then came the ten key words:

Tests Cost $100,000,000

"Thermonuclear weapons" means hydrogen bombs.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department, in a joint, guardedly-worded announcement, did not state that an H-bomb had been developed and detonated during the tests—which reportedly cost $100,000,000 and involved thousands of personnel.

It said President Truman had been notified of the success of the tests.

Significantly, it also pointed out that the "thermonuclear weapons" phase of the tests had been carried out "in furtherance of the President's announcement of January 31, 1950."

That was the date when Mr. Truman ordered the AEC "to continue its work on all forms of atomic weapons, including the so-called hydrogen or super-bomb."

"Hell Bomb" May Be Reality

The fact that the thermonuclear "experiments" were conducted in connection with tests of so-called orthodox a-bombs of the uranium or plutonium variety indicates that at least a small amount of potentially explosive hydrogen may have been "wrapped around" an a-bomb —and successfully detonated.

If so, the "hell bomb" may now be an actual reality.

Top scientists have speculated that an a-bomb would be used to "trigger" the h-bomb, because it would offer the best possibility of providing the terrific heat necessary to fuse hydrogen atoms. This fusion would set off a tremendous blast of atomic energy.

Collins Urges Support Of U. N. Peace Efforts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins told the Senate's MacArthur inquiry today he has "seen too much of these damnable wars."

The four-star General said he believes this country should do all "within reason" to support the efforts of the United Nations to stop wars. He added:

"It may be effective, but, by God, until it is proven completely ineffective, I think we ought to do everything in our power to make it work."

Syndicate Buys Tallest Building

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — A multi-million dollar syndicate has arranged to buy the Empire State building, the tallest in the world and one of the most profitable.

The reported sale price is $50,000,000 or just about what it cost to erect the 102-story building 20 years ago.

The purchasers are Roger L. Stevens and Alfred R. Glancy, Jr., Detroit real estate men, and Ben Tobin, Hollywood Beach, Fla., luxury hotel owner. They have swung big real estate deals together before.

The bulk of the stock in the queen of all Manhattan skyscrapers is held by the estate of the late financier, John J. Raskob. He died last October.

A portion of the proceeds of the sale will go to pay inheritance taxes on his estate and to endow a foundation dedicated to Catholic charity.

The syndicate hopes to buy out other minor stockholders before the end of the year.

Arias' Ouster Official

PANAMA, Panama, May 25 (AP)—The National Assembly voted unanimously tonight to remove deposed President Arnulfo Arias from office.

Arias was tried on impeachment charges growing out of his attempt early this month to switch constitutions. His action touched off a wave of bloody violence in which 18 persons died.

23 Missing In Capsizing Of Navy Boat

NEWPORT, R. I., May 25 (AP)—A death toll of 16—and possibly 25—was indicated by the Navy today after an emergency roll call aboard five vessels in the wake of a motor launch sinking.

The launch, with 135 sailors aboard, went down Thursday morning in seas lashed by a northeast gale as it was returning men to five vessels after overnight shore leave.

Two men were known dead and 26 hospitalized shortly after scores of dramatic rescues in which shipmates from other launches dived overboard to aid. The Navy said most of the men in the capsized 50-foot craft were able to grab life jackets before she went down when heavy seas overwhelmed the bow.

Today the Navy reported 23 men missing. Of that number the Navy said 13 were definitely aboard the lost launch and one other could have been.

The remaining ten were "unaccounted for" altogether, the Navy said, but presumably could have been among the victims. The only other possibility was that "several" of them were absent without leave, a spokesman for the destroyer command Atlantic fleet reported.

Marines Will Begin Releasing Reservists

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The first group of Marine Corps reservists will be released from active duty next month, corps headquarters announced today.

The first group will include reserves classified as veterans who were recalled to duty before last August 1, those who are veterans of World War Two or who will be 26 years or older before this coming July 1.

Men qualifying under these headings will be released between June 11 and June 30. The order also applies to Marine reservists now fighting in Korea.

13-Year-Old Memphis Youth Wins National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Irving Belz, a cocky, little 13-year-old from Memphis, Tenn., calmly and seemingly without a care spelled "insouciant" today to become the champion of the 24th annual National Spelling Bee.

Appropriately, insouciant means "without anxiety, carefree."

Irving got his big chance when the runnerup, Michael Aratingi, Brooklyn, tried to put a "q" at the start of cuisine, meaning "kitchen, or a style of cooking."

Irving, resplendent in plaid shirt, blue shoes, pink shoe laces and chartreuse socks, spelled cuisine correctly, and insouciant, too, as the rules demand, to become the champion.

In all, he spelled 27 words—every one a toughie—to win the first prize of $500 and a trip to New York City.

Mike Aratingi, the 13-year-old Brooklyn boy, who couldn't have used a trip to New York anyway, pocketed $300 for the 24 words he spelled correctly.

Mary Anne Bechkowiak, 13, Akron, Ohio, won the third place money—$100—for the 23 words she knew. She missed on "grosgrain"—leaving out the "s" and adding an "e". In case you don't use grosgrain in everyday conversation, it means "heavy, corded silk or rayon ribbon or cloth.

Allies Strive To Sever Red Escape Route

Foe Fights Suicide Rear-Guard Battles

TOKYO, Saturday, May 26 (AP)—The Allied offensive smashed ahead today all across the Korean peninsula. Armored columns thrust deeper into Red North Korea in hot pursuit of the retreating Communists.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters that some Chinese are fighting suicidal rear-guard battles in efforts to keep open a six-mile escape route near parallel 38 on the east-central front.

Chinese prisoners themselves reported many Reds are committing suicide deliberately rather than face continued Allied bombing or risk being shot by their own officers for retreating.

The heaviest fighting apparently was on the Hangye-Inje road on the east central front, some 25 air miles inland from the east coast. United Nations armored columns already were four miles inside Red Korea in that sector.

Allies Hope To Trap 60,000

The Allies were battling to cut off the retreat of an estimated two Chinese army corps, some 60,000 men. Fifth Air Force planes and Allied artillery pounded the escape route incessantly.

In addition to smashing across parallel 38 in the Inje area, United Nations tank-infantry teams Friday crossed the old political boundary in at least two other places.

Against spotty resistance, Allied columns thrust into Red Korea northwest of Chunchon, 45 air miles northeast of Seoul, and northeast of Uijongbu, which is 11 miles north of the old Korean capital.

Field dispatches said those two columns withdrew at dusk Friday to the advancing main allied line.

38th "Nothing" To Van Fleet

He said the Chinese Reds were clogging escape routes with their pack animals, artillery pieces and whatever other equipment they could salvage from the steadily advancing allies.

A tank task force smashed through a Communist road block on the east-central front late Friday and linked up with American troops expanding their bridgehead in Red Korea near Inje.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported that American infantry engaged the Reds northeast of Hangye in hand-to-hand combat twice Friday afternoon. Hangye is 13 miles south of the parallel.

Off the east coast, the U. S. battleship New Jersey and other Allied warships hammered Red supply lines from the port of Wonsan northward. Carrier planes joined Fifth Air Force fighters and bombers in harassing the retreating Reds.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, called the new surge of Allied might "an all-out offensive," and added:

"The 38th parallel means nothing to me."

He visited a tank-infantry task force north of 38 on the east-central front and commented that the Allied pursuit tactics were working well.

Gen. Collins Would Call More Guard Units Into Service

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, told senators today he has recommended that additional National Guard troops be called into federal service this year.

He did not say how many.

Collins mentioned this while testifying at Senate hearings on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Two weeks ago the National Guard Bureau said it was possible that some additional National Guard divisions would be called into service after July. Six divisions, two regimental combat teams and numerous smaller guard units are now in service.

Collins' recommendation was to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

1,025,000 Red Casualties

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, testified today the Communists have paid a toll of 1,025,000 casualties in the Korean war, 90,000 of them between May 17 and 23.

MacArthur Failed To Heed JCS Advice, Collins Says

Pentagon Didn't Want Yanks Sent Near Manchuria

New, Top Secret War Plan Is Being Mapped

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins testified today that Gen. MacArthur went against Pentagon policy in Korea when he sent U. S. troops near the Manchurian border last fall.

Collins said MacArthur failed to heed the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that he halt the United Nations advance some five miles south of the Korea-Manchuria border.

The Chief off Staff's first day of testimony to senators investigating MacArthur's dismissal brought sharp challenges from some Republicans. They said he contradicted the testimony of Secretary of Defense Marshall and Gen. Omar N. Bradley that MacArthur never disobeyed a military directive.

Collins himself said MacArthur's conduct was not considered "blatant disregard of orders."

Collins Called Back

The senators called Collins back for further questioning tomorrow a. m. (EST). Chairman Russell D-Ga.) said he expected the Gen-ral could complete his testimony omorrow afternoon.

Collins testified early in the day hat the Pentagon will issue shortly new, top secret plan for carrying n the war in Korea. He wouldn't

MacArthur's Aide Contradicts Collins

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—An aide said tonight that Gen. Douglas MacArthur was never restrained directly or indirectly from sending American troops to the Yalu River in Korea last November.

The statement by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney contradicted testimony in Washington earlier by Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins.

Collins did not accuse MacArthur of disobeying orders.

He did accuse the ousted Far Eastern commander of failure to heed advice from the Joint Chiefs of Staff that he halt United Nations forces some five miles south of the Manchurian border.

Democrats Pick Chicago As 1952 Convention City

Two Weeks Following Republican Conclave

DENVER, May 25 (AP) — Amid predictions of a "sweeping victory" in 1952, Democrats voted 83 to 16 today to nominate their presidential candidate in Chicago next year.

William M. Boyle, Jr., national chairman, who told delegates they must be prepared to meet a Republican "smear" campaign next year, said the convention will open on July 21 next year.

This would follow the Republican national convention by two weeks. There were indications that the Democrats either will pick President Truman as their standardbearer again or be strongly influenced by any other choice he makes.

Philadelphia Loses Out

Philadelphia adherents fought to the last for the convention but finally made it unanimous.

Boyle told national committee members in an address prepared for a windup banquet that his surveys of voting trends and reports from party workers "point conclusively to another sweeping Democratic victory in the 1952 election."

He said, however, that the party had better be prepared to defend its record vigorously against Republicans he charged are trying to "confuse and delude" the voters.

"We are faced with an opposition which has nothing to offer the people of this country except slander, smears and empty slogans," he declared.

Maryland Election Cited

He said the Maryland election of last year in which Sen. Butler, Republican, defeated former Sen. Tydings, Democrat, demonstrated that "Republican leaders of this country are willing to resort to the use of imported political conspirators to corrupt an election."

Jon Jonkel, Chicago publicity man who campaigned for Butler, faces charges of violating Maryland election laws following an investigation by a Senate Elections subcommittee.

Small Retailers Are Given Break Under OPS Order

100,000 Need Not File Pricing Charts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The government today relieved about 100,000 small retail stores, including many hardware stores, from filing detailed pricing charts under the retailers' ceiling price regulation.

The order by the Office of Price Stabilization gives these small retailers the option of pricing their goods under the retailers' regulation or continuing to price under the general freeze at levels in effect from last Dec. 19 through Jan. 25.

Not Exempt From Controls

Both the types of goods sold under the regulation and the volume of business done by each small retailer must be taken into consideration to determine whether a small retailer is exempt from chart filing provisions, the OPS said.

OPS made clear that the relief amendment in no way exempts any store from price controls.

A supplementary pricing ordered will be issued the first of next week —probaby Monday — giving small retailers remaining under general freeze prices some relief where their margin have been cut down by increased costs, the announcement said.

Other Retailers Warned

At the same time, OPS warned that all other retailers, estimated at 195,000, selling items controlled under the retailers' regulation and not eligible to remain under the general freeze must file their pricing charts by May 31. An additional day is granted because the effective date of May 30 is a holiday.

Retailers who must file the charts cannot continue to sell their goods legally after May 31 without filing. OPS said there will be no extension of that deadline.

Iran's Premier Warns Britain

TEHRAN, Iran, May 25 (AP) — In an emotion-packed news conference punctuated by spells of weeping, Premier Mohammed Mossadegh said today Iran will "fight to the end" for oil nationalization.

He warned that any attempt by Britain or any other country to block his government's move to take over Iran's vast oil resources — including those held by the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company — "will soon bring the entire free world to the brink of disaster."

(Britain announced she is sending the trouble-shooting 16th Parachute Brigade Group of 4,000 men to Cyprus — within easy striking distance of Iran — to strengthen her Mediterranean garrison. Top British officials in London do not conceal the connection between the dispatch of the specially trained troops and the oil crisis in Iran. Although the British hope Iran's nationalist leaders will negotiate a new oil deal, they have made it clear they will use all means necessary — including last-resort military measures — to protect British lives and property against violence.

(Authoritative sources in Berlin said Gregory Pushkin, Soviet ambassador to East Germany, has told Communist supporters Russia would resist the entry of foreign troops in the Iranian oil crisis.)

175,000 Draft-Age College Students Take Exam Today

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Approximately 175,000 college men from all over the United States will enter classrooms tomorrow for tests that can determine whether they'll stay in college or be drafted for military service.

It's the first test of its kind in the history of the United States and probably the largest mass examination ever undertaken. The students will be scribbling answers at more than 1,000 test centers.

Here's the setup:

Deferments have been granted until Aug. 20 for about 500,000 draft-age college students in order for them to take the tests tomorrow, June 16, June 30 or July 13. They had until midnight tonight to apply for the test.

Their scores will be sent to local draft boards within a month after the examinations. The marks will be used along with college grades in helping the draft board determine who should remain in college and who should enter the armed services.

The most experienced bunch of quiz masters in the field — the educational testing service in Princeton, N. J. — has drawn up the questions. All of the staff have doctor of philosophy degrees. The service is conducting the exams and will grade them, using the latest electronic calculating machines in the process

Yardmen Get Hike Of 33 Cents Hour

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The nation's railroads settled a 26-month-old dispute tonight with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen but still were deadlocked with three other key operating unions of firemen, conductors and engineers.

Settlement with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen was announced tonight granting a 33-cent hourly increase to yard workers now averaging $1.55 an hour and an 18½ cent increase to those in road service now getting $1.60 an hour.

These increases, the announcement said, include the hourly increases of 12½ cents to yardmen and five cents to roadmen previously announced, and retroactive to Oct. 1.

40-Hour Week Deferred

The previous increases were authorized by the Army, which has been technically operating the railroads since last August. President Truman ordered them taken over when a threat of a strike seemed likely to paralyze operations.

Another provision in the settlement calls for the 40-hour week to be established in principle for yardmen, but both the unions and the railroads have agreed, under present emergency conditions and manpower shortages, to defer that until January 1, 1952.

In the meantime workers on the individual railroads will have the option of working either the present seven day week or going to a six day week.

The option to work a six-day week may be exercised by serving a three-month notice upon the railroad.

Escalator Clause

When the 40-hour week becomes effective, the yardmen are to receive a four cents an hour increase.

An escalator clause gearing wages to changes in the government's cost of living index was included in the agreement.

"Wages will go up or down one cent an hour for each one point change in the cost of living index. The index base will be 178. These wage changes will be made quarterly beginning with April 1, 1951," the announcement said.

There will be a three-year moratorium on proposals for changes in wages and rules governing working conditions from Oct. 1, 1950.

Today's agreement calls for President Truman to appoint a referee to decide differences between the unions and the railroads over coupling car hoses and over pay for road service employes doing more than one type of work on a single trip.

Tax Bill Adopted By House Group

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A bill designed to increase taxes by $7,100,000,000 a year—maybe more—was tentatively approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

If finally enacted, it will lay a considerably heavier load on individual income taxpayers, corporations, and scores of items subject to federal excise taxes.

The estimated total revenue increase is far from firm. Staff experts said it may hit $7,200,000,000. This compares with the $10,000,000,000 asked by President Truman to keep the rearmament drive on a pay-as-we-go basis.

Roughly, the bulk of the added revenue is expected to come from the following sources:

Individual income tax, $2,900,000,000. A flat 12½ per cent increase for everybody.

Corporations, $2,800,000,000. The regular tax rate would be raised five percentage points, a larger portion of earnings would be made subject to the excess profits tax, and the overall ceiling on the amount of all kinds of taxes that could be levied against a company would be increased from 62 percent of net earnings to 70 percent.

Excise tax increases and additions, $1,000,000,000. Rates would go up on liquor, cigarets, gasoline and automobiles, and new categories of household appliances would be taxed.

Withholding at the source on dividends and interest, $400,000,000.

Atomic Chiefs Indicate H-Bomb Experiments Held At Eniwetok

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — U. S. atomic chiefs threw out a dramatic hint today that the first tests of some kind of hydrogen bomb—perhaps the forerunner of a true "super bomb"—have just been successfully completed.

The announcement, perhaps foreshadowing American possession of the world's most powerful and destructive weapon, said:

"A program of atomic weapons tests has been successfully carried out" at the super-secret Eniwetok proving grounds in the Pacific.

Then came the ten key words:

"The test program included experiments contributing to thermonuclear weapons research."

Tests Cost $100,000,000

"Thermonuclear weapons" means hydrogen bombs.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department, in a joint, guardedly-worded announcement, did not state that an H-bomb had been developed and detonated during the tests—which reportedly cost $100,000,000 and involved thousands of personnel.

It said President Truman had been notified of the success of the tests.

Significantly, it also pointed out that the "thermonuclear weapons" phase of the tests had been carried out "in furtherance of the President's announcement of January 31, 1950."

That was the date when Mr. Truman ordered the AEC "to continue its work on all forms of atomic weapons, including the so-called hydrogen or super-bomb."

"Hell Bomb" May Be Reality

The fact that the thermonuclear "experiments" were conducted in connection with tests of so-called orthodox a-bombs of the uranium or plutonium variety indicates that at least a small amount of potentially explosive hydrogen may have been "wrapped around" an a-bomb —and successfully detonated.

If so, the "hell bomb" may now be an actual reality.

Top scientists have speculated that an a-bomb would be used to "trigger" the h-bomb, because it would offer the best possibility of providing the terrific heat necessary to fuse hydrogen atoms. This fusion would set off a tremendous blast of atomic energy.

Collins Urges Support Of U. N. Peace Efforts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins told the Senate's MacArthur inquiry today he has "seen too much of these damnable wars."

The four-star General said he believes this country should do all "within reason" to support the efforts of the United Nations to stop wars. He added:

"It may be effective, but, by God, until it is proven completely ineffective, I think we ought to do everything in our power to make it work."

Syndicate Buys Tallest Building

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — A multi-million dollar syndicate has arranged to buy the Empire State building, the tallest in the world and one of the most profitable.

The reported sale price is $50,000,000 or just about what it cost to erect the 102-story building 20 years ago.

The purchasers are Roger L. Stevens and Alfred R. Glancy, Jr., Detroit real estate men, and Ben Tobin, Hollywood Beach, Fla., luxury hotel owner. They have swung big real estate deals together before.

The bulk of the stock in the queen of all Manhattan skyscrapers is held by the estate of the late financier, John J. Raskob. He died last October.

A portion of the proceeds of the sale will go to pay inheritance taxes on his estate and to endow a foundation dedicated to Catholic charity.

The syndicate hopes to buy out other minor stockholders before the end of the year.

23 Missing In Capsizing Of Navy Boat

NEWPORT, R. I., May 25 (AP)—A death toll of 16—and possibly 25—was indicated by the Navy today after an emergency roll call aboard five vessels in the wake of a motor launch sinking.

The launch, with 135 sailors aboard, went down Thursday morning in seas lashed by a northeast gale as it was returning men to five vessels after overnight shore leave.

Two men were known dead and 26 hospitalized shortly after scores of dramatic rescues in which shipmates from other launches dived overboard to aid. The Navy said most of the men in the capsized 50-foot craft were able to grab life jackets before she went down when heavy seas overwhelmed the bow.

Today the Navy reported 23 men missing. Of that number the Navy said 13 were definitely aboard the lost launch and one other could have been.

The remaining ten were "unaccounted for" altogether, the Navy said, but presumably could have been among the victims. The only other possibility was that "several" of them were absent without leave, a spokesman for the destroyer command Atlantic fleet reported.

Appeals Court Reverses Milk Price Decision

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 25 (AP)—The Court of Appeals today reversed an Allegany Circuit Court ruling that certain milk producers should be reimbursed by the Co-operative Milk Service Association for low milk prices.

A number of members of the Co-operative voted against joining a Washington association in January last year when the Cooperative told its members such action was necessary to sell milk at the highest price in Washington.

Both those who joined and those who refused sold milk to the Washington association through the Co-perative at a high blend price.

A short time after the new contract was drawn up, however, those who did not join received only the manufacturers' price, three-fifths of the blend price. All the milk was mixed together before being sold.

Appeals Judge Charles Markell did not agree with those receiving the lower price that the Cooperative had discriminated against them.

He declared they should have realized all the cooperative members were faced with losing the Washington trade if they did not meet the association's requirements.

The Cooperative, he said, "was not under any duty to let all of its members drown because some of them could not swim and either could not afford the cost of learning or did not consider the cost of learning worth while."

Taxing Area Hearing Set

A meeting has been called by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners for Friday, June 1 at 7:30 p. m. at the Bowling Green Fire Hall at which time a public hearing will be held on the act passed by the legislature pertaining to a proposed special taxing area for Bowling Green.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, will detail the provisions of the act and a discussion will follow. The act provides that the county board hold the public hearing prior to the referendum on the legislation.

Mrs. H. C. Utterback, secretary of the Board of Election Supervisors for Bowling Green, wrote the commissioners yesterday that June 12 has been set for the referendum on the proposed taxing area.

The taxing area would provide a means of installing and maintaining fire hydrants and a lighting system for the community. Water is obtained from the City of Cumberland.

Election of officers for the taxing area will also be conducted along with the referendum.

Over 500 Truck Plates Sold At Local Office

Over 500 sets of Maryland license plates for one-half and three-quarter ton trucks have been sold at the office of Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat in the Court House since the truck tag sale began several weeks ago.

Treat also said that 39 of the 75 sets of farm truck tags which he ordered have been sold. He still has over 400 sets of truck tags for half and three-quarter ton trucks. The deadline for the old plates is midnight next Thursday, May 31.

Although 15 days have past since the deadline for use of old automobile plates arrived, about one-third of the plates being sold each day at Treat's office still are for passenger cars.

Appeals Court Reverses Milk Price Decision

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 25 (AP)—The Court of Appeals today reversed an Allegany Circuit Court ruling that certain milk producers should be reimbursed by the Co-operative Milk Service Association for low milk prices.

A number of members of the Co-operative voted against joining a Washington association in January last year when the Cooperative told its members such action was necessary to sell milk at the highest price in Washington.

Both those who joined and those who refused sold milk to the Washington association through the Co-operative at a high blend price.

A short time after the new contract was drawn up, however, those who did not join received only the manufacturers' price, three-fifths of the blend price. All the milk was mixed together before being sold.

Appeals Judge Charles Markell did not agree with those receiving the lower price that the Cooperative had discriminated against them.

He declared they should have realized all the cooperative members were faced with losing the Washington trade if they did not meet the association's requirements.

The Cooperative, he said, "was not under any duty to let all of its members drown because some of them could not swim and either could not afford the cost of learning or did not consider the cost of learning worth while."

Taxing Area Hearing Set

A meeting has been called by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners for Friday, June 1 at 7:30 p. m. at the Bowling Green Fire Hall at which time a public hearing will be held on the act passed by the legislature pertaining to a proposed special taxing area for Bowling Green.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, will detail the provisions of the act and a discussion will follow. The act provides that the county board hold the public hearing prior to the referendum on the legislation.

Mrs. H. C. Utterback, secretary of the Board of Election Supervisors for Bowling Green, wrote the commissioners yesterday that June 12 has been set for the referendum on the proposed taxing area.

The taxing area would provide a means of installing and maintaining fire hydrants and a lighting system for the community. Water is obtained from the City of Cumberland.

Election of officers for the taxing area will also be conducted along with the referendum.

Support For Nationalist China

The State Department denies that the United States has changed its policy on "involvement in the Chinese civil war," despite the speech of Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk in New York on May 18. Sen. Taft had charged that the Rusk speech revealed the State Department as shifting over to the MacArthur policies.

Be that as it may, the present policy of the State Department on Chiang Kai-shek, especially as reflected in our military evaluation of the Chiang-held island of Formosa, has changed since the State Department issued its White Paper on China on August 5, 1949. In his foreword to the White Paper, Secretary of State Acheson declared that the Nationalist forces had been defeated through their own weakness, not because of inadequate U. S. aid:

"Our military observers . . . have reported that the Nationalist armies did not lose a single battle during the crucial year of 1948 through lack of arms or ammunition. . . . The Nationalist armies did not have to be defeated; they disintegrated."

Acheson said further that "absence of the will to fight" among Chiangs' forces was one prime reason why "a large proportion" of the military supplies furnished them by this country had "fallen into the hands of the Chinese Communists." And the Chiang government "had lost the confidence of its own troops and its own people."

Some months later, on January 5, 1950, President Truman stated at his press conference: "The U. S. Government will not provide military aid or advice to Chinese forces on Formosa." The President added that "in the view of the U. S. Government, "the Chiang forces could find in "the resources on Formosa" the "items they might consider necessary to the defense of the island."

Early in January, 1951, reliable reports indicated that the United States was sending arms and ammunition to the Chiang forces on Formosa. Secretary Acheson said on April 10, 1951, that the new policy of sending a large staff of military advisers to Chiang had been in effect for ten weeks. And according to Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, Formosa now has equal rank with Western Europe in priority for U. S. military equipment, and $70 million for arms for Formosa in the coming fiscal year is to be asked of Congress.

General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senators on May 21 that we should not try to occupy Formosa with our own forces. But enemy control of the island would "seriously affect our line of defense" and should not be allowed.

Bradley testified that, from a military point of view, he could see no objection to "taking the wraps off Chinese Nationalist troops." But he added this caveat: "Except that if . . . they took such losses both in men and equipment that they then jeopardized the security of Formosa."

Assistant Secretary of State Rusk in his speech of May 18 referred to Communist China as a "colonial Russian government . . . not Chinese." Secretary Acheson in his foreword to the White Paper on China in 1949 had said much the same thing: "The Communist leaders (of China) have foresworn their Chinese heritage and have pubicly announced their subservience to a foreign power, Russia." On January 12, 1950 Acheson told the National Press Club in Washington that Moscow was attaching the northern areas of China to the Soviet Union. The process, he said, was already complete in Outer Mongolia, nearly complete in Manchuria.

Stop The Spending

In 1948 the Republican 80th Congress reduced the national debt, balanced the budget and trimmed taxes. Today, after four years of the Truman Administration, the nation is deep in debt, the unreclaimable cost of war is mounting, and inflation continues to soar.

But the President wants to spend $71.6 billion in fiscal 1952 — the largest peacetime budget in the nation's history, if this can be called peace—and he defies Congress to find excessive and nonessential items.

Republican Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio in a series of speeches in Congress pointed out that:

In 1948 the State Department spent $154 million; in fiscal 1952 they want to spend $302 million. In 1948 the Labor Department spent $86 million; in 1952 they want to spend $221 million. In 1948 the Federal Security Agency spent $937 million; in 1952 they want to spend $2.2 billion. In 1948 the Interior Department spent $350 million; in 1952 they want to spend $610 million. In 1948 the Housing and Home Financing Agency spent $13 million; in 1952 they want to spend $39 million. In 1948 the Agriculture Department spent $985 million; in 1952 they want to spend $1.4 billion.

The Administration has spent $28 billion since July 1, 1945, in foreign aid programs whose relation to defense is questionable, and wants to spend another $7 billion in fiscal 1952. It also wants to spend $9.6 billion and to lend another $2 billion for non-defense domestic purposes.

Representative Jenkins and other Republicans believe the spending, lending, giving-away and taxing program of the Truman Administration should be drastically curtailed in the emergency.

All Over But Acheson

Remaining testimony before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees by Pentagon brass bearing on the discharge of General MacArthur will be mostly surplusage. Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have thoroughly established the Administration line.

There may be some elaboration, much repetition, but there is likely to be no deviation from the broad outline established by Marshall, unless the President spills the beans.

But the impact of MacArthur's testimony has already resulted in some changes. He has forced the Administration into pledges that Formosa will be protected, Chiang aided and that Red China will not be admitted into the United Nations. If official utterances can be believed, the Far East will not be scuttled, with all the American blood and sacrifice in vain.

Further testimony, as has been said, will be largely surplusage. Except for that of one man—Secretary of State Dean Acheson. He's the man many Senate questioners want to get in the witness chair.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Heredity And Disease

There is nothing new in the statement that we are a composite of our ancestors, physically and mentally. We all recognize the fact that tall parents have tall sons and that red hair "runs in families," as do a host of other external characteristics. Certain diseases also are hereditary and it is here that the medical profession enters the picture.

So much publicity has been given to conditions such as hemophilia, color blindness, Huntington's chorea, epilepsy, and albinism that the conclusion may be reached that all hereditary diseases are inncurable. This has led to unwarranted fear and now and then has resulted in broken engagements or even divorce. Actually many such maladies are controlable and some are curable. Diabetes mellitus, for example, has a tendency to favor certain families but when diagnosed early and treated properly with insulin normal life expectancy may be anticipated. Gout and epilepsy can be controlled, nearsightedness is remediable with glasses, and surgery does wonders in harelip and cleft palate. Allergists can offer remarkable relief in asthma and other sensitivities that tend to be inherited.

Misconceptions also arise because heredity is not always responsible for defects that are present at birth. In some instances, if the mother encounters an infection such as German measles in the first three months of pregnancy, the development of the child will be interrupted. Should this happen in the period when the heart is being formed one or more imperfections of the organ ensue. The child is born a blue baby and is said to have congenital heart disease. Blindness or deafness may result when the eyes or ears are affected in the same manner. These disorders are called congenital because they exist at birth. Hereditary traits are carried in the genes of the germ cells and are transmitted from generation to generation.

In some defects, both factors play a role. Harelip is an example. The hereditary variety is handed down, whereas the congenital type occurs because the mother's illness disturbed development. The two are indistinguishable but by going back into the family history the physician may be able to decide whether or not the disorder is hereditary or congenital. The same can be said of children who are born blind; there are many causes for loss of vision and some are hereditary and others congenital.

Malformations occur in about 1 per cent of all births. Some are serious; others consist of such simple defects as hammer toe or webbed fingers. Once a woman gives birth to an abnormal baby her chances of producing another are 25 times greater than other women's. Much depends upon the defect. The risk varies from one in eight to one in 20. This is not alarming because women in general run a one in 50 to one in 100 chance of having an abnormal child.

SQUINTING CHILD

Mrs. F. writes: My 3 year old daughter squints excessively when I take her out in the sunlight. Does this indicate something wrong with her eyes?

REPLY

Most of us squint when exposed to sunlight. On the other hand, if you believe that the tot does this excessively you should have her eyes examined. Meanwhile, do what you can to protect her eyes with a bonnet.

CALM MAN

H. J. writes: My husband's pulse never goes above 65. Does this mean heart trouble?

REPLY

No and, if anything, it is one sign that his heart is in good shape. A slow pulse is preferred to a rapid one and many individuals who reach a ripe old age fall into this category.

NOTHING SPECIAL

Mrs. T. writes: Will you describe the do's and dont's for a woman after a hysterectomy?

REPLY

Do what you have always done and don't worry.

CAN'T CHANGE SPOTS

Mrs. K. writes: Will drinking a lot of coffee darken the skin and a lot of milk lighten it?

REPLY

No, because pigmentation is more than skin deep. You probably refer to advertisements of milk for a fair complexion. What is meant is that milk often aids health and this in turn improves the skin.

CAN'T LOSE

Mrs. T. writes: I have been on a 1,000 calorie diet for three weeks and have not lost a pound. Why is this?

REPLY

If it's a matter of food, then you may have to check your diet or drop to 800 calories daily. Also, watch your fluid and salt intake.

Democrats Look For Successor To Acheson; Acheson Is GOP's Best Target; Feud Between Taft-Eisenhower Factions Will Soon Come To A Head

WASHINGTON—A group within the Cabinet and the State Department Policy Committee are working backstage with the Democratic National Committee to find a successor for Dean Acheson. They regard their job as twofold: 1. To convince the President he ought to let Acheson go for the good of the country and party; 2. To find a man so acceptable that HST will buy.

One leader of this group is Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, and this was a main topic for discussion behind closed doors at the Denver Democratic powwow. The formula this group has in mind as Acheson's successor is: A progressive, internationally minded Republican, vigorous, healthy, and with congressional experience.

Secretary Chapman, who will deny this vigorously if questioned, even sounded out one possible candidate before going to Denver.

GOP's Best Target

It is no accident that Republican senators launch a barrage against Dean Acheson at least once a week, interspersed with predictions that he is about to be fired.

For the Republicans have found: 1. That Acheson is one of their best political assets; and 2. They are shrewd enough to know that the more they jump on him, the longer Truman will freeze him into office.

It sounds incredible, but it is almost axiomatic in the Truman Administration that when you criticize a public official too vigorously, you arouse Harry Truman's fighting instincts and insure that he will stay on indefinitely. That's what happened when I went after General Harry Vaughan.

Inside fact is that Acheson had told the President last year that he wanted to retire. There was even talk that he would step out around Jan. 1. But MacArthur's tragic reversal in North Korea occurred in November-December, followed by British Prime Minister Attlee's hurried trip to Washington.

After this crisis had cooled, it again looked as if Acheson were ready to retire. But suddenly the MacArthur debate burst loose.

And by now the Republicans realize that he is their best political target and they are determined to keep hammering at him; first, because it pays political dividends; second, because it's the best way to make sure that Harry Truman keeps their political target on target. Once the President removes that target from the poltiical horizon, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth inside the GOP.

A ghost writer with Hollywood ambitions is one reason why Sen. Alex Wiley of Wisconsin has suddenly changed character from a jovial jokester to a baiter of Gen. Omar Bradley.

The ghost writer is Julius Cahn, supplied to the Wisconsin Senator by the Republican National Committee as his secretary. Cahn writes Wiley's speeches, asked questions for him at the Kefauver committee, and even produced a movie skit of the Senator.

Before the MacArthur hearings, Senator Wiley was chiefly famous as an expert on Wisconsin cheese and a mild foreign-relations follower of the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg. But, since being coached in the Hollywood technique, he has bristled forth as a baiter of generals.

The bitter feud between the pro-Taft and pro-Eisenhower factions inside the Republican party so far has been carefully concealed. However, the current struggle for convention delegates will soon force both factions out into the open.

The fight for Texas's 37 delegates to the Republican convention is typical of the undercover contest between the friends of Taft and Ike, which is taking place in practically every state of the Union.

Eisenhower spokesman in Texas is Houston's wealthy oilman, H. J. "Jack" Porter, a long-time personal friend of Ike's and a big contributor to the GOP. Porter has been quietly lining up delegates and is in frequent touch with Pennsylvania's astute Sen. Jim Duff, unofficial captain of the pro-Eisenhower forces.

In recent weeks, however, Porter's well-laid plans have been thrown out of gear by Republican National Committeeman Henry Zwiefel of Fort Worth, who is passing out word that he's supporting Ike, and that he, not Porter, has been selected to round up Eisenhower support.

The conflict between Porter and Zwiefel has thrown confusion into Republican ranks and plays into the hands of the pro-Taft Republicans. Furthermore, what only a handful of top Republicans know is that Zwiefel is secretly committed to support Taft. He made this definite commitment on January 25 when he was in Washington for a meeting of the Republican National Committee.

The thing that tickles the President most about his daughter's trip to Europe is that she is paying her own way.

"She worked hard for this vacation and earned it," proud Papa Truman told Rep. Overton Brooks of Louisiana. "I'm delighted for her sake that she is going, but I'm proudest of the fact that she made it possibly all by herself."

"She's a great girl and will make an excellent ambassadress of good will wherever she goes," said Brooks.

"She'll be a typical American, you can bank on that," agreed Margaret's father.

When the Louisiana Congressman suggested that it would be "a good idea to let Margaret blaze the way for a trip to Europe yourself," the President replied that his plans for the rest of the year were still indefinite. It is known, however, that he has been considering such a trip.

North Korean Prisoners

It's a regrettable but inescapable fact that friction is increasing between Korean President Syngman Rhee and Gen. Matt Ridgway.

Latest friction has been Rhee's nagging at Ridgway to free 35,000 North Korean prisoners of war to join the South Korean army and to help with the spring farming in South Korea. These prisoners have been screened by a South Korean inspection team, appointed by Minister of Defense Lee Kee Bung, who reported that of the 144,000 North Koreans in U.N. prison camps, 35,000 have either reformed or were not communists in the first place.

However, the American ground forces commander in Korea, Lt. Gen. James Van Fleet, rejected the report and refused to release a single North Korean. Van Fleet warned that he did not trust the North Koreans, that if 35,000 were released, the Allies may have to capture them all over again. He was backed up in his decision by General Ridgway.

President Rhee replied that the 35,000 had been carefully screened, that most of them had been forced into the North Korean Army by Communist officials. He also argued that they were sorely needed on South Korean farms, and offered to spy on them secretly while they worked to make sure they were loyal.

Nevertheless, Ridgway refused to take any chances on freeing North Koreans who might return to fight against our troops again.

These Days

Avoidance Of Temptation

With all the crookedness going on in Washington and its approaches, many solutions are offered as to how to make men as honest as they should be. For instance, the Fulbright investigation will stand as a monumental index to the possibilities of corruption through the President's office, but the fact is that nobody has been or will be punished because the misdemeanors and felonies are of a moral and not a juridical nature. To state it simply, the punishment is more likely to be in the hereafter than here.

Arthur Hays Sulzberger was delivering a speech on the greatness of his wife's father, Adolph Ochs, who bought the "New York Times" when it was doing poorly, and built it into one of the foremost newspapers of all time. This speech was made before the Silurians, who are newspapermen of long standing and know whence the fact was borne. Of Ochs, Sulzberger said:

". . . He had the intelligence to avoid business temptations. He was a very human man and possessed his share of human frailties, but he knew it and so he refused to place himself in a position to be tempted. Very shortly after he arrived in New York, his friend Samuel Untermyer was the intermediary who offered him a contract for $150,000 worth of municipal advertising. No strings were attached. Mr. Untermyer would not have been a party to any deal involving his friend. But Mr. Ochs turned it down and did so on the theory that he needed the revenue so desperately that he would instantly adjust his operations to the windfall and he was unwilling to trust himself as to what he might do if, after that had happened, he was [illegible] with a cancellation of the contract."

The sequence of thought there represents a thoroughly theological approach to morality, which is not that man will not sin, given the opportunity, but that righteousness manifests itself by avoiding the opportunity.

I do not know why Mr. Ochs could not have taken this advertising. For it was the people's money that was being spent on advertising and the officials should or should not have put it in his newspaper strictly on the basis of its value to the people. It is like many who are today worried about sticking their necks out in political dicussion lest their income tax returns be investigated, or their anti-trust relations, or their radio station licenses or some other activity which gives the government an opportunity to use its power to destroy.

The avoidance of temptation is a very hard road to follow, because for men in public life temptations are not limited to dollars or mink coats, but there is the fate worse than death of being unpopular and even obscure.

Mr. Ochs, for instance, never was on the celery circuit. That is a spreading disease which few dare avoid. I shall diagnose it for you in detail:

A public man needs to be seen. The more he is seen, the more celebrated he is. Therefore, in many places, he is invited to attend public dinners where he sits on the dais. Usually this takes four to five hours out of his life. The chairs are the most uncomfortable that a hotel can find and the food is stereotyped, having, on the whole, degenerated dreadfully during the past decade.

Well, the celebrity sits there until his name is called. Then he rises for a bow amid perfunctory applause. Then he sits down. That makes him a celebrity. When he goes home, his wife asked him, "What happened?" He answers, "I took a bow."

Adolph Ochs never went to such places. His business manager, Louis Wiley, did it nearly every night of his life and he enjoyed it. But Ochs stayed away and when it came to putting plugs in his paper, few knew him well enough to ask for them.

There are differences of opinion on how to live, but the yearning for popularity is a greater temptation than the yearning for dollars. It becomes a debasement of personality, a craven currying of vulgar favor in the desire to be seen, heard and patted on the back. The price for fulsome praise is often too high and shaving has this drawback, that it forces one to look at his own face at least once a day.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There really isn't any difference of viewpoint between Secretary of State Acheson and Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs, on the matter of American policy toward China, though an effort is being made to make it appear so.

What Mr. Rusk said was that the Chinese Communist government was not representative of the Chinese people because it was under Russian control. He also said that in this sense the Nationalist government more "authentically" represented the Chinese people because they had always historically resented any attempt to dismember their territory as Russia was trying to do.

But certain elements here, who seem to be eager to accord recognition to Red China irrespective of her aggression in Korea, were not satisfied to accept the further definition of American policy made by Mr. Rusk. Efforts have been made to try to bludgeon Secretary Acheson in to repudiating it on the ground that some of our Allies want it so. He refused to do so.

Most unfortunate was the twisting in some press dispatches of what Secretary Acheson did say in his news conference. He was asked if the negotiation of a "cease fire" wouldn't have to be with the Red Chinese. His answer was that, of course, it would have to be with the people we are fighting and that everybody, including General MacArthur, agreed with this.

But this did not mean that, by negotiating a "cease fire" with the Red Chinese, we were extending diplomatic recognition to them. For it could be that a "cease fire" would develop between the Red Chinese and the U. N. commander in the field. What happens after that, either through the UN's good offices committee or through a special group of representatives of the nations engaged in the fighting, would be determined in the parleys arranging the "cease fire" agreement.

What could eventually happen—and this was not to be inferred from anything Mr. Acheson said—is that the two opposing military commanders would strive to arrange a "cease fire" somewhat as General MacArthur tried to do on March 24 last. The terms exchanged between them would be referred then to their respective authorities back home. In all probability the nations having troops in Korea would constitute the only group which would enter the peace conference.

This would not necessarily require a discussion in the UN General Assembly itself until those particular nations had reached an agreement with the enemy. The subjects to be proposed for the settlement, perhaps after the armistice, would, of course have to be agreed upon before there was a "cease fire." When, however, the subsequent negotiations did start, the American representatives could insist that the question of "recognition" was related directly to whether the Peiping government was or was not under foreign control. This question could bring about a deadlock, because any one country party to the armistice could block a final settlement. At that time the Rusk viewpoint could be constructively helpful in the event that the Peiping government had begun to stray from the Communist fold as did Tito.

Underlying the hopes in the Department of State all along for an eventual change in the Far Eastern situation has been the belief that the Red Chinese cannot continue indefinitely to commit their armies to Korea and carry on a war just for Russia's benefit. If there should be a chance for a Tito movement away from Moscow communism, the speech of Mr. Rusk and also that of John Foster Dulles delivered on the same occasion may well prove to have been an influence in bringing about that course of events.

At any rate, the Red Chinese now know through the Rusk speech that a government in China which deviates from Moscow and becomes independent has a better chance of recognition than would a government which has been subservient to Moscow's influence. It would appear very unlikely, if a "cease fire" occurred, that the Peiping authorities would resume the war just to get a seat in the UN or to win recognition. Conversely, it isn't likely that the UN will be in any hurry to change the armistice into a peace agreement unless it is apparent that no repetition of the aggression is likely. Hence, a long stalemate in the negotiations could occur while the UN waited for a new government to arise in China whose assurances could be trusted. But in such a contingency there will have been an end to the fighting, anyway, and the problem will have been turned over to diplomacy to try to work out.

As between a stalemate during a continuous war in Korea and a stalemate in a continuous diplomatic argument on peace terms, the latter would probably win more public support no matter how long the stalemate lasted.

Defense Bonds

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Treasury Department is conducting an especially energetic and highly organized nation-wide drive urging the people to buy government savings bonds. The fervor of it is pictured in a United Press dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., some sentences from which are here quoted: "Throughout May, which has been designated Defense Bond Month, major cities of the nation will observe defense days similar to the one staged here today. Celebrities . . . drummed on the Treasury Department's new slogan: 'Now, let's all buy defense bonds' . . . a big Peach tree Street parade was held here and a 30-minute radio program over the Columbia Broadcasting System headed the opening program. A motorcade set out to visit industrial plants, stores and offices where employes are buying defense bonds through the payroll savings plan. The caravan included Assistant Treasury Secretary John S. Graham; Vernon L. Clark, National Director of the Savings Bond Division; Piper Laurie and Tony Curtis, film players; Chic James, Miss Defense Bond of 1951 . . . 19 veterans of the Korean War were honor guests."

This is the send-off for a drive to continue and expand a nation-wide mechanism for the sale of bonds which has been built up over several years. Among other methods it includes sales by banks and sales through a "payroll savings plan" by which employes in businesses and industries buy bonds through installments deducted from their pay checks. To these a new method is introduced in the present drive, newsboys are enlisted. Thousands of them attached to some 600 newspapers throughout the country which have been delivering pledge forms to their customers together with a message signed by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder: "Your newspaper carrier is engaged in an effort of high patriotic value. We hope you will give your support to this national emergency by buying bonds."

Purchases Diminished

In spite of this highly organized selling and in spite of an immense publicity campaign carried on through newspaper and magazine advertisements and over the radio, purchase of savings bonds by the public has diminished. Purchases during last March were about a third less than during March the preceding year. In addition to buying fewer bonds much of the public has been "cashing in" bonds bought in the past. Much of this has been done within a short time after the bonds were bought, long before the 10-year maturity date.

This is a serious matter for the Treasury and for the country since the Treasury depends upon sale of these bonds for much of the vast borrowing it must do. Doubtless a purpose of the present Treasury drive is to overcome this public attitude. But to achieve this requires understanding why the public buys fewer bonds and cashes in many already held. One reason is the high cost of living. This works two ways; it leaves the public with less money to buy bonds and it reduces the purchasing power of bonds already held. A person who put a dollar into a savings bond 10-years ago finds that when the government pays the dollar back to him it buys materially less. The $10, say, that would have bought two pairs of shoes 10-years ago buys today only one pair. This applies to nearly all goods. It leads the bond owner who has had this experience to reflect that perhaps he would have done better if, instead of putting his money into savings bonds he had put it into some form of durable or semi-durable goods.

Security Declines

The experience of savings bond holders has been shared by other immense groups of savers—persons who have put their savings into life insurance, savings banks, pension funds and the like. They saved for the future, in many cases for security when they should cease to earn because of age or otherwise, and now find that the security is greatly diminished. The experience that many such persons are now having is tragic. Not only are they unable to buy more savings bonds or otherwise save, they are unable to buy necessities.

For what has taken place, a main cause is reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar. That this has taken place is largely chargeable to the government, for in its function of administering the fiscal affairs of the country, it is under obligation to keep purchasing power of the dollar approximately stable. Any policy of government that discriminates against savers as a group and reduces their capacity or incentive to save, is a danger to the economic structure of the country, since this is largely dependent on savings.

Support For Nationalist China

The State Department denies that the United States has changed its policy on "involvement in the Chinese civil war," despite the speech of Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk in New York on May 18. Sen. Taft had charged that the Rusk speech revealed the State Department as shifting over to the MacArthur policies.

Be that as it may, the present policy of the State Department on Chiang Kai-shek, especially as reflected in our military evaluation of the Chiang-held island of Formosa, has changed since the State Department issued its White Paper on China on August 5, 1949. In his foreword to the White Paper, Secretary of State Acheson declared that the Nationalist forces had been defeated through their own weakness, not because of inadequate U. S. aid:

"Our military observers . . . have reported that the Nationalist armies did not lose a single battle during the crucial year of 1948 through lack of arms or ammunition. . . . The Nationalist armies did not have to be defeated; they disintegrated."

Acheson said further that "absence of the will to fight" among Chiangs' forces was one prime reason why "a large proportion" of the military supplies furnished them by this country had "fallen into the hands of the Chinese Communists." And the Chiang government "had lost the confidence of its own troops and its own people."

Some months later, on January 5, 1950, President Truman stated at his press conference: "The U. S. Government will not provide military aid or advice to Chinese forces on Formosa." The President added that "in the view of the U. S. Government, "the Chiang forces could find in "the resources on Formosa" the "items they might consider necessary to the defense of the island."

Early in January, 1951, reliable reports indicated that the United States was sending arms and ammunition to the Chiang forces on Formosa. Secretary Acheson said on April 10, 1951, that the new policy of sending a large staff of military advisers to Chiang had been in effect for ten weeks. And according to Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, Formosa now has equal rank with Western Europe in priority for U. S. military equipment, and $70 million for arms for Formosa in the coming fiscal year is to be asked of Congress.

General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senators on May 21 that we should not try to occupy Formosa with our own forces. But enemy control of the island would "seriously affect our line of defense" and should not be allowed.

Bradley testified that, from a military point of view, he could see no objection to "taking the wraps off Chinese Nationalist troops." But he added this caveat: "Except that if . . . they took such losses both in men and equipment that they then jeopardized the security of Formosa."

Assistant Secretary of State Rusk in his speech of May 18 referred to Communist China as a "colonial Russian government . . . not Chinese." Secretary Acheson in his foreword to the White Paper on China in 1949 had said much the same thing: "The Communist leaders (of China) have foresworn their Chinese heritage and have pubicly announced their subservience to a foreign power, Russia." On January 12, 1950 Acheson told the National Press Club in Washington that Moscow was attaching the northern areas of China to the Soviet Union. The process, he said, was already complete in Outer Mongolia, nearly complete in Manchuria.

Stop The Spending

In 1948 the Republican 80th Congress reduced the national debt, balanced the budget and trimmed taxes. Today, after four years of the Truman Administration, the nation is deep in debt, the unreclaimable cost of war is mounting, and inflation continues to soar.

But the President wants to spend $71.6 billion in fiscal 1952 — the largest peacetime budget in the nation's history, if this can be called peace—and he defies Congress to find excessive and nonessential items.

Republican Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio in a series of speeches in Congress pointed out that:

In 1948 the State Department spent $154 million; in fiscal 1952 they want to spend $302 million. In 1948 the Labor Department spent $86 million; in 1952 they want to spend $221 million. In 1948 the Federal Security Agency spent $937 million; in 1952 they want to spend $2.2 billion. In 1948 the Interior Department spent $350 million; in 1952 they want to spend $610 million. In 1948 the Housing and Home Financing Agency spent $13 million; in 1952 they want to spend $39 million. In 1948 the Agriculture Department spent $985 million; in 1952 they want to spend $1.4 billion.

The Administration has spent $28 billion since July 1, 1945, in foreign aid programs whose relation to defense is questionable, and wants to spend another $7 billion in fiscal 1952. It also wants to spend $9.6 billion and to lend another $2 billion for non-defense domestic purposes.

Representative Jenkins and other Republicans believe the spending, lending, giving-away and taxing program of the Truman Administration should be drastically curtailed in the emergency.

All Over But Acheson

Remaining testimony before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees by Pentagon brass bearing on the discharge of General MacArthur will be mostly surplusage. Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have thoroughly established the Administration line.

There may be some elaboration, much repetition, but there is likely to be no deviation from the broad outline established by Marshall, unless the President spills the beans.

But the impact of MacArthur's testimony has already resulted in some changes. He has forced the Administration into pledges that Formosa will be protected, Chiang aided and that Red China will not be admitted into the United Nations. If official utterances can be believed, the Far East will not be scuttled, with all the American blood and sacrifice in vain.

Further testimony, as has been said, will be largely surplusage. Except for that of one man—Secretary of State Dean Acheson. He's the man many Senate questioners want to get in the witness chair.

Allergists can offer remarkable relief in asthma and other sensitivities that tend to be inherited.

Misconceptions also arise because heredity is not always responsible for defects that are present at birth. In some instances, if the mother encounters an infection such as German measles in the first three months of pregnancy, the development of the child will be interrupted. Should this happen in the period when the heart is being formed one or more imperfections of the organ ensue. The child is born a blue baby and is said to have congenital heart disease. Blindness or deafness may result when the eyes or ears are affected in the same manner. These disorders are called congenital because they exist at birth. Hereditary traits are carried in the genes of the germ cells and are transmitted from generation to generation.

In some defects, both factors play a role. Harelip is an example. The hereditary variety is handed down, whereas the congenital type occurs because the mother's illness disturbed development. The two are indistinguishable but by going back into the family history the physician may be able to decide whether or not the disorder is hereditary or congenital. The same can be said of children who are born blind; there are many causes for loss of vision and some are hereditary and others congenital.

Malformations occur in about 1 per cent of all births. Some are serious; others consist of such simple defects as hammer toe or webbed fingers. Once a woman gives birth to an abnormal baby her chances of producing another are 25 times greater than other women's. Much depends upon the defect. The risk varies from one in eight to one in 20. This is not alarming because women in general run a one in 50 to one in 100 chance of having an abnormal child.

SQUINTING CHILD

Mrs. F. writes: My 3 year old daughter squints excessively when I take her out in the sunlight. Does this indicate something wrong with her eyes?

REPLY

Most of us squint when exposed to sunlight. On the other hand, if you believe that the tot does this excessively you should have her eyes examined. Meanwhile, do what you can to protect her eyes with a bonnet.

CALM MAN

H. J. writes: My husband's pulse never goes above 65. Does this mean heart trouble?

REPLY

No and, if anything, it is one sign that his heart is in good shape. A slow pulse is preferred to a rapid one and many individuals who reach a ripe old age fall into this category.

NOTHING SPECIAL

Mrs. T. writes: Will you describe the do's and dont's for a woman after a hysterectomy?

REPLY

Do what you have always done and don't worry.

CAN'T CHANGE SPOTS

Mrs. K. writes: Will drinking a lot of coffee darken the skin and a lot of milk lighten it?

REPLY

No, because pigmentation is more than skin deep. You probably refer to advertisements of milk for a fair complexion. What is meant is that milk often aids health and this in turn improves the skin.

CAN'T LOSE

Mrs. T. writes: I have been on a 1,000 calorie diet for three weeks and have not lost a pound. Why is this?

REPLY

If it's a matter of food, then you may have to check your diet or drop to 800 calories daily. Also, watch your fluid and salt intake

Democrats Look For Successor To Acheson; Acheson Is GOP's Best Target; Feud Between Taft-Eisenhower Factions Will Soon Come To A Head

WASHINGTON—A group within the Cabinet and the State Department Policy Committee are working backstage with the Democratic National Committee to find a successor for Dean Acheson. They regard their job as twofold: 1. To convince the President he ought to let Acheson go for the good of the country and party; 2. To find a man so acceptable that HST will buy.

One leader of this group is Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, and this was a main topic for discussion behind closed doors at the Denver Democratic powwow. The formula this group has in mind as Acheson's successor is: A progressive, internationally minded Republican, vigorous, healthy, and with congressional experience.

Secretary Chapman, who will deny this vigorously if questioned, even sounded out one possible candidate before going to Denver.

GOP's Best Target

It is no accident that Republican senators launch a barrage against Dean Acheson at least once a week, interspersed with predictions that he is about to be fired.

For the Republicans have found: 1. That Acheson is one of their best political assets; and 2. They are shrewd enough to know that the more they jump on him, the longer Truman will freeze him into office.

It sounds incredible, but it is almost axiomatic in the Truman Administration that when you criticize a public official too vigorously, you arouse Harry Truman's fighting instincts and insure that he will stay on indefinitely. That's what happened when I went after General Harry Vaughan.

Inside fact is that Acheson had told the President last year that he wanted to retire. There was even talk that he would step out around Jan. 1. But MacArthur's tragic reversal in North Korea occurred in November-December, followed by British Prime Minister Attlee's hurried trip to Washington.

After this crisis had cooled, it again looked as if Acheson were ready to retire. But suddenly the MacArthur debate burst loose.

And by now the Republicans realize that he is their best political target and they are determined to keep hammering at him; first, because it pays political dividends; second, because it's the best way to make sure that Harry Truman keeps their political target on target. Once the President removes that target from the poltiical horizon, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth inside the GOP.

A ghost writer with Hollywood ambitions is one reason why Sen. Alex Wiley of Wisconsin has suddenly changed character from a jovial jokester to a baiter of Gen. Omar Bradley.

The ghost writer is Julius Cahn, supplied to the Wisconsin Senator by the Republican National Committee as his secretary. Cahn writes Wiley's speeches, asked questions for him at the Kefauver committee, and even produced a movie skit of the Senator.

Before the MacArthur hearings, Senator Wiley was chiefly famous as an expert on Wisconsin cheese and a mild foreign-relations follower of the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg. But, since being coached in the Hollywood technique, he has bristled forth as a baiter of generals.

The bitter feud between the pro-Taft and pro-Eisenhower factions inside the Republican party so far has been carefully concealed. However, the current struggle for convention delegates will soon force both factions out into the open.

The fight for Texas's 37 delegates to the Republican convention is typical of the undercover contest between the friends of Taft and Ike, which is taking place in practically every state of the Union.

Eisenhower spokesman in Texas is Houston's wealthy oilman, H. J. "Jack" Porter, a long-time personal friend of Ike's and a big contributor to the GOP. Porter has been quietly lining up delegates and is in frequent touch with Pennsylvania's astute Sen. Jim Duff, unofficial captain of the pro-Eisenhower forces.

In recent weeks, however, Porter's well-laid plans have been thrown out of gear by Republican National Committeeman Henry Zwiefel of Fort Worth, who is passing out word that he's supporting Ike, and that he, not Porter, has been selected to round up Eisenhower support.

The conflict between Porter and Zwiefel has thrown confusion into Republican ranks and plays into the hands of the pro-Taft Republicans. Furthermore, what only a handful of top Republicans know is that Zwiefel is secretly committed to support Taft. He made this definite commitment on January 25 when he was in Washington for a meeting of the Republican National Committee.

The thing that tickles the President most about his daughter's trip to Europe is that she is paying her own way.

"She worked hard for this vacation and earned it," proud Papa Truman told Rep. Overton Brooks of Louisiana. "I'm delighted for her sake that she is going, but I'm proudest of the fact that she made it possibly all by herself."

"She's a great girl and will make an excellent ambassadress of good will wherever she goes," said Brooks.

"She'll be a typical American, you can bank on that," agreed Margaret's father.

When the Louisiana Congressman suggested that it would be "a good idea to let Margaret blaze the way for a trip to Europe yourself," the President replied that his plans for the rest of the year were still indefinite. It is known, however, that he has been considering such a trip.

North Korean Prisoners

It's a regrettable but inescapable fact that friction is increasing between Korean President Syngman Rhee and Gen. Matt Ridgway.

Latest friction has been Rhee's nagging at Ridgway to free 35,000 North Korean prisoners of war to join the South Korean army and to help with the spring farming in South Korea. These prisoners have been screened by a South Korean inspection team, appointed by Minister of Defense Lee Kee Bung, who reported that of the 144,000 North Koreans in U.N. prison camps, 35,000 have either reformed or were not communists in the first place.

However, the American ground forces commander in Korea, Lt. Gen. James Van Fleet, rejected the report and refused to release a single North Korean. Van Fleet warned that he did not trust the North Koreans, that if 35,000 were released, the Allies may have to capture them all over again. He was backed up in his decision by General Ridgway.

President Rhee replied that the 35,000 had been carefully screened, that most of them had been forced into the North Korean Army by Communist officials. He also argued that they were sorely needed on South Korean farms, and offered to spy on them secretly while they worked to make sure they were loyal.

Nevertheless, Ridgway refused to take any chances on freeing North Koreans who might return to fight against our troops again.

Avoidance Of Temptation

With all the crookedness going on in Washington and its approaches, many solutions are offered as to how to make men as honest as they should be. For instance, the Fulbright investigation will stand as a monumental index to the possibilities of corruption through the President's office, but the fact is that nobody has been or will be punished because the misdemeanors and felonies are of a moral and not a juridical nature. To state it simply, the punishment is more likely to be in the hereafter than here.

Arthur Hays Sulzberger was delivering a speech on the greatness of his wife's father, Adolph Ochs, who bought the "New York Times" when it was doing poorly, and built it into one of the foremost newspapers of all time. This speech was made before the Silurians, who are newspapermen of long standing and know whence the fact was borne. Of Ochs, Sulzberger said:

". . . He had the intelligence to avoid business temptations. He was a very human man and possessed his share of human frailties, but he knew it and so he refused to place himself in a position to be tempted. Very shortly after he arrived in New York, his friend Samuel Untermyer was the intermediary who offered him a contract for $150,000 worth of municipal advertising. No strings were attached. Mr. Untermyer would not have been a party to any deal involving his friend. But Mr. Ochs turned it down and did so on the theory that he needed the revenue so desperately that he would instantly adjust his operations to the windfall and he was unwilling to trust himself as to what he might do if, after that had happened, he was confronted with a cancellation of the contract."

The sequence of thought there represents a thoroughly theological approach to morality, which is not that man will not sin, given the opportunity, but that righteousness manifests itself by avoiding the opportunity.

I do not know why Mr. Ochs could not have taken this advertising. For it was the people's money that was being spent on advertising and the officials should or should not have put it in his newspaper strictly on the basis of its value to the people. It is like many who are today worried about sticking their necks out in political dicussion lest their income tax returns be investigated, or their anti-trust relations, or their radio station licenses or some other activity which gives the government an opportunity to use its power to destroy.

The avoidance of temptation is a very hard road to follow, because for men in public life temptations are not limited to dollars or mink coats, but there is the fate worse than death of being unpopular and even obscure.

Mr. Ochs, for instance, never was on the celery circuit. That is a spreading disease which few dare avoid. I shall diagnose it for you in detail:

A public man needs to be seen. The more he is seen, the more celebrated he is. Therefore, in many places, he is invited to attend public dinners where he sits on the dais. Usually this takes four to five hours out of his life. The chairs are the most uncomfortable that a hotel can find and the food is stereotyped, having, on the whole, degenerated dreadfully during the past decade.

Well, the celebrity sits there until his name is called. Then he rises for a bow amid perfunctory applause. Then he sits down. That makes him a celebrity. When he goes home, his wife asked him, "What happened?" He answers, "I took a bow."

Adolph Ochs never went to such places. His business manager, Louis Wiley, did it nearly every night of his life and he enjoyed it. But Ochs stayed away and when it came to putting plugs in his paper, few knew him well enough to ask for them.

There are differences of opinion on how to live, but the yearning for popularity is a greater temptation than the yearning for dollars. It becomes a debasement of personality, a craven currying of vulgar favor in the desire to be seen, heard and patted on the back. The price for fulsome praise is often too high and shaving has this drawback, that it forces one to look at his own face at least once a day.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There really isn't any difference of viewpoint between Secretary of State Acheson and Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs, on the matter of American policy toward China, though an effort is being made to make it appear so.

What Mr. Rusk said was that the Chinese Communist government was not representative of the Chinese people because it was under Russian control. He also said that in this sense the Nationalist government more "authentically" represented the Chinese people because they had always historically resented any attempt to dismember their territory as Russia was trying to do.

But certain elements here, who seem to be eager to accord recognition to Red China irrespective of her aggression in Korea, were not satisfied to accept the further definition of American policy made by Mr. Rusk. Efforts have been made to try to bludgeon Secretary Acheson in to repudiating it on the ground that some of our Allies want it so. He refused to do so.

Most unfortunate was the twisting in some press dispatches of what Secretary Acheson did say in his news conference. He was asked if the negotiation of a "cease fire" wouldn't have to be with the Red Chinese. His answer was that, of course, it would have to be with the people we are fighting and that everybody, including General MacArthur, agreed with this.

But this did not mean that, by negotiating a "cease fire" with the Red Chinese, we were extending diplomatic recognition to them. For it could be that a "cease fire" would develop between the Red Chinese and the U. N. commander in the field. What happens after that, either through the UN's good offices committee or through a special group of representatives of the nations engaged in the fighting, would be determined in the parleys arranging the "cease fire" agreement.

What could eventually happen—and this was not to be inferred from anything Mr. Acheson said—is that the two opposing military commanders would strive to arrange a "cease fire" somewhat as General MacArthur tried to do on March 24 last. The terms exchanged between them would be referred then to their respective authorities back home. In all probability the nations having troops in Korea would constitute the only group which would enter the peace conference.

This would not necessarily require a discussion in the UN General Assembly itself until those particular nations had reached an agreement with the enemy. The subjects to be proposed for the settlement, perhaps after the armistice, would, of course have to be agreed upon before there was a "cease fire." When, however, the subsequent negotiations did start, the American representatives could insist that the question of "recognition" was related directly to whether the Peiping government was or was not under foreign control. This question could bring about a deadlock, because any one country party to the armistice could block a final settlement. At that time the Rusk viewpoint could be constructively helpful in the event that the Peiping government had begun to stray from the Communist fold as did Tito.

Underlying the hopes in the Department of State all along for an eventual change in the Far Eastern situation has been the belief that the Red Chinese cannot continue indefinitely to commit their armies to Korea and carry on a war just for Russia's benefit. If there should be a chance for a Tito movement away from Moscow communism, the speech of Mr. Rusk and also that of John Foster Dulles delivered on the same occasion may well prove to have been an influence in bringing about that course of events.

At any rate, the Red Chinese now know through the Rusk speech that a government in China which deviates from Moscow and becomes independent has a better chance of recognition than would a government which has been subservient to Moscow's influence. It would appear very unlikely, if a "cease fire" occurred, that the Peiping authorities would resume the war just to get a seat in the UN or to win recognition. Conversely, it isn't likely that the UN will be in any hurry to change the armistice into a peace agreement unless it is apparent that no repetition of the aggression is likely. Hence, a long stalemate in the negotiations could occur while the UN waited for a new government to arise in China whose assurances could be trusted. But in such a contingency there will have been an end to the fighting, anyway, and the problem will have been turned over to diplomacy to try to work out.

As between a stalemate during a continuous war in Korea and a stalemate in a continuous diplomatic argument on peace terms, the latter would probably win more public support no matter how long the stalemate lasted.

Defense Bonds

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Treasury Department is conducting an especially energetic and highly organized nation-wide drive urging the people to buy government savings bonds. The fervor of it is pictured in a United Press dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., some sentences from which are here quoted: "Throughout May, which has been designated Defense Bond Month, major cities of the nation will observe defense days similar to the one staged here today. Celebrities . . . drummed on the Treasury Department's new slogan: 'Now, let's all buy defense bonds' . . . a big Peach tree Street parade was held here and a 30-minute radio program over the Columbia Broadcasting System headed the opening program. A motorcade set out to visit industrial plants, stores and offices where employes are buying defense bonds through the payroll savings plan. The caravan included Assistant Treasury Secretary John S. Graham; Vernon L. Clark, National Director of the Savings Bond Division; Piper Laurie and Tony Curtis, film players; Chic James, Miss Defense Bond of 1951 . . . 19 veterans of the Korean War were honor guests."

This is the send-off for a drive to continue and expand a nation-wide mechanism for the sale of bonds which has been built up over several years. Among other methods it includes sales by banks and sales through a "payroll savings plan" by which employes in businesses and industries buy bonds through installments deducted from their pay checks. To these a new method is introduced in the present drive, newsboys are enlisted. Thousands of them attached to some 600 newspapers throughout the country which have been delivering pledge forms to their customers together with a message signed by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder: "Your newspaper carrier is engaged in an effort of high patriotic value. We hope you will give your support to this national emergency by buying bonds."

Purchases Diminished

In spite of this highly organized selling and in spite of an immense publicity campaign carried on through newspaper and magazine advertisements and over the radio, purchase of savings bonds by the public has diminished. Purchases during last March were about a third less than during March the preceding year. In addition to buying fewer bonds much of the public has been "cashing in" bonds bought in the past. Much of this has been done within a short time after the bonds were bought, long before the 10-year maturity date.

This is a serious matter for the Treasury and for the country since the Treasury depends upon sale of these bonds for much of the vast borrowing it must do. Doubtless a purpose of the present Treasury drive is to overcome this public attitude. But to achieve this requires understanding why the public buys fewer bonds and cashes in many already held. One reason is the high cost of living. This works two ways; it leaves the public with less money to buy bonds and it reduces the purchasing power of bonds already held. A person who put a dollar into a savings bond 10-years ago finds that when the government pays the dollar back to him it buys materially less. The $10, say, that would have bought two pairs of shoes 10-years ago buys today only one pair. This applies to nearly all goods. It leads the bond owner who has had this experience to reflect that perhaps he would have done better if, instead of putting his money into savings bonds he had put it into some form of durable or semi-durable goods.

Security Declines

The experience of savings bond holders has been shared by other immense groups of savers—persons who have put their savings into life insurance, savings banks, pension funds and the like. They saved for the future, in many cases for security when they should cease to earn because of age or otherwise, and now find that the security is greatly diminished. The experience that many such persons are now having is tragic. Not only are they unable to buy more savings bonds or otherwise save, they are unable to buy necessities.

For what has taken place, a main cause is reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar. That this has taken place is largely chargeable to the government, for in its function of administering the fiscal affairs of the country, it is under obligation to keep purchasing power of the dollar approximately stable. Any policy of government that discriminates against savers as a group and reduces their capacity or incentive to save, is a danger to the economic structure of the country, since this is largely dependent on savings.

19 Yanks, Freed By Reds, Rescued

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, May 25 (AP)—Eighteen Marines and one U. S. soldier, thin, dirty and hungry, returned today to Allied lines after six months of Communist imprisonment and marches over most of North Korea.

They were captured last Dec. 2 during the bloody fighting at the "frozen hell" of Chaugjin reservoir in Northeast Korea. An American tank patrol rescued them in the deserted town of Chunchon.

Names of the rescued men were withheld temporarily.

They said that, for the most part, they were well treated by the Chinese. But during their captivity they were marched over distances measuring more than 350 air miles, much farther in actual miles over North Korea's winding roads.

Capt. Edward N. Anderson, Lawton, Okla., spotted the men while flying his little observation plane over Chunchon. They improvised a ground panel of wall paper which spelled out: "P O W/s 19 rescue."

Anderson waggled his wings and radioed an American tank task unit. Three tanks sped to Chunchon's outskirts and rescued the men.

Jose Ferrer Clashes With Congressman

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Actor Jose Ferrer told the House Un-American Activities Committee today he has taken a stand against Communist activity in his native Puerto Rico.

Ferrer made the statement while under questioning for the second day about the use of his name by various organizations cited by the committee or the Attorney General as Communistic.

"I have never knowingly lent my name to any organization known to be a Communist front organization," he testified.

Rep. Jackson(R-Calif) told Ferrer "I cannot frankly place credence in some of the statements you have made." This was in reference to the actor's insistence that he didn't know the Communist or Communist-front nature of some of the various causes he has supported.

Air Force Rotation To Be Speeded Up

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — The Air Force announced today that it will send replacements to Korea during the next five weeks to permit rotation of "a maximum number of crews without loss of combat effectiveness."

The announcement, in a letter made public by Rep. Doyle, (D-Calif), said personnel of the 3rd Bombardment Group will be returned to the United States first because they have been in the Far East since the start of hostilities.

Crews of the 452nd Bombardment Group, which went to the Far East last October, should begin rotation some time next month, the letter said.

Fencing Champion Kills His Opponent In Tourney Opener

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 25 (AP)—A powerful sword thrust by Defending Champion Mogens Luchow of Denmark Mogens wounded his Finnish opponent, Ilmari Vartia, today in the opening round of the men's world championship fencing tournament.

Luchow had parried Vartia's attack with a fierce lunge which drove his thin, blunted epee — a flexible weapon with no cutting edge—into the Fin's chest under the right armpit.

With blood oozing through his fencing vest, Vartia exclaimed "there is no danger" and insisted on continuing the fight. But Luchow demanded a medical examination.

Vartia, a 36-year-old reserve captain, collasped a moment later and slipped to the floor. He died on his way to a hospital.

Knocked Down By Calf, Boy In Critical Condition

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 25 (AP) —Eight-year-old David Plotner still is in critical condition at Washington County Hospital, where he has been in a coma since a calf knocked him down five weeks ago.

Doctors said they have no idea what his chances are for recovering. They performed an operation upon his fractured skull right after the accident and found there had been damage to the brain. They have not been able to determine the exact nature of the damage.

David was knocked down April 18 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Plotner.

Maragon Begins His Prison Term

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — John Maragon, former White House hanger-on, went to jail for perjury today despite his lawyer's plea that he was "only a scapegoat" in a Senate investigation of influence peddling.

Federal District Judge Jennings Bailey denied clemency and the one-time friend of Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, presidential military aide, was led away to serve eight to 24 months at the federal reformatory at Petersburg, Va.

In a final plea, the defendant's attorney, Edward J. Hayes, asked for a suspended sentence and probation. He called the 58-year old defendant "a man of little consequence and little influence despite the stories to the contrary."

But Judge Bailey said he had "no reasonable doubt" as to Maragon's guilt.

"I see no reason in this case for probation," the judge remarked.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Bailey April 28, 1950, after a jury had convicted Maragon of lying to a Senate committee investigating "five percenters"—men who offer to obtain government contracts for a fee.

State Employes' Pay Scale List Revised

A new list of salary scales for state employes, provided by the Governor's four million dollar budget allocation, was announced today by the Standard Salary Board.

No change was made in the five-year increment system, and there was no attempt to provide an overall percentage increase.

The new scale provides for salaries of teachers in state institutions, such as the Maryland School for the Deaf, to begin at $3,000. Public school teachers start at $2,200.

One of the largest increases is a 68 per cent jump in the pay of superintendents of tuberculosis hospitals, from a scale of $5,500-$6,875 to $9,240-$11,550.

Collins testified also that the Jnt Chiefs told MacArthur in a ective Sept. 27 that "as a matter policy no non-Korean ground ces will be used in the northeast pvinces bordering the Soviet lion or in the area along the anchurian border."

The Army head said MacArthur d use U. S. troops in the Man- urian border region "contrary to is matter of policy without advis- g us first."

19 Yanks, Freed By Reds, Rescued

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, May 25 (AP)—Eighteen Marines and one U. S. soldier, thin, dirty and hungry, returned today to Allied lines after six months of Communist imprisonment and marches over most of North Korea.

They were captured last Dec. 2 during the bloody fighting at the "frozen hell" of Chaugjin reservoir in Northeast Korea. An American tank patrol rescued them in the deserted town of Chunchon.

Names of the rescued men were withheld temporarily.

They said that, for the most part, they were well treated by the Chinese. But during their captivity they were marched over distances measuring more than 350 air miles, much farther in actual miles over North Korea's winding roads.

Capt. Edward N. Anderson, Lawton, Okla., spotted the men while flying his little observation plane over Chunchon. They improvised a ground panel of wall paper which spelled out: "P O W/s 19 rescue."

Anderson waggled his wings and radioed an American tank task unit. Three tanks sped to Chunchon's outskirts and rescued the men.

Jose Ferrer Clashes With Congressman

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — Actor Jose Ferrer told the House Un-American Activities Committee today he has taken a stand against Communist activity in his native Puerto Rico.

Ferrer made the statement while under questioning for the second day about the use of his name by various organizations cited by the committee or the Attorney General as Communistic.

"I have never knowingly lent my name to any organization known to be a Communist front organization," he testified.

Rep. Jackson(R-Calif) told Ferrer "I cannot frankly place credence in some of the statements you have made." This was in reference to the actor's insistence that he didn't know the Communist or Communist-front nature of some of the various causes he has supported.

Air Force Rotation To Be Speeded Up

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — The Air Force announced today that it will send replacements to Korea during the next five weeks to permit rotation of "a maximum number of crews without loss of combat effectiveness."

The announcement, in a letter made public by Rep. Doyle (D-Calif), said personnel of the 3rd Bombardment Group will be returned to the United States first because they have been in the Far East since the start of hostilities.

Crews of the 452nd Bombardment Group, which went to the Far East last October, should begin rotation some time next month, the letter said.

Fencing Champion Kills His Opponent In Tourney Opener

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 25 (AP)—A powerful sword thrust by Defending Champion Mogens Luchow of Denmark Mogens wounded his Finnish opponent, Ilmari Vartia, today in the opening round of the men's world championship fencing tournament.

Luchow had parried Vartia's attack with a fierce lunge which drove his thin, blunted epee — a flexible weapon with no cutting edge—into the Fin's chest under the right armpit.

With blood oozing through his fencing vest, Vartia exclaimed "there is no danger" and insisted on continuing the fight. But Luchow demanded a medical examination.

Vartia, a 36-year-old reserve captain, collasped a moment later and slipped to the floor. He died on his way to a hospital.

Knocked Down By Calf, Boy In Critical Condition

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 25 (AP) —Eight-year-old David Plotner still is in critical condition at Washington County Hospital, where he has been in a coma since a calf knocked him down five weeks ago.

Doctors said they have no idea what his chances are for recovering. They performed an operation upon his fractured skull right after the accident and found there had been damage to the brain. They have not been able to determine the exact nature of the damage.

David was knocked down April 18 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Plotner.

Maragon Begins His Prison Term

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP) — John Maragon, former White House hanger-on, went to jail for perjury today despite his lawyer's plea that he was "only a scapegoat" in a Senate investigation of influence peddling.

Federal District Judge Jennings Bailey denied clemency and the one-time friend of Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, presidential military aide, was led away to serve eight to 24 months at the federal reformatory at Petersburg, Va.

In a final plea, the defendant's attorney, Edward J. Hayes, asked for a suspended sentence and probation. He called the 58-year old defendant "a man of little consequence and little influence despite the stories to the contrary."

But Judge Bailey said he had "no reasonable doubt" as to Maragon's guilt.

"I see no reason in this case for probation," the judge remarked.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Bailey April 28, 1950, after a jury had convicted Maragon of lying to a Senate committee investigating "five percenters"—men who offer to obtain government contracts for a fee.

State Employes' Pay Scale List Revised

A new list of salary scales for state employes, provided by the Governor's four million dollar budget allocation, was announced today by the Standard Salary Board.

No change was made in the five-year increment system, and there was no attempt to provide an overall percentage increase.

The new scale provides for salaries of teachers in state institutions, such as the Maryland School for the Deaf, to begin at $3,000. Public school teachers start at $2,200.

One of the largest increases is a 68 per cent jump in the pay of superintendents of tuberculosis hospitals, from a scale of $5,500-$6,875 to $9,240-$11,550.

Frostburg Arion Band To Present Concert May 30

Part Of Optimist Club's Program

The Arion Band of Frostburg will be one of two featured bands at the musical concert prior to the gala fireworks display Memorial Day, May 30, at Cumberland Fairgrounds under the sponsorship of the local Optimist Club. The other half of the concert, which will get underway at 8:15 p. m. next Wednesday, will be provided by the Fort Hill High School Senior Band. The fireworks display will begin at 9:15 o'clock.

One of Allegany County's outstanding musical groups, the Arion Band, consists of 60 members, including six majorettes, a drum major, assistant drum major and two banner carriers.

The band has a unique historical background and is maintained largely by an annual appropriation from the Mayor and City Council of Frostburg through authority granted by the Maryland Legislature.

Originally known as the "German Arion Band," it was organized in the fall of 1877 by young members of the German Arion Gesang Verien, a society that had been in existence about two years at that time. Nearly all Germans of Frostburg who were musically inclined or had talent were members of the organization.

The band's first director was the late Conrad F. Nickel, who served until 1887 and was then succeeded by the late George Vogtman. Vogtman directed the musical organization until 1930. The third director, Hilary Lancaster then guided the destinies of the band until his death in 1944 when Darrell G. Zeller, present director, took over the reins.

One Charter Member Living

All of the charter members of the band, except Philip Pfeiffer, 90-year-resident of Detroit, are now deceased.

The Arion Band became part of the Maryland State Militia in 1889 when it was admitted to one of the regiments as the Fourth Battalion Band. It was camped near Frederick under command of the late George A. Pearre.

During World War I, the name of the group was changed to its present title and in recent years its membership has been augmented by younger people and recently received new uniforms through donations from residents of Frostburg.

Personnel of Band

The personnel of the Arion Band includes besides Director Zeller: Drum Major, Charles Shutz; Assistant Drum Major, Dale Parker; Majorettes, June Lemmert, Shirley Stevenson, Mary Joe Malampy, Mary Jane Phillips, Sue Phillips and Yvonne Taylor. Members Charles McFarland, Clarence Powers, Ervin Lewis, Adam Kaulbaugh, Melvin Muir, Frank Diehl, Joseph Evans, William Kerr, Benjamin Mehrling, Fred Schockey, Robert Nelson, John Turner, James Filer, Joseph Warner, Donald Rafferty, Luther Keller, George Kroll, Rev. George Wehler, Ira Langeluttig, James Rinker, William Barry, Donald Hanna, John Kroll, Herman Kroll and Robert Glotfelty.

Thomas Eckhart, Edward Payne, Melvinu Eichhorn, Eugene Briggs, Glenn Keller, James McDonald, Drusilla Shriner, Robert Brodie, Thomas Lewis, Joseph Barry, William Rephann, Robert Kloss, Calvin Steele, Joann Steele, Lee Smith, William Lewis.

Children Cautioned On Light Change

Chief of Police R. E. Flynn has prepared and is distributing notices reminding school children of crossing Baltimore Street on the "green" light with the flow of traffic after June 3. The reminders will be placed in school buses and distributed in city schools.

As part of the educational program going into effect in Cumberland the children are reminded not to cross the street diagonally and to exercise caution while crossing on green lights.

An officer, Flynn added, will be on duty at each crossing to assist the children until such a time when pedestrians and motorists are familiar with the procedure.

Frostburg Arion Band To Present Concert May 30

Part Of Optimist Club's Program

The Arion Band of Frostburg will be one of two featured bands at the musical concert prior to the gala fireworks display Memorial Day, May 30, at Cumberland Fairgrounds under the sponsorship of the local Optimist Club. The other half of the concert, which will get underway at 8:15 p. m. next Wednesday, will be provided by the Fort Hill High School Senior Band. The fireworks display will begin at 9:15 o'clock.

One of Allegany County's outstanding musical groups, the Arion Band, consists of 60 members, including six majorettes, a drum major, assistant drum major and two banner carriers.

The band has a unique historical background and is maintained largely by an annual appropriation from the Mayor and City Council of Frostburg through authority granted by the Maryland Legislature.

Originally known as the "German Arion Band," it was organized in the fall of 1877 by young members of the German Arion Gesang Verien, a society that had been in existence about two years at that time. Nearly all Germans of Frostburg who were musically inclined or had talent were members of the organization.

The band's first director was the late Conrad F. Nickel, who served until 1887 and was then succeeded by the late George Vogtman. Vogtman directed the musical organization until 1930. The third director, Hilary Lancaster then guided the destinies of the band until his death in 1944 when Darrell G. Zeller, present director, took over the reins.

One Charter Member Living

All of the charter members of the band, except Philip Pfeiffer, 90-year-resident of Detroit, are now deceased.

The Arion Band became part of the Maryland State Militia in 1889 when it was admitted to one of the regiments as the Fourth Battalion Band. It was camped near Frederick under command of the late George A. Pearre.

During World War I, the name of the group was changed to its present title and in recent years its membership has been augmented by younger people and recently received new uniforms through donations from residents of Frostburg.

Personnel of Band

The personnel of the Arion Band includes besides Director Zeller: Drum Major, Charles Shutz; Assistant Drum Major, Dale Parker; Majorettes, June Lemmert, Shirley Stevenson, Mary Joe Malampy, Mary Jane Phillips, Sue Phillips and Yvonne Taylor. Members Charles McFarland, Clarence Powers, Ervin Lewis, Adam Kaulbaugh, Melvin Muir, Frank Diehl, Joseph Evans, William Kerr, Benjamin Mehrling, Fred Schockey, Robert Nelson, John Turner, James Filer, Joseph Warner, Donald Rafferty, Luther Keller, George Kroll, Rev. George Wehler, Ira Langeluttig, James Rinker, William Barry, Donald Hanna, John Kroll, Herman Kroll and Robert Glotfelty.

Thomas Eckhart, Edward Payne, Melvinu Eichhorn, Eugene Briggs, Glenn Keller, James McDonald, Drusilla Shriner, Robert Brodie, Thomas Lewis, Joseph Barry, William Rephann, Robert Kloss, Calvin Steele, Joann Steele, Lee Smith, William Lewis.

Children Cautioned On Light Change

Chief of Police R. E. Flynn has prepared and is distributing notices reminding school children of crossing Baltimore Street on the "green" light with the flow of traffic after June 3. The reminders will be placed in school buses and distributed in city schools.

As part of the educational program going into effect in Cumberland the children are reminded not to cross the street diagonally and to exercise caution while crossing on green lights.

An officer, Flynn added, will be on duty at each crossing to assist the children until such a time when pedestrians and motorists are familiar with the procedure.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

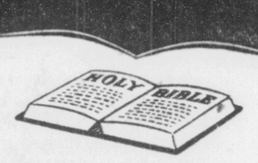
It's fine to have someone "on your side."

Here was Tommy, for instance. He had waked up early this morning and had dressed all by himself. This was the first day of Daily Vacation Bible School, and all his favorite playmates would be there.

And then he had heard his mother say he couldn't go, that she was too busy to stop her work and take him to the church. He was just about to burst into tears when his sister asked if she might walk with him to the church.

Because of his sister, Tommy was able to go, but in thousands of other cases such as this, the story is not ending as happily.

Won't you make a definite effort to help your children, and your neighbor's children, receive religious training? Take them to the church, where the sure standards of Christian living are taught. Won't you take them? Won't you be "on their side?"



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

It's fine to have someone "on your side."

Here was Tommy, for instance. He had waked up early this morning and had dressed all by himself. This was the first day of Daily Vacation Bible School, and all his favorite playmates would be there.

And then he had heard his mother say he couldn't go, that she was too busy to stop her work and take him to the church. He was just about to burst into tears when his sister asked if she might walk with him to the church.

Because of his sister, Tommy was able to go, but in thousands of other cases such as this, the story is not ending as happily.

Won't you make a definite effort to help your children, and your neighbor's children, receive religious training? Take them to the church, where the sure standards of Christian living are taught. Won't you take them? Won't you be "on their side?"

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Beall High School shut out Central High School of Lonaconing, 2-0, to register its 10th consecutive victory of the season in the Bi-State Baseball Conference yesterday at Frostburg.

At Campobello, LaSalle squared its season series with Allegany by whipping the Campers to the tune of 4-3.

Bruce High School, Westernport, retained the runner-up spot in the conference by blanking Fort Hill High School here, 5-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Bobby Raines who fanned 15 and boosted his strikeout total for the season to 115.

Arnone Posts 9th Win

In the contest at Frostburg, Enardo Arnone, Beall southpaw, registered his 9th straight victory of the scholastic season, beating Jack Brodie of the Tigers in a neat pitching duel. It marked the second time Arnone had blanked Central this season and decisioned Brodie this season. The Frostburg lefty whiffed 10 to boost his strikeout total to 109 for the campaign.

Beall sewed up the game by scoring its two runs in the 5th inning. Joe Glass doubled to right and came home on Jim Poland's line single to center. Successive singles by Willetts Duncan and Jack Burner produced the other marker. Central collected two of its hits in the 6th and advanced Kelly to third base but was unable to score.

Brodie fanned seven Beall batsmen.

Loses 7th In Row

Fort Hill went down for the 7th straight time in a conference game before the slants of Bobby Raines.

Coach Woody Woodson's outfit bunched its hits for five runs in the second, third and sixth frames.

Don Marple socked a homer for Bruce.

Ronnie Sisk, Allegany's hard luck pitcher, issued only three hits and failed to yield an earned run. In fact, it was an erratic ball game as the Campers scored three runs in the final frame as a result of LaSalle fielding miscues. Nine errors were charged against the teams. Doug Connolly was the winner.

Chapman And Coe To Clash For British Amateur Title

Americans Defeat Carr And Beamish

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 25 (AP)—Dead-tired Charlie Coe and dapper Dick Chapman smashed the last British hopes of lifting the American mortgage on their amateur golf championship today.

Dick Chapman

The two former U. S. champions meet tomorrow over 36 holes in the third All-American final in five years. Chapman will have played in all three.

Their golf today was the equal of anything seen in these golf-mad islands for many a year.

The 40-year-old Chapman was five under par for the 30 holes he needed to put the skids under two Irish hopes—Joe Carr and Cecil Beamish. He ousted both by scores of 4 and 3.

Coe, the 27-year-old former University of Oklahoma star, played unbeatable golf as he edged Sammy Urzetta, the current U. S. champion, 3 and 2, in the morning quarter-final. And he had enough left to down Albert Evans of Wales, 4 and 2, in the afternoon.

To British eyes, Chapman was the bigger villain. They had felt sure they would see the 29-year-old Carr playing in the final, particularly after he routed defending titleholder Frank Stranahan yesterday.

But against the flawless star from Pinehurst, Carr never had the right answer. He hung on tightly until Chapman curled in a breathtaking 15-foot putt on the ninth hole to go one up.

That was all the 40-year-old veteran needed. He went two up at the tenth, where Carr was short, and three up on the 13th, where Carr's second shot was through the green.

The pressure was too much for Carr. He sliced off the short 14th into a deep sand trap, blasted out almost over the green and lost the hole four to three. A half at the 15th gave Dick his ticket into the final for the third time in six attempts.

Morris Strikes Out 13 In 16 To 4 Triumph

FLINTSTONE, May 25 — Coach Augie Eichhorn's Flintstone High School tossers trounced Hancock High School today by the score of 16-4 and swept the season series with the Washington countians.

The win was the third of the season for Flintstone against as many losses.

Dewayne Morris, Flintstone pitcher, gave up only five hits and struck out 13. Ronnie Roland with two doubles and a single and T. Puffinburger with three singles accounted for half of Flintstone's 12 safeties.

Flintstone will play LaSalle at Stitcher Field, Cumberland, at 1:30 p. m., EDT., on Memorial Day. Box:

Big Ten Extends Rose Bowl Series

EVANSTON, Ill., May 25 (AP) — The Big Ten today voted to extend the Rose Bowl football series in the manner proposed by the Pacific Coast Conference which has lost five straight Pasadena classics.

The renewal probably will be on a three-year basis.

In a surprising compromise ballot, the Big Ten athletic directors and faculty representatives approved the annual classic, but with a not more than one-every-two-years appearance by the same team.

During the first five years of the expired pact, the Big Ten had a once-every-three-years appearance limit for the same team, while the Pacific Coast loop had no restriction whatever. California, for instance, represented the PCC in the last three bowl games.

Court Gives Verdict In Feller's Favor

BOSTON, May 25 (AP)—A verdict in favor of Cleveland Indians' baseball pitcher Bob Feller was returned in Superior Court today in a $25,000 breach of contract suit brought against the fireballer by a Boston shirt firm.

Feller was sued for damages by John E. Jenner and John W. Ward for the Jen-U-Ware Company. They contended Feller failed to fulfill a personal appearance contract in connection with a sale of their shirts June 26, 1948.

Ben Hogan Holds Lead In Tourney

Middlecoff Trails By Single Stroke

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 25 (AP)—Ben Hogan blew cool today but not enough to lose his lead in the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament as he came in with a one-over-par 71 to make his 36-hole total 139.

Hogan, the first-day front-runner with a 68 over the tough 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course, finished in the last threesome in the field of 42 and nipped Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., for the lead.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., playing with Hogan, also finished ahead of Palmer, shooting a 71 for 140.

Palmer had come in with a par 70 for a total of 141 but it stood up as the lead only 30 minutes.

Tied at 142 were Ed Oliver of Seattle, Wash., the day's low scorer with a 67; Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., who had a 68; Toney Penna of Cincinnati, who had a 73, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C.; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., each with a 71.

It appeared for a while that Middlecoff would take over the lead. The former dentist, who has a 60 yesterday, turned the first nine today in par 35 and was two under on the back nine until he hit No. 15 where he took a two-over par six, then he three-putted 16 to lose still another stroke.

Hogan made the first nine today in one over 36 put played the second in even par, shooting one birdie while going one over on another hole.

Bobby Myers Beats Ely

Myers outpitched Joe Ely to win today's game for the Yellow Jackets.

The Moorefield twirler yielded only three hits and the Pioneers hit only four balls out of the infield. Baird beat out a bunt down the third base line in the third and J. Liller and Malcolm singled in the 7th. Romney hit two fly balls to the outfield.

Moorefield put the game on ice with a five run splurge in the second and added another tally in the third. Successive doubles by George Fisher and Bobby Wilson started the big second frame and before the rally died Myers, Hardy, Raines and Barr also connected for base hits.

Romney's lone run in the 5th was unearned. A hit batsman, walk and two errors saved the Pioneers from a shutout defeat.

Moorefield and Romney had split even in two games during their P.V.C. campaign.

The Pirates knocked out Frank Hiller with a five-run blast in the sixth inning and continued the violence against Bob Kelly until Turk Lown retired them in order in the ninth.

Metkovich drove in exactly half the Pittsburgh runs with his homer, a double and two singles. Box:

Carter TKOs Williams To Annex Title

New Yorker Takes Lightweight Crown In 14th At Garden

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—James Carter, virtually unknown New York negro who had lost two or three 1951 fights, wrenched the world lightweight title from Ike Williams tonight with a stunning technical knockout victory in 2:49 of the 14th round at Madison Square Garden.

Williams, holder of at least part of the crown since 1945, underwent a torturous 90-minute ordeal this afternoon making the 135-pound class limit. Carter weighed 133.

The new champ, born in Aiken, S. C., 27 year ago, but raised in the teeming Bronx, dropped the old champ four times before Referee Petey Scalzo stopped it to save groggy Ike from serious injury.

Because Carter was ranked 12th among the contenders in its latest ratings, the National Boxing Association refused to sanction this as a title bout. But the New York State Athletic Commission gave its blessing.

The odds on favorite Ike shrunk from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1 and even lower at some points after Williams' struggle with the scales became public knowledge.

Only 3,594 paid $13,260, a new low for the lightweight division to see the upset. Millions watched on television.

Carter, biding his time while Williams shot the works early, dumped Williams for five with a long right to the left temple midway in the fifth. It was a shot out of the blue as Williams seemed the complete boxing master up to that time.

After the first knockdown, Carter poured punches at Ike. Down he went again for two jarring rights to the jaw. The bell rang as he was trying to pry himself out of the resin at the count of eight.

Carter swarmed over Williams with a body attack attack that sent him sailing through the ropes onto the ring apron in the tenth. He got back at the count of four.

Flash Gourdine Takes Spotlight In IC4A Contests

Cornell Qualifies 15 In 75th College Meet

PHILADELPHIA, May 25 (AP)—A sprint ace with six stitches in his right heel set one meet record, qualified in two individual events and ran a lap on a winning mile relay team today to lead favored Cornell to the top in the first day of the 75th annual I. C.-4-A track and field championships at Franklin Field.

Meredith (Flash) Gourdine, Brooklyn native, stole the spotlight from Andy Stanfield, Seton Hall's spectacular negro runner, as he flashed his game heel to the field in the 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump and in the first lap of the one mile relay.

Gourdine started his great day by smashing a 10-minute-old record. He had watched Stanfield leap 25 feet 7½ inches to break the meet's broad jump record. Gourdine apparently wasn't fazed.

He fouled on his first broad jump attempt and made a fair leap on second try. The third time he flew 25 feet 9¾ inches to crack both Stanfield's mark and the 1931 record of 25 feet 3½ inches set by Richard A. Barber of Southern California on the same Franklin field track.

In all, Cornell qualified 13, including its mile relay team. Manhattan qualified 11, Seton Hall six, Dartmouth five and St. John's, New York University and Georgetown four each.

Gourdine suffered the heel injury last week in the heptagonal games when he was spiked.

Stanfield wasn't exactly inactive. He also had a fine day despite his disappointment in the broad jump. He still has a chance to become the first IC4A triple crown winner since Barney Ewell of Penn State turned the trick for the third straight time in 1942.

Stanfield qualified with his initial record breaking performance in the broad jump, won the 100-yard dash in the fastest qualifying time of :09.9 and entered the 220-yard final with the second fastest qualifying time of 0:21.4.

Beall High School shut out Central High School of Lonaconing, 2-0, to register its 10th consecutive victory of the season in the Bi-State Baseball Conference yesterday at Frostburg.

At Campobello, LaSalle squared its season series with Allegany by whipping the Campers to the tune of 4-3.

Bruce High School, Westernport, retained the runner-up spot in the conference by blanking Fort Hill High School here, 5-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Bobby Raines who fanned 15 and boosted his strikeout total for the season to 115.

Arnone Posts 9th Win

In the contest at Frostburg, Enardo Arnone, Beall southpaw, registered his 9th straight victory of the scholastic season, beating Jack Brodie of the Tigers in a neat pitching duel. It marked the second time Arnone had blanked Central this season and decisioned Brodie this season. The Frostburg lefty whiffed 10 to boost his strikeout total to 109 for the campaign.

Beall sewed up the game by scoring its two runs in the 5th inning. Joe Glass doubled to right and came home on Jim Poland's line single to center. Successive singles by Willetts Duncan and Jack Burner produced the other marker. Central collected two of its hits in the 6th and advanced Kelly to third base but was unable to score.

Brodie fanned seven Beall batsmen.

Loses 7th In Row

Fort Hill went down for the 7th straight time in a conference game before the slants of Bobby Raines.

Coach Woody Woodson's outfit bunched its hits for five runs in the second, third and sixth frames.

Don Marple socked a homer for Bruce.

Ronnie Sisk, Allegany's hard luck pitcher, issued only three hits and failed to yield an earned run. In fact, it was an erratic ball game as the Campers scored three runs in the final frame as a result of LaSalle fielding miscues. Nine errors were charged against the teams. Doug Connolly was the winner.

Chapman And Coe To Clash For British Amateur Title

Americans Defeat Carr And Beamish

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 25 (AP)—Dead-tired Charlie Coe and dapper Dick Chapman smashed the last British hopes of lifting the American mortgage on their amateur golf championship today.

Dick Chapman

The two former U. S. champions meet tomorrow over 36 holes in the third All-American final in five years. Chapman will have played in all three.

Their golf today was the equal of anything seen in these golf-mad islands for many a year.

The 40-year-old Chapman was five under par for the 30 holes he needed to put the skids under two Irish hopes—Joe Carr and Cecil Beamish. He ousted both by scores of 4 and 3.

Coe, the 27-year-old former University of Oklahoma star, played unbeatable golf as he edged Sammy Urzetta, the current U. S. champion, 3 and 2, in the morning quarter-final. And he had enough left to down Albert Evans of Wales, 4 and 2, in the afternoon.

To British eyes, Chapman was the bigger villain. They had felt sure they would see the 29-year-old Carr playing in the final, particularly after he routed defending titleholder Frank Stranahan yesterday.

But against the flawless star from Pinehurst, Carr never had the right answer. He hung on tightly until Chapman curled in a breathtaking 15-foot putt on the ninth hole to go one up.

That was all the 40-year-old veteran needed. He went two up at the tenth, where Carr was short, and three up on the 13th, where Carr's second shot was through the green.

The pressure was too much for Carr. He sliced off the short 14th into a deep sand trap, blasted out almost over the green and lost the hole four to three. A half at the 15th gave Dick his ticket into the final for the third time in six attempts.

Big Ten Extends Rose Bowl Series

EVANSTON, Ill., May 25 (AP) — The Big Ten today voted to extend the Rose Bowl football series in the manner proposed by the Pacific Coast Conference which has lost five straight Pasadena classics.

The renewal probably will be on a three-year basis.

In a surprising compromise ballot, the Big Ten athletic directors and faculty representatives approved the annual classic, but with a not more than one-every-two-years appearance by the same team.

During the first five years of the expired pact, the Big Ten had a once-every-three-years appearance limit for the same team, while the Pacific Coast loop had no restriction whatever. California, for instance, represented the PCC in the last three bowl games.

Court Gives Verdict In Feller's Favor

BOSTON, May 25 (AP)—A verdict in favor of Cleveland Indians' baseball pitcher Bob Feller was returned in Superior Court today in a $25,000 breach of contract suit brought against the fireballer by a Boston shirt firm.

Feller was sued for damages by John E. Jenner and John W. Ward for the Jen-U-Ware Company. They contended Feller failed to fulfill a personal appearance contract in connection with a sale of their shirts June 26, 1948.

Ben Hogan Holds Lead In Tourney

Middlecoff Trails By Single Stroke

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 25 (AP)—Ben Hogan blew cool today but not enough to lose his lead in the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament as he came in with a one-over-par 71 to make his 36-hole total 139.

Hogan, the first-day front-runner with a 68 over the tough 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course, finished in the last threesome in the field of 42 and nipped Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., for the lead.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., playing with Hogan, also finished ahead of Palmer, shooting a 71 for 140.

Palmer had come in with a par 70 for a total of 141 but it stood up as the lead only 30 minutes.

Tied at 142 were Ed Oliver of Seattle, Wash., the day's low scorer with a 67; Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., who had a 68; Toney Penna of Cincinnati, who had a 73, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C.; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., each with a 71.

It appeared for a while that Middlecoff would take over the lead. The former dentist, who has a 60 yesterday, turned the first nine today in par 35 and was two under on the back nine until he hit No. 15 where he took a two-over par six, then he three-putted 16 to lose still another stroke.

Hogan made the first nine today in one over 36 put played the second in even par, shooting one birdie while going one over on another hole.

Five Runs In Second Decide; Jackets Meet Martinsburg Today

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 25—Moorefield High School advanced to the finals of the West Virginia Region No. 4 baseball tournament today by defeating its arch rival, Romney High School, here today by the score of 6-1.

Coach Johnny Paugh's tossers earned the right to play Martinsburg High School Saturday at 2 p. m., E.S.T., and the winner of this game will represent the region at the state championship tournament next week at Parkersburg.

Martinsburg moved to the finals on Thursday by defeating Wardensville High School, 1-0, in sixteen innings.

Bobby Myers Beats Ely

The Moorefield twirler yielded only three hits and the Pioneers hit only four balls out of the infield. Baird beat out a bunt down the third base line in the third and J. Liller and Malcolm singled in the 7th. Romney hit two fly balls to the outfield.

Moorefield put the game on ice with a five run splurge in the second and added another tally in the third. Successive doubles by George Fisher and Bobby Wilson started the big second frame and before the rally died Myers, Hardy, Raines and Barr also connected for base hits.

Romney's lone run in the 5th was unearned. A hit batsman, walk and two errors saved the Pioneers from a shutout defeat.

Moorefield and Romney had split even in two games during their P.V.C. campaign.

Carter TKOs Williams To Annex Title

New Yorker Takes Lightweight Crown In 14th At Garden

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—James Carter, virtually unknown New York negro who had lost two or three 1951 fights, wrenched the world lightweight title from Ike Williams tonight with a stunning technical knockout victory in 2:49 of the 14th round at Madison Square Garden.

Williams, holder of at least part of the crown since 1945, underwent a torturous 90-minute ordeal this afternoon making the 135-pound class limit. Carter weighed 133.

The new champ, born in Aiken, S. C., 27 year ago, but raised in the teeming Bronx, dropped the old champ four times before Referee Petey Scalzo stopped it to save groggy Ike from serious injury.

Because Carter was ranked 12th among the contenders in its latest ratings, the National Boxing Association refused to sanction this as a title bout. But the New York State Athletic Commission gave its blessing.

The odds on favorite Ike shrunk from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1 and even lower at some points after Williams' struggle with the scales became public knowledge.

Only 3,594 paid $13,260, a new low for the lightweight division to see the upset. Millions watched on television.

Carter, biding his time while Williams shot the works early, dumped Williams for five with a long right to the left temple midway in the fifth. It was a shot out of the blue as Williams seemed the complete boxing master up to that time.

After the first knockdown, Carter poured punches at Ike. Down he went again for two jarring rights to the jaw. The bell rang as he was trying to pry himself out of the resin at the count of eight.

Carter swarmed over Williams with a body attack attack that sent him sailing through the ropes onto the ring apron in the tenth. He got back at the count of four.

Flash Gourdine Takes Spotlight In IC4A Contests

Cornell Qualifies 15 In 75th College Meet

PHILADELPHIA, May 25 (AP)—A sprint ace with six stitches in his right heel set one meet record, qualified in two individual events and ran a lap on a winning mile relay team today to lead favored Cornell to the top in the first day of the 75th annual I. C.-4-A track and field championships at Franklin Field.

Meredith (Flash) Gourdine, Brooklyn native, stole the spotlight from Andy Stanfield, Seton Hall's spectacular negro runner, as he flashed his game heel to the field in the 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump and in the first lap of the one mile relay.

Gourdine started his great day by smashing a 10-minute-old record. He had watched Stanfield leap 25 feet 7½ inches to break the meet's broad jump record. Gourdine apparently wasn't fazed.

He fouled on his first broad jump attempt and made a fair leap on second try. The third time he flew 25 feet 9¾ inches to crack both Stanfield's mark and the 1931 record of 25 feet 3½ inches set by Richard A. Barber of Southern California on the same Franklin field track.

In all, Cornell qualified 13, including its mile relay team. Manhattan qualified 11, Seton Hall six, Dartmouth five and St. John's, New York University and Georgetown four each.

Gourdine suffered the heel injury last week in the heptagonal games when he was spiked.

Stanfield wasn't exactly inactive. He also had a fine day despite his disappointment in the broad jump. He still has a chance to become the first IC4A triple crown winner since Barney Ewell of Penn State turned the trick for the third straight time in 1942.

Stanfield qualified with his initial record breaking performance in the broad jump, won the 100-yard dash in the fastest qualifying time of :09.9 and entered the 220-yard final with the second fastest qualifying time of 0:21.4.

Seven To Start In Withers Mile At Belmont Park

Battlefield Rated As Early Favorite

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—Battlefield, the champion two-year-old a year ago and a bust so far this season, will be favored to beat six rivals tomorrow in the 76th running of the famed Withers Mile at Belmont Park.

George D. Widener's chestnut colt was listed in the probable early odds at even money to scamper off with the $25,000-added event on the strength of a sparkling race here Tuesday.

The main opposition is expected from Hal Price Headley's Jumbo, which won over Battlefield by little more than a length in the seven-furlong Swift Stakes at Belmont May 16. Jumbo was listed as second choice at 4 to 1.

Others entered tomorrow are the Phantom Farm's Nullify, Howell E. Jackson's Due East, Larry MacPhail's General Staff, C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint, and the Greentree Stable's Irish-bred, Northern Star.

All carry 126 pounds in The Withers, first run at old Jerome Park in 1874.

Battlefield, to be ridden by Eddie Arcaro again, beat three of the horses he meets tomorrow in Tuesday's race. In that one, the son of War relic skipped six furlongs in 1:10 1-5, and Arcaro said he wasn't extended.

How he fares in the Withers — first time the colt has ever tried a mile route — will determine if Battlefield runs in the $100,000 Belmont June 16.

Battlefield packed 126 pounds Tuesday, giving 14 pounds to Nullify which finished second. General Staff, carrying only 113 pounds, was third, and Northern Star, also with 126, was fourth.

Seven To Start In Withers Mile At Belmont Park

Battlefield Rated As Early Favorite

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—Battlefield, the champion two-year-old a year ago and a bust so far this season, will be favored to beat six rivals tomorrow in the 76th running of the famed Withers Mile at Belmont Park.

George D. Widener's chestnut colt was listed in the probable early odds at even money to scamper off with the $25,000-added event on the strength of a sparkling race here Tuesday.

The main opposition is expected from Hal Price Headley's Jumbo, which won over Battlefield by little more than a length in the seven-furlong Swift Stakes at Belmont May 16. Jumbo was listed as second choice at 4 to 1.

Others entered tomorrow are the Phantom Farm's Nullify, Howell E. Jackson's Due East, Larry MacPhail's General Staff, C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint, and the Greentree Stable's Irish-bred, Northern Star.

All carry 126 pounds in The Withers, first run at old Jerome Park in 1874.

Battlefield, to be ridden by Eddie Arcaro again, beat three of the horses he meets tomorrow in Tuesday's race. In that one, the son of War relic skipped six furlongs in 1:10 1-5, and Arcaro said he wasn't extended.

How he fares in the Withers — first time the colt has ever tried a mile route — will determine if Battlefield runs in the $100,000 Belmont June 16.

Battlefield packed 126 pounds Tuesday, giving 14 pounds to Nullify which finished second. General Staff, carrying only 113 pounds, was third, and Northern Star, also with 126, was fourth.

Reynolds Discusses Keyser History

KEYSER, W. Va. — Lester Reynolds, local attorney, gave a review of church activities in Keyser from the time the city was founded down to the present time at a meeting of the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday. The talk, followed a review of Keyser and Mineral county history given the previous week by Luke McDowell.

Reynolds recently presented a history of First Methodist Church of Keyser as a church centennial celebration feature, and repeated the historical sketch that had originally been written by his grandfather, Judge F. M. Reynolds. The history was written in 1919, after considerable research and from memory.

In telling of the early history of Keyser, founded ten years before the Civil War began, Reynolds said the names of the community were Potomac, Paddytown, and during the Civil War and later, it was known as New Creek. The B. and O. Railroad Company used the name "New Creek" for its station here until 1872 or 73, when the name was changed to Keyser, honoring a vice president of the company, William Keyser.

W. Va. Panhandle Will Switch To DST Sunday

Will Revert Back To EST Sept. 2

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., May 25 (AP)—Most of West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle will go on Daylight Saving Time Sunday.

It is four weeks behind the customary time for moving the clocks ahead an hour, and in the fall the Panhandle will go back on standard time on Sept. 2 rather than Sept. 30.

The unorthodox dates for the switch-overs represent a compromise with the strong rural sentiment against Daylight Saving.

The Martinsburg City Council started the official movement to daylight last month when it voted to put municipal employes on the earlier schedule this Sunday.

Bolivar, Harpers Ferry, Hedgesville, Shepherdstown, Charles Town and Berkeley Springs — all the larger communities in the three-county area have now followed suit.

Banks, business houses, and nearly all the large industrial plants have agreed to the change in time. Even the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which runs its trains on Standard Time, is putting non-operating parts of its Martinsburg plant on daylight.

Most vocal opposition has come from the Berkeley County Farm Bureau.

The Panhandle is surrounded by Maryland and Virginia. All of the Maryland area has Daylight Time. Virginia stays on standard, except in the two counties which adjoin Washington, D. C.

Reynolds Discusses Keyser History

KEYSER, W. Va. — Lester Reynolds, local attorney, gave a review of church activities in Keyser from the time the city was founded down to the present time at a meeting of the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday. The talk, followed a review of Keyser and Mineral county history given the previous week by Luke McDowell.

Reynolds recently presented a history of First Methodist Church of Keyser as a church centennial celebration feature, and repeated the historical sketch that had originally been written by his grandfather, Judge F. M. Reynolds. The history was written in 1919, after considerable research and from memory.

In telling of the early history of Keyser, founded ten years before the Civil War began, Reynolds said the names of the community were Potomac, Paddytown, and during the Civil War and later, it was known as New Creek. The B. and O. Railroad Company used the name "New Creek" for its station here until 1872 or 73, when the name was changed to Keyser, honoring a vice president of the company, William Keyser.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 25. (INS)—The stage play of "Moulin Rouge," Pierre La Mure's best seller, opens on Broadway in September with Nat Goldstone producing. It was Nat who was back of "Bloomer Girl," Celeste Holm's former hit.

Edward Chodorov is writing the stage play of the La Mure book.

I hear through the grapevine that some motion picture money is going into the show which means that it will be made as a motion picture after it plays on Broadway.

Hume Cronyn is being mentioned for the Henri De Toulouse Lautrec role. I'd like to put in my fifty cents worth and say I cannot think of anyone who would be better than Hume Cronyn.

• — • — •

Spike Jones, in town to stay for a while, starts work before long in "Really, Mr. Greeley" for Tony Owen, who will release his picture through RKO.

As I hear it, it's a period piece about a barnstorming entertainer in the days of the early west, and Spike, of course, will play the barnstormer. That, Spike can do to the queen's taste.

I am greatly interested in "The Pinkerton Story," by Jim Horan, on the stands tomorrow—not only because Horan is Paul Schoenstein's assistant on the New York Journal-American, but because the late William Tinkerton was a friend of mine and of my husband, Dr. Harry Martin.

Bill told my favorite doctor many fascinating stories about the way the Pinkerton Agency and he, personally, tracked down criminals. He was a patient of Dr. Martin's for many years.

I knew Bill when I was on the Morning Telegraph and he and William E. Lewis, the publisher, were great pals.

Horan, in his book, reveals things never before told about the Pinkertons, starting with the Civil War and when Allan Pinkerton founded the agency. Howard Swiggett, Civil War historian, assisted Author Horan.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Bright and early Ernest Hemingway was on the telephone talking to Gary Cooper asking Gary to come to Havana as soon as he finishes "Distant Drums" to fish and rest.

But Coop is tired after the strenuous location jaunt in Florida, so I don't see him going to Havana right now.

More and more he's beginning to realize how many friends he has and that his popularity through the years has not waned in the slightest. He's conducted himself so wonderfully through all this trouble that he has made many new friends.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Brod Crawford frankly tells friends that he doesn't see any chance of him and Kay patching up their marriage, but legal papers will not be signed until after the baby arrives this summer. Maybe then the Crawfords will get together. Everyone hopes so.

Ginger Rogers and Greg Bautzer are again seeing each other, but often. Ginger gave a tennis party last Sunday and Greg was one of the players.

Gene Markey took Herbert Marshall a birthday cake. Gene still has that old charm that made him the No. 1 beau of Hollywood some years ago. He looks so well and has back becoming weight which he had dropped during the war.

So far Forrest Tucker is the only Hollywood personality to register for the annual celebrity golf tournament in Washington.

Sylvia Kaye goes to New York on business Monday. She may wait there for Danny to come back from London, although I doubt that she'll stay until July. Her mother, however, is well following her operation.

Well, Sexy Rexy Harrison and his devoted wife, Lilli Palmer come to Hollywood the later part of the summer after a vacation in France. They'll do "Four Poster" for Stanley Kramer.

Gene Nelson cancelled his dance rehearsals on "Starlift" to remain with Mrs. Nelson while their son had a tonsilectomy.

Kathryn Grayson and Walter Pidgeon are in Washington representing MGM at the Carter Barron memorial ceremonies. What a sweet person Carter was. And how kind to everyone from Hollywood.

That's all today. See you Monday.

PARIS, May 25 (AP)—Western Europe's air defenses need a lot of improving before they could beat off an invader, military chieftains have learned.

Their lesson came in "Exercise Umbrella," the first test of air forces assigned by the Atlantic pact nations to the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The three-day exercise, biggest held in the west since the war, closed tonight. It involved fighter and bomber forces of the United States, France, Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Have women tried to imitate men?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Clara Thompson, noted psychoanalyst, in Samiksa (India). Although modern woman has "come a long way" since the time of her grandmother, she is still influenced by old attitudes (like the desire to be sheltered and protected) which created emotional conflict. The main difficulty is that women in attempting to win freedom and equality have adopted the masculine pattern as their "blueprint." Their next task is to work out a pattern which will allow them to develop their own special talents and to make their unique contribution to the common welfare.

Can older men endure "stress"?

Answer: Better than you might suppose, writes Dr. Gregory Pincus in Psychosomatic Medicine. When two groups of 54 younger men and 30 older ones were subjected to a series of tests of their ability to withstand physical and mental stress, there was only a slight difference between them, leading the researchers to conclude that "men surviving to old age without overt ill health or infirmity may preserve relatively intact the (glandular) mechanisms involved in response to acute stress." The achievements of the "Seabees" are a striking demonstration of this.

Should you "train" a baby to sleep alone?

Answer: No. The basic effect of any "discipline" or "training" on a child of 18 months or younger is to arouse anxiety and insecurity — he must reach at least 18 months before he is capable of dealing with frustrations. A baby should usually have his own room after the first few months and unless he has been made to feel insecure through being neglected or submitted to a rigid feeding schedule, sleeping alone probably will not disturb him. But if he is frightened when left by himself, ignoring his cries for reassurance will only intensify his terror and sow the seeds of future neurosis.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 25. (INS)—The stage play of "Moulin Rouge," Pierre La Mure's best seller, opens on Broadway in September with Nat Goldstone producing. It was Nat who was back of "Bloomer Girl," Celeste Holm's former hit.

Edward Chodorov is writing the stage play of the La Mure book.

I hear through the grapevine that some motion picture money is going into the show which means that it will be made as a motion picture after it plays on Broadway.

Hume Cronyn is being mentioned for the Henri De Toulouse Lautrec role. I'd like to put in my fifty cents worth and say I cannot think of anyone who would be better than Hume Cronyn.

• — • — •

Spike Jones, in town to stay for a while, starts work before long in "Really, Mr. Greeley" for Tony Owen, who will release his picture through RKO.

As I hear it, it's a period piece about a barnstorming entertainer in the days of the early west, and Spike, of course, will play the barnstormer. That, Spike can do to the queen's taste.

Does your voice make you seem impatient, nervous and cranky? Give it the polish that everyone admires!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

No woman can succeed as a charmer in radio, television or the movies unless her voice is smooth and flowing. Nor can she succeed in any other kind of life. Her voice must be as attractive to hear as she is to see. It must woo the ear; calm, not ruffle, the listener.

Too many women speak in a rapid, jerky, tense manner. Yet it is easy to put a fine polish on your voice and master a highly poised manner of speaking.

Your Speech Motor

Think of your breath as the motor of your voice. It controls the smoothness of your speech and the volume as well. Unless your breathing is habitually deep and easy, you are use to exhale in spurts and jerks—and that's how your words will come out as you talk. You may not feel impatient, nervous or cranky, but that's sure to be the impression that you make.

If you want to have the smooth-as-glass voice that everyone admires, learn to let your breath out in a steady, even flow. Start working on your control today. Stand or sit in your best posture. Take a deep breath through your mouth, and feel your lungs expanding. Now, let your breath out very slowly as you say "Ho-o-o". See how long you can make the breath last. If your voice quavers or cracks, begin again.

This exercise strengthens the muscles you use in controlling the amount of breath you let out.

Try These Sentences

Home was far away down the river.

ere was no sound but the murmer of the stream at midnight.

The stars shine faintly in the moonlit sky.

Soon the sun will shine again.

Practice breath control by reading aloud whenever you can. Remember clearness must never be sacrificed while you work toward increased smoothness. With practice you will develop an even flow of voice that will be clear and beautiful and free from any jerky, tense or staccato sounds.

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading my new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Does your voice make you seem impatient, nervous and cranky? Give it the polish that everyone admires!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

No woman can succeed as a farmer in radio, television or the movies unless her voice is smooth and flowing. Nor can she succeed in any other kind of life. Her voice must be as attractive to hear as she is to see. It must woo the ear; charm, not ruffle, the listener.

Too many women speak in a rapid, jerky, tense manner. Yet it is easy to put a fine polish on your voice and master a highly poised manner of speaking.

Your Speech Motor

Think of your breath as the motor of your voice. It controls the smoothness of your speech and the game as well. Unless your breathing is habitually deep and easy, you misuse to exhale in spurts and jerks—and that's how your words sometimes come out as you talk. You may suddenly feel impatient, nervous or cranky, but that's sure to be the impression that you make.

If you want to have the smooth-as-glass voice that everyone admires, learn to let your breath out in a steady, even flow. Start working on your control today. Stand or sit with your best posture. Take a deep breath through your mouth, and feel your lungs expanding. Now, let your breath out very slowly as you say "Ho-o-o". See how long you can make the breath last. If your voice quavers or cracks, begin again. This exercise strengthens the muscles you use in controlling the amount of breath you let out.

Now try saying these sentences smoothly as possible, using only one breath for each sentence. Lengthen the vowel sounds until you almost sing them:

Try These Sentences

Home was far away down the river.

There was no sound but the murmer of the stream at midnight.

The stars shine faintly in the moonlit sky.

Soon the sun will shine again.

Practice breath control by reading aloud whenever you can. Remember clearness must never be sacrificed while you work toward increased smoothness. With practice you will develop an even flow of voice that will be clear and beautiful and free from any jerky, tense or staccato sounds.

P. S. from J. R. P.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading my new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Stock Prices Make Advance In Spite Of Bearish Inroads

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Stocks made a determined and successful stand against bearish inroads today in a quiet market.

Although the market finished higher on average, it did not come out without showing scars—notably in the oil division.

Among leaders advances generally terminated around the dollar mark. Nickel Plate was an outstanding exception up 5½ at 200½. Downside stocks also held minus signs mostly below the dollar.

An indication of the narrowness of the market is shown by the fact that in the list of 16 most active issues the biggest advance was 50 cents and the greatest decline was 25 cents

Railroad issues were braced by Nickel Plate but nowhere did they show spectacular strength.

The volume of business came to only 1,210,000 shares, lowest of the week. Yesterday the total was 2,580,000 shares.

Socony-Vacuum Oil was the most actively traded issue in the list and was off ¼ at 28⅝ on 18,800 sales. Others following were General Motors up ⅛ at 48⅛, U. S. Steel unchanged at 40⅝, AVCO Mfg. unchanged at 7½, and Radio Corp. off ⅛ at 19.

Illinois Central was up 1 at 58, and others moving up included Baltimore & Ohio ⅜ at 19½, United Air Lines ½ at 26⅞, Studebaker ½ at 28¾, Goodrich 1⅝ at 51⅞, Allied Chemical ¾ at 67, and West Indies Sugar ¾ at 38⅝.

Laundry Pact Talks Planned

Arrangements have been made for a meeting between representatives of the Cumberland Laundry Company and Local 40, Laundry Workers Union, CIO, to negotiate on a new contract.

Both the company and union announced yesterday that a meeting has been planned. No time has been set for this session.

A spokesman for the Cumberland Laundry Company said yesterday "there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"First of all, there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"The company stands ready and willing to negotiate and to discuss this subject with the union.

"Secondly, the statement that workers failed to receive a wage increase after arbitration is not correct. The issue at arbitration last year was whether the increase offered by the company, or the increase demanded by the Union should be granted. The late Chief Judge William A. Huster, acting as arbitrator, granted the increase offered by the company. This same increase was given by another laundry operating under a union contract."

The rest of the statement pertained to the opinion of Judge Huster.

It was stated yesterday that the workers failed to receive a wage increase last year after arbitration. A two-cent an hour wage increase was granted.

SRC To Consider Area Projects

The State Roads Commission will decide whether or not to take over the maintenance of the Bloomington-Swanton highway following a meeting of the full board in Baltimore soon.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegate to the General Assembly from Allegany county, met with two members of the commission yesterday to discuss the matter. Garrett county wants the state to take over the maintenance of the road because it is too costly for the county.

Russell M. McCain, chairman of the commisison, and David Nichols, a commission member, toured the road Thursday. Whitworth said the two state officials commented that the road is bumpy but that it could be a good route for traffic between West Virginia points and Maryland.

It is also important as an access road to the Garrett county recreation area, Whitworth said. The road in question is about 10 miles in length, Whitworth said.

Whitworth reported that McCain and Nichols informed him they had contacted the Navy Department relative to the bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto and possible relocation of the structure and highway in that area.

Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, of Oakland, talked to the commissioners Thursday about the possibility of widening Third Street, using several feet of the east side, so as to relieve traffic congestion in that section.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF PROPOSED BOWLING GREEN SPECIAL TAXING AREA

The County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, in compliance with Section 2 (E-1) of Chapter 494 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for 1951, do hereby give notice of a public hearing on said Act, to be held at the Bowling Green Fire House, Bowling Green, Allegany County, Maryland, on Friday, June 1, 1951, at 7:30 P. M. for public discussion and explanation of said act.

Stock Prices Make Advance In Spite Of Bearish Inroads

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Stocks made a determined and successful stand against bearish inroads today in a quiet market.

Although the market finished higher on average, it did not come out without showing scars—notably in the oil division.

Among leaders advances generally terminated around the dollar mark. Nickel Plate was an outstanding exception up 5½ at 200½. Downside stocks also held minus signs mostly below the dollar.

An indication of the narrowness of the market is shown by the fact that in the list of 16 most active issues the biggest advance was 50 cents and the greatest decline was 25 cents

Railroad issues were braced by Nickel Plate but nowhere did they show spectacular strength.

The volume of business came to only 1,210,000 shares, lowest of the week. Yesterday the total was 2,580,000 shares.

Socony-Vacuum Oil was the most actively traded issue in the list and was off ¼ at 28⅝ on 18,800 sales. Others following were General Motors up ⅛ at 48⅛, U. S. Steel unchanged at 40⅝, AVCO Mfg. unchanged at 7½, and Radio Corp. off ⅛ at 19.

Illinois Central was up 1 at 58, and others moving up included Baltimore & Ohio ⅜ at 19½, United Air Lines ½ at 26⅞, Studebaker ½ at 28¾, Goodrich 1⅝ at 51⅞, Allied Chemical ¾ at 67, and West Indies Sugar ¾ at 38⅝.

Laundry Pact Talks Planned

Arrangements have been made for a meeting between representatives of the Cumberland Laundry Company and Local 40, Laundry Workers Union, CIO, to negotiate on a new contract.

Both the company and union announced yesterday that a meeting has been planned. No time has been set for this session.

A spokesman for the Cumberland Laundry Company said yesterday "there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"First of all, there is not any refusal on the company's part to recognize the union; in fact, an offer was made by the company to renew and again sign the presently existing union contract. The company's financial statement precluded, in self-demonstration, any offer of increase.

"The company stands ready and willing to negotiate and to discuss this subject with the union.

"Secondly, the statement that workers failed to receive a wage increase after arbitration is not correct. The issue at arbitration last year was whether the increase offered by the company, or the increase demanded by the Union should be granted. The late Chief Judge William A. Huster, acting as arbitrator, granted the increase offered by the company. This same increase was given by another laundry operating under a union contract."

The rest of the statement pertained to the opinion of Judge Huster.

It was stated yesterday that the workers failed to receive a wage increase last year after arbitration. A two-cent an hour wage increase was granted.

SRC To Consider Area Projects

The State Roads Commission will decide whether or not to take over the maintenance of the Bloomington-Swanton highway following a meeting of the full board in Baltimore soon.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegate to the General Assembly from Allegany county, met with two members of the commission yesterday to discuss the matter. Garrett county wants the state to take over the maintenance of the road because it is too costly for the county.

Russell M. McCain, chairman of the commisison, and David Nichols, a commission member, toured the road Thursday. Whitworth said the two state officials commented that the road is bumpy but that it could be a good route for traffic between West Virginia points and Maryland.

It is also important as an access road to the Garrett county recreation area, Whitworth said. The road in question is about 10 miles in length, Whitworth said.

Whitworth reported that McCain and Nichols informed him they had contacted the Navy Department relative to the bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto and possible relocation of the structure and highway in that area.

Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, of Oakland, talked to the commissioners Thursday about the possibility of widening Third Street, using several feet of the east side, so as to relieve traffic congestion in that section.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF PROPOSED BOWLING GREEN SPECIAL TAXING AREA

The County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, in compliance with Section 2 (E-1) of Chapter 494 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for 1951, do hereby give notice of a public hearing on said Act, to be held at the Bowling Green Fire House, Bowling Green, Allegany County, Maryland, on Friday, June 1, 1951, at 7:30 P. M. for public discussion and explanation of said act.

City Will Expand Water System If Needed For New Industries

Treatment Plant Near Cresaptown Suggested

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick reported yesterday that Cumberland's water system can be expanded sufficiently to take care of the needs of existing and new industries.

The commissioner estimated that additional filtration facilities at Lake Gordon would enable the city to supply an additional 6,000,000 gallons of pure water a day.

The construction of a third dam above Lake Koon would impound additional water and enable the city to conserve more of the water produced on the Evitts Creek watershed, he said.

None of these measures are needed at present, when average daily consumption is exceeding 12,000,000 gallons a day.

He said the department will be glad to cooperate in providing additional water which will be needed in future expansion of the Amcelle plant.

Small Offers Idea

Commissioner Tederick and Fred T. Small, vice president of the Celanese Corporation of America, discussed informally an idea suggested by the former Amcelle plant manager for future facilities of the Savage River Dam.

Small had suggested tentative ideas for a future water treatment plant to purify water from the Potomac River, which might be located in the Cresaptown area.

He said the plan might be feasible when the Savage River Dam is in operation.

The dam, slated for completion by this fall, will provide satisfactory volume of water throughout the year and provide water which could be successfully treated for drinking or industrial purposes.

Small said the Army Engineers would have facilities to make a survey to determine the feasibility of such a project.

Chief advantage of the plan, Small said, would be the saving in pipe through letting the Potomac River bring the water to this area.

He said water from such a system could be made available for the communities and industries of the area.

Third Dam Desirable

The present two dams in Cumberland's water system, Small said, do not have sufficient capacity to supply present needs during a series of dry years.

The trouble, he said, is that if dry years were to come, the first users to be cut would be industries since water must be supplied for home use and fire protection.

Were it not for the Savage River Dam, which will maintain satisfactory water levels in the Potomac here, the same dry season which would reduce Cumberland's water supplies might cause a drop in the flow of the Potomac to the point where water would not be satisfactory for processing at the Amcelle plant.

Commissioner Tederick yesterday termed the idea a "good thought," but added the city does not want to lose the plant as a water customer.

City May End Fiscal Year With Surplus

Collections Total 95 Per Cent Of Levy

Officials were cheered this week with the possibility that the city may end the fiscal year with a substantial surplus.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday reported that excess collections as of April 30 totaled $30,343.65, with $95,721.55 still to be collected from the 1950 levy of $1,275,340.

Addition of the excess collections to the $1,209,962.10 already collected means that only $65,000 need come in by June 30 to meet the actual needs of the city. Collections already total 95 per cent of the levy.

There is a possibility, Gibson said, that collections may reach $50,000 in excess of the levy which will in a measure compensate for the $152,000 surplus on hand at the beginning of this fiscal year.

All of the uncollected items are in miscellaneous revenues, including license fees, general and special income, state auto license fees and state income tax.

Some appropriations, however, will go over previous estimates as a result of a $13 a month cost of living wage boost granted to all city employes last December, and the $12 a month increase granted to police and firemen by the General Assembly.

Gibson said some non recurring items in the present budget may compensate for a few departments which may be overdrawn at the end of the year.

The only department overdrawn at the end of April was the Recreation Department, by $2,748.24.

Collections from Penn Avenue Field and other rec events, plus the five cent admission tax on recreation events, may reduce the amount by the end of the fiscal year.

Expenditures were at the $812,431.38 mark, leaving a balance of $228,748.24 at the end of April.

Walburn Boy Dies Year After Assault

Beaten By Father At Deep Creek Lake

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—Two-year-old James Kenney Walburn, whose father was sentenced to 15 months in prison for assaulting him, died today at University Hospital.

The boy died after a brain operation, his fourth since he was attacked in a Garrett County cabin in October, 1949.

The father, James Roscoe Walburn, a former insurance salesman from Martinsburg, W. Va., drew a 15-month sentence in the Maryland House of Correction.

Dr. Russell Fisher, medical examiner, said after an autopsy, that "death was due to delayed effects of the beating." He said that in his report tomorrow to State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro he will list the specific cause as "late effect of trauma to the brain."

Walburn had two trials. At the first trial, in March, 1950, the mother, Mrs. Therese J. Walburn testified Walburn had attacked the baby in their cabin near Deep Creek Lake.

She said he had squeezed the 5-month-old baby between his legs because he had been crying. She said Walburn also had struck and slapped the boy.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce sentenced Walburn to eight years but a new trial was granted after counsel contended the punishment was excessive.

Last March 27, Walburn again was found guilty of assault and was sentenced by Associate Judge George Henderson to 15 months.

At the first trial, Dr. Luis Manganiello, a neuro-surgeon at University Hospital, testified that the child was blind and that parts of his brain tissues had been destroyed as the result of blows.

A grand jury failed to indict Walburn on four other counts in connection with the case, all involving various assault charges.

Walburn, who is now 31, pleaded innocent.

Bowling Green Taxing Area Hearing Set

County Board Will Meet Friday, June 1

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will hold a public hearing at Bowlng Green Fire Hall at 7:30 p. m. Friday, June 1, for a public discussion and explanation of the proposed Bowling Green Special Taxing Area.

Under terms of the act of the recent State Legislature, the commissioners are required to hold a public hearing at least 10 days before the voters of Bowling Green hold a referendum on the proposed Bowling Green Special Taxing Area.

A two-fold election will be held in the McMullen Highway community Tuesday, June 12. At that time Bowling Green residents will ballot on the creation of the taxing area and also will elect nine members to a Board of Managers of the area. Should the referendum pass the nine residents will have been elected so they can administer the taxing area. Board members will be elected on write-in votes.

The election will be held from 9 a. m. until 10 p. m. June 12. The Board of Election Supervisors for the special voting will be Ralph D. King, Mrs. Russell L. Shrontz, Mrs. D. I. DeWitt, Paul Ross, Mrs. Harry Utterback, Mrs. Donald I. Hollis and Mrs. B. C. McIlwee.

If approved, the taxing area will enable Bowling Green to install fire plugs every 600 feet in the community, to establish street lights and lay about 1,500 feet of six-inch water line along Cresap Drive. It is understood that all other water lines in the community are now adequate.

A decision to hold the public hearing was made at the county commissioners' meeting yesterday.

Magistrate Thompson's Grandson Gets Naval Academy Appointment

Judge To Celebrate 70th Birthday Sunday

Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson received a most pleasant birthday announcement yesterday when he learned his grandson, Alban Thompson McIsaac, 17, had been given an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Although not planning to celebrate the occasion until Sunday when he will have his family together at his home, 208 Saratoga Street, and cut the birthday cake at 2 o'clock, Thompson was 70 years old yesterday.

And yesterday afternoon he received a call from his grandson in Newport, R. I., who informed him the youth had passed a presidential examination taken in April for the appointment to the academy. The examinations were given to boys whose fathers are officers in the Army or Navy, Thompson said.

The grandson is the son of Capt. John Malcolm McIsaac and Mrs. Nova Thompson McIsaac and is attending Rogers High School in Newport where he will be graduated this year. The boy expects to enter the Naval Academy in the fall, Thompson noted.

The youth has been a frequent visitor to Cumberland with his parents and expects to visit his grandfather sometime in June with his mother before they join Capt. McIsaac in Puerto Rico, where he recently has been transferred. Although the boy has traveled extensively, being in Hawaii at the time of the Pearl Harbor bombing, and went to the Rhode Island school only one year he will graduate with many honors, Judge Thompson said, and has been a very popular student and athlete.

Young McIsaac has a brother, John Malcolm McIsaac, a student at Brown University, Providence, R. I.

The McIsaacs are not expected to be able to attend Judge Thompsons' birthday celebration although the latter's wife, Mrs. Bertha May Thompson and a daughter and son-in-law, Prof. and Mrs. Samuel B. Craig, Edgewood, Pa., and a few friends will be there. Prof. Craig is superintendent of West Penn School for Deaf at Edgewood and Mrs. Craig is the former Hazel Thompson.

Fairchild War Contracts May Aid Cumberland

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) said he was advised today by the Air Force of plans for enlarging the Fairchild Aviation Corp. plant at Hagerstown, Md.

An estimated $7,000,000 will be spent, he said, on enlarging plant and hangar space to care for increased production of the company's battle-tested transport plane, the C-119.

The Senator said he is asking that as much of the sub-contracting as possible to be routed to the Cumberland, Md., area to make use of an abundant supply of skilled labor there.

Beneficial effects on employment resulting from the proposed enlargement of the plant, he said, should be felt throughout Western Maryland.

No. 6 contestant in the group of nine who vied for the honors Miss Engle sang "If I Loved You" as her talent number and re-ceived her crown of glory from last year's Miss Cumberland, Barbara Lee Fulton, assisted by Miss Frostburg, Miss Betty Ward. First runner-up to the lovely brown-haired and blue-eyed Frostburg girl was Miss Irene Keller (No. 3), Cumberland, who sang "Bewitched" even though troubled with a touch of bronchitis. Second runner-up was pert little Miss Phyllis Riggleman, McCoole, (No. 4) who modeled clothes which she made herself. The 19-year-old winner captured first place in the bathing suit phase of the judging and was second in both talent and evening gowns, to gain her winning margin. The other two girls ran a very close second and third in the final tabulation of the judges.

Softeners Termed Unnecessary In Automatic Washers In City

You don't have to use water softener in your automatic washing machine in Cumberland.

That is the answer the Water Department gives many times a week when housewives call to determine whether or not softener should be added, George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company said.

He said the city water supply averages only 72 part per million of minerals which cause hardness.

Authorities report, he explained, that it is undesirable to reduce the hardness below 50 to 75 by the lime-soda ash process.

Softening agents should be used, however, if the percentage runs between 100 and 150.

Water which is rated at 250 or above should not be used in the home, he added.

City water also rates very high in reference to solids. To be included in the highest quality class, water should contain less than 300 parts of solids.

Cumberland's water contained 122 parts in a recent analysis.

Water containing more than 300 parts per million of solids should not be used in boilers, due to its corrosive action.

Only in alkalinity does the city water exceed the ideal, rating 58 p.p.m. as compared to the normal 50 parts.

Receding Water Aids In Savage River Dam Work

Bulkhead In Tunnel In Base Is Removed

The receding of water in Savage River for the first time since December has enabled Army Engineers to knock out a bulkhead in the Savage River Dam tunnel this week and work will be completed shortly, engineers said.

The completion of the tunnel and control chamber had been held up by high water engineers noted, and now that construction can be continued it is expected the entire Savage River Dam project will be finished before September.

Bulkhead Removed

Workers built the bulkhead in the 10-foot tunnel through the base of the dam in December to hold back the water while the tunnel was being constructed. Upon completion of the tunnel engineers intended to build the 20-foot square control chamber above the tunnel, in the base of the dam.

However because the water which was backed up by a wooden bulkhead in the tunnel did not recede enough to enable the workers to knock out the barrier and construction of the chamber has been held up, engineers explained.

Wednesday, water began receding and dropped over 25 feet in a matter of 24 hours and the barrier finally was removed. Work has now begun on the chamber which will control the four flood gates to be used to regulate the flow of water through the tunnel.

Upon completion of the regulating chamber the main control tower atop the huge earthen structure will be undertaken, engineers related. It is expected this will be finished in September and is the final phase of the dam's construction.

River Flow Regulated

Upon completion of the dam the flow of Savage River into the Potomac River will be regulated with impounded water in the Savage River basin permitted to flow from the dam only in extreme emergency, they said.

The basin which covers an area of approximately 150 acres can be completely inundated to a height of 146 feet behind the dam before the water spills over the barrier.

The dam measures 1,500 feet in width and 150 feet high with a thickness of 1,000 feet at the base and 20 feet at the top. A caretaker will be in charge of controls at all times.

City Will Expand Water System If Needed For New Industries

Treatment Plant Near Cresaptown Suggested

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick reported yesterday that Cumberland's water system can be expanded sufficiently to take care of the needs of existing and new industries.

The commissioner estimated that additional filtration facilities at Lake Gordon would enable the city to supply an additional 6,000,000 gallons of pure water a day.

The construction of a third dam above Lake Koon would impound additional water and enable the city to conserve more of the water produced on the Evitts Creek watershed, he said.

None of these measures are needed at present, when average daily consumption is exceeding 12,000,000 gallons a day.

He said the department will be glad to cooperate in providing additional water which will be needed in future expansion of the Amcelle plant.

Small Offers Idea

Commissioner Tederick and Fred T. Small, vice president of the Celanese Corporation of America, discussed informally an idea suggested by the former Amcelle plant manager for future facilities of the Savage River Dam.

Small had suggested tentative ideas for a future water treatment plant to purify water from the Potomac River, which might be located in the Cresaptown area.

He said the plan might be feasible when the Savage River Dam is in operation.

The dam, slated for completion by this fall, will provide satisfactory volume of water throughout the year and provide water which could be successfully treated for drinking or industrial purposes.

Small said the Army Engineers would have facilities to make a survey to determine the feasibility of such a project.

Chief advantage of the plan, Small said, would be the saving in pipe through letting the Potomac River bring the water to this area.

He said water from such a system could be made available for the communities and industries of the area.

Third Dam Desirable

The present two dams in Cumberland's water system, Small said, do not have sufficient capacity to supply present needs during a series of dry years.

The trouble, he said, is that if dry years were to come, the first users to be cut would be industries since water must be supplied for home use and fire protection.

Were it not for the Savage River Dam, which will maintain satisfactory water levels in the Potomac here, the same dry season which would reduce Cumberland's water supplies might cause a drop in the flow of the Potomac to the point where water would not be satisfactory for processing at the Amcelle plant.

Commissioner Tederick yesterday termed the idea a "good thought," but added the city does not want to lose the plant as a water customer.

City May End Fiscal Year With Surplus

Collections Total 95 Per Cent Of Levy

Officials were cheered this week with the possibility that the city may end the fiscal year with a substantial surplus.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday reported that excess collections as of April 30 totaled $30,343.65, with $95,721.55 still to be collected from the 1950 levy of $1,275,340.

Addition of the excess collections to the $1,209,962.10 already collected means that only $65,000 need come in by June 30 to meet the actual needs of the city. Collections already total 95 per cent of the levy.

There is a possibility, Gibson said, that collections may reach $50,000 in excess of the levy which will in a measure compensate for the $152,000 surplus on hand at the beginning of this fiscal year.

All of the uncollected items are in miscellaneous revenues, including license fees, general and special income, state auto license fees and state income tax.

Some appropriations, however, will go over previous estimates as a result of a $13 a month cost of living wage boost granted to all city employes last December, and the $12 a month increase granted to police and firemen by the General Assembly.

Gibson said some non recurring items in the present budget may compensate for a few departments which may be overdrawn at the end of the year.

The only department overdrawn at the end of April was the Recreation Department, by $2,748.24.

Collections from Penn Avenue Field and other rec events, plus the five cent admission tax on recreation events, may reduce the amount by the end of the fiscal year.

Expenditures were at the $812,431.38 mark, leaving a balance of $228,748.24 at the end of April.

Walburn Boy Dies Year After Assault

Beaten By Father At Deep Creek Lake

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—Two-year-old James Kenney Walburn, whose father was sentenced to 15 months in prison for assaulting him, died today at University Hospital.

The boy died after a brain operation, his fourth since he was attacked in a Garrett County cabin in October, 1949.

The father, James Roscoe Walburn, a former insurance salesman from Martinsburg, W. Va., drew a 15-month sentence in the Maryland House of Correction.

Dr. Russell Fisher, medical examiner, said after an autopsy, that "death was due to delayed effects of the beating." He said that in his report tomorrow to State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro he will list the specific cause as "late effect of trauma to the brain."

Walburn had two trials. At the first trial, in March, 1950, the mother, Mrs. Therese J. Walburn testified Walburn had attacked the baby in their cabin near Deep Creek Lake.

She said he had squeezed the 5-month-old baby between his legs because he had been crying. She said Walburn also had struck and slapped the boy.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce sentenced Walburn to eight years but a new trial was granted after counsel contended the punishment was excessive.

Last March 27, Walburn again was found guilty of assault and was sentenced by Associate Judge George Henderson to 15 months.

At the first trial, Dr. Luis Manganiello, a neuro-surgeon at University Hospital, testified that the child was blind and that parts of his brain tissues had been destroyed as the result of blows.

A grand jury failed to indict Walburn on four other counts in connection with the case, all involving various assault charges.

Walburn, who is now 31, pleaded innocent.

Bowling Green Taxing Area Hearing Set

County Board Will Meet Friday, June 1

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will hold a public hearing at Bowling Green Fire Hall at 7:30 p. m. Friday, June 1, for a public discussion and explanation of the proposed Bowling Green Special Taxing Area.

Under terms of the act of the recent State Legislature, the commissioners are required to hold a public hearing at least 10 days before the voters of Bowling Green hold a referendum on the proposed Bowling Green Special Taxing Area.

A two-fold election will be held in the McMullen Highway community Tuesday, June 12. At that time Bowling Green residents will ballot on the creation of the taxing area and also will elect nine members to a Board of Managers of the area. Should the referendum pass the nine residents will have been elected so they can administer the taxing area. Board members will be elected on write-in votes.

The election will be held from 9 a. m. until 10 p. m. June 12. The Board of Election Supervisors for the special voting will be Ralph D. King, Mrs. Russell L. Shrontz, Mrs. D. I. DeWitt, Paul Ross, Mrs. Harry Utterback, Mrs. Donald I. Hollis and Mrs. B. C. McIlwee.

If approved, the taxing area will enable Bowling Green to install fire plugs every 600 feet in the community, to establish street lights and lay about 1,500 feet of six-inch water line along Cresap Drive. It is understood that all other water lines in the community are now adequate.

A decision to hold the public hearing was made at the county commissioners' meeting yesterday.

Magistrate Thompson's Grandson Gets Naval Academy Appointment

Judge To Celebrate 70th Birthday Sunday

Juvenile Court Magistrate Alban C. Thompson received a most pleasant birthday announcement yesterday when he learned his grandson, Alban Thompson McIsaac, 17, had been given an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Although not planning to celebrate the occasion until Sunday when he will have his family together at his home, 208 Saratoga Street, and cut the birthday cake at 2 o'clock, Thompson was 70 years old yesterday.

And yesterday afternoon he received a call from his grandson in Newport, R. I., who informed him the youth had passed a presidential examination taken in April for the appointment to the academy. The examinations were given to boys whose fathers are officers in the Army or Navy, Thompson said.

The grandson is the son of Capt. John Malcolm McIsaac and Mrs. Nova Thompson McIsaac and is attending Rogers High School in Newport where he will be graduated this year. The boy expects to enter the Naval Academy in the fall, Thompson noted.

The youth has been a frequent visitor to Cumberland with his parents and expects to visit his grandfather sometime in June with his mother before they join Capt. McIsaac in Puerto Rico, where he recently has been transferred. Although the boy has traveled extensively, being in Hawaii at the time of the Pearl Harbor bombing, and went to the Rhode Island school only one year he will graduate with many honors, Judge Thompson said, and has been a very popular student and athlete.

Young McIsaac has a brother, John Malcolm McIsaac, a student at Brown University, Providence, R. I.

The McIsaacs are not expected to be able to attend Judge Thompsons' birthday celebration although the latter's wife, Mrs. Bertha May Thompson and a daughter and son-in-law, Prof. and Mrs. Samuel B. Craig, Edgewood, Pa., and a few friends will be there. Prof. Craig is superintendent of West Penn School for Deaf at Edgewood and Mrs. Craig is the former Hazel Thompson.

Softeners Termed Unnecessary In Automatic Washers In City

You don't have to use water softener in your automatic washing machine in Cumberland.

That is the answer the Water Department gives many times a week when housewives call to determine whether or not softener should be added, George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company said.

He said the city water supply averages only 72 part per million of minerals which cause hardness.

Authorities report, he explained, that it is undesirable to reduce the hardness below 50 to 75 by the lime-soda ash process.

Softening agents should be used, however, if the percentage runs between 100 and 150.

Water which is rated at 250 or above should not be used in the home, he added.

City water also rates very high in reference to solids. To be included in the highest quality class, water should contain less than 300 parts of solids.

Water containing more than 300 parts per million of solids should not be used in boilers, due to its corrosive action.

Only in alkalinity does the city water exceed the ideal, rating 58 p.p.m. as compared to the normal 50 parts.

Receding Water Aids In Savage River Dam Work

Bulkhead In Tunnel In Base Is Removed

The receding of water in Savage River for the first time since December has enabled Army Engineers to knock out a bulkhead in the Savage River Dam tunnel this week and work will be completed shortly, engineers said.

The completion of the tunnel and control chamber had been held up by high water engineers noted, and now that construction can be continued it is expected the entire Savage River Dam project will be finished before September.

Bulkhead Removed

Workers built the bulkhead in the 10-foot tunnel through the base of the dam in December to hold back the water while the tunnel was being constructed. Upon completion of the tunnel engineers intended to build the 20-foot square control chamber above the tunnel, in the base of the dam.

However because the water which was backed up by a wooden bulkhead in the tunnel did not recede enough to enable the workers to knock out the barrier and construction of the chamber has been held up, engineers explained.

Wednesday, water began receding and dropped over 25 feet in a matter of 24 hours and the barrier finally was removed. Work has now begun on the chamber which will control the four flood gates to be used to regulate the flow of water through the tunnel.

Upon completion of the regulating chamber the main control tower atop the huge earthen structure will be undertaken, engineers related. It is expected this will be finished in September and is the final phase of the dam's construction.

River Flow Regulated

Upon completion of the dam the flow of Savage River into the Potomac River will be regulated with impounded water in the Savage River basin permitted to flow from the dam only in extreme emergency, they said.

The basin which covers an area of approximately 150 acres can be completely inundated to a height of 146 feet behind the dam before the water spills over the barrier.

The dam measures 1,500 feet in width and 150 feet high with a thickness of 1,000 feet at the base and 20 feet at the top. A caretaker will be in charge of controls at all times.
